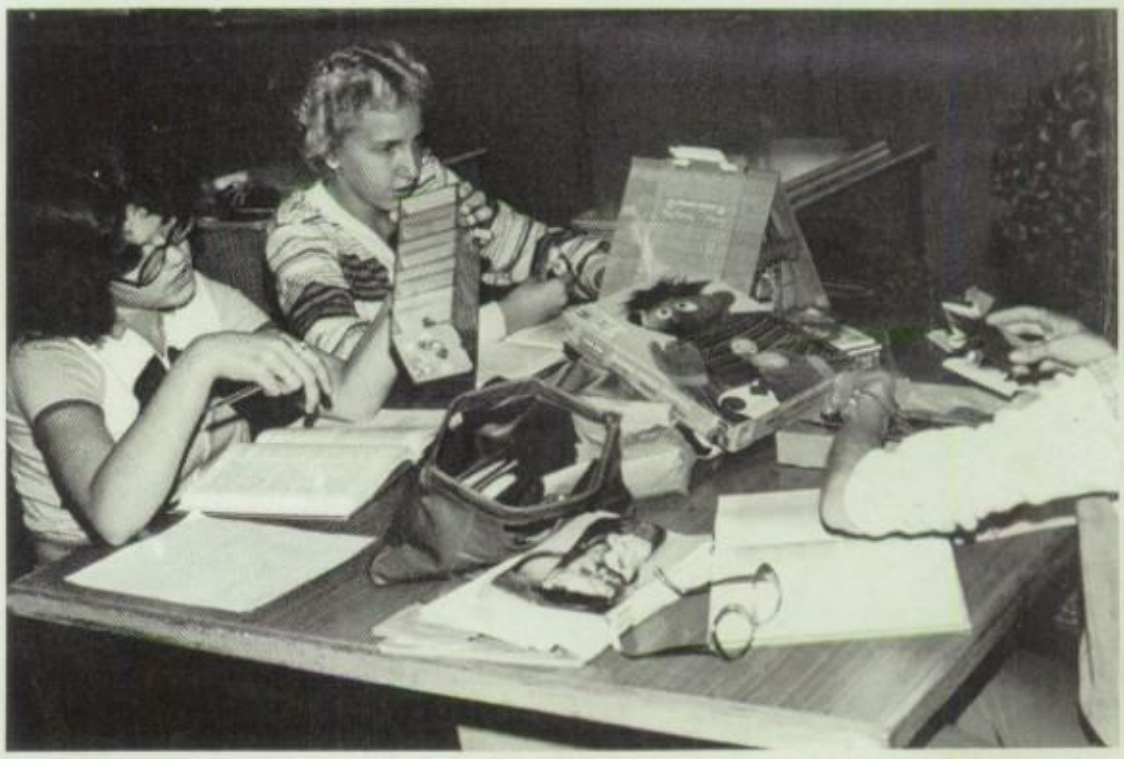
Kewanee, Illinois 61443

Now Showing: KHS 1979-1980

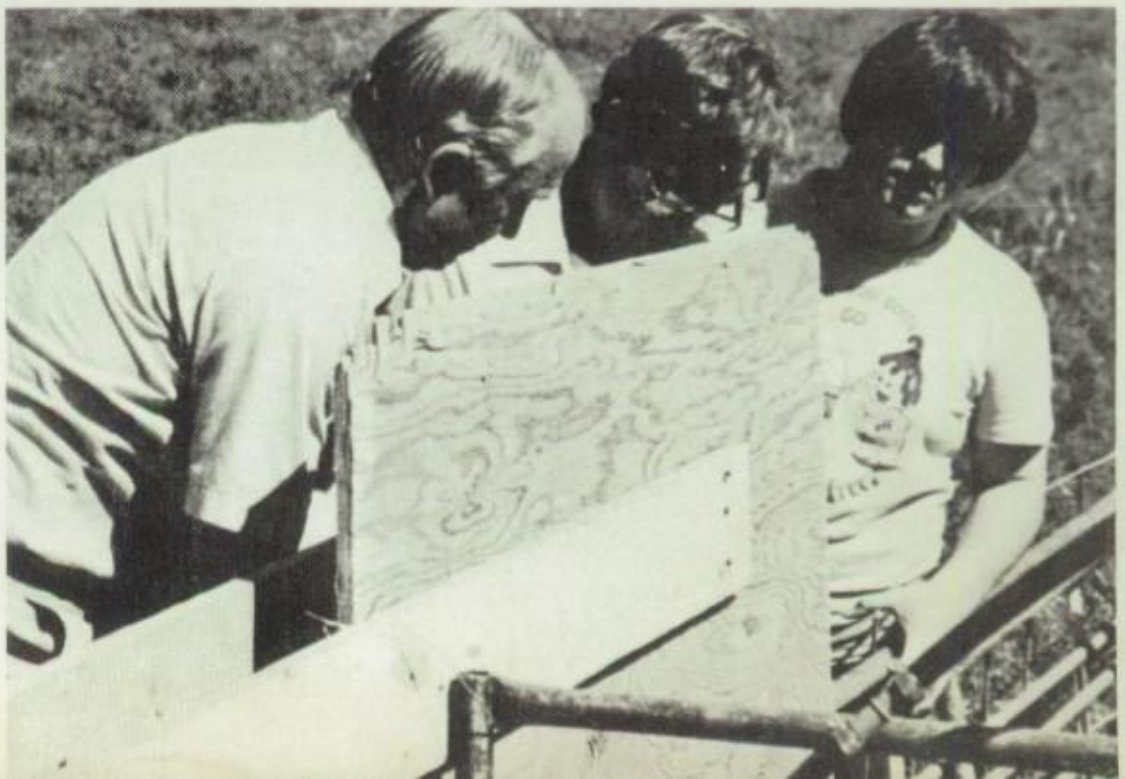
Now showing at Kewanee High School . . . 1979-1980 school year . . . Opening day—August 28. It can be said this year was one of the best that has "played" in Kewanee. Admission to KHS long-playing year started the last week of August. After one frantic week of "ticket-taking" and "doing the books," we paused for a short intermission—Hog Days. With this intermission over, students settled back in their seats for one of the most exciting years in recent KHS history. Studies, clubs, and sports kept the show going throughout the year. Christmas and mini-courses were a much needed intermission. But the show must go on, and so it did. As it progressed, the 1979-1980 school year became a show to be remembered.



Each student must take four years of P.E.

Ron Brown is a familiar sight in the halls.

Playing with toys is sometimes educational.



Agriculture involves much outdoor work.

Teachers often make an extra effort to help students. Mr. Morrison works with one of his welding students.

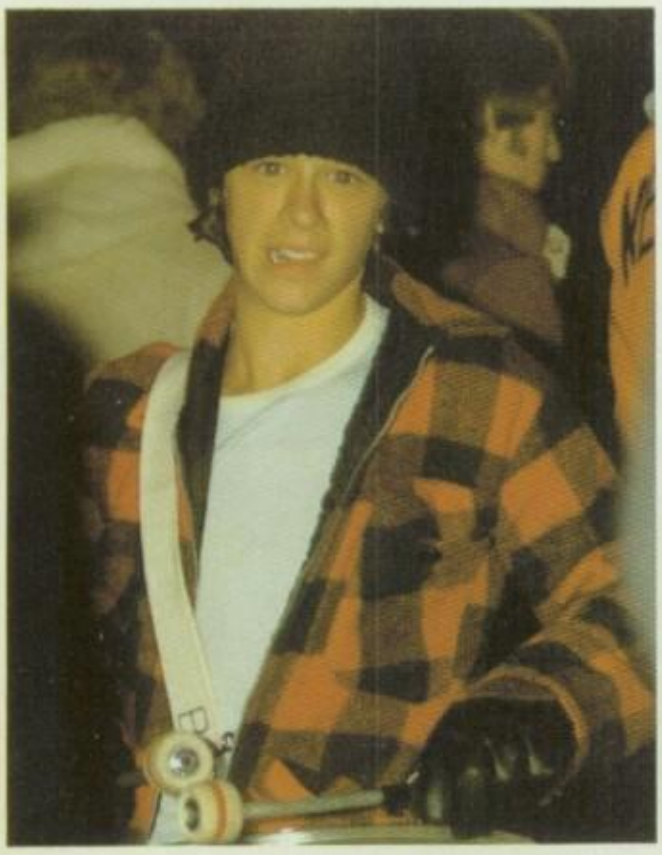
Most KHS students always have something to do, including Scott Schwefel.

No matter what the record, Boilermakers are always energetic and willing to pull for the school.

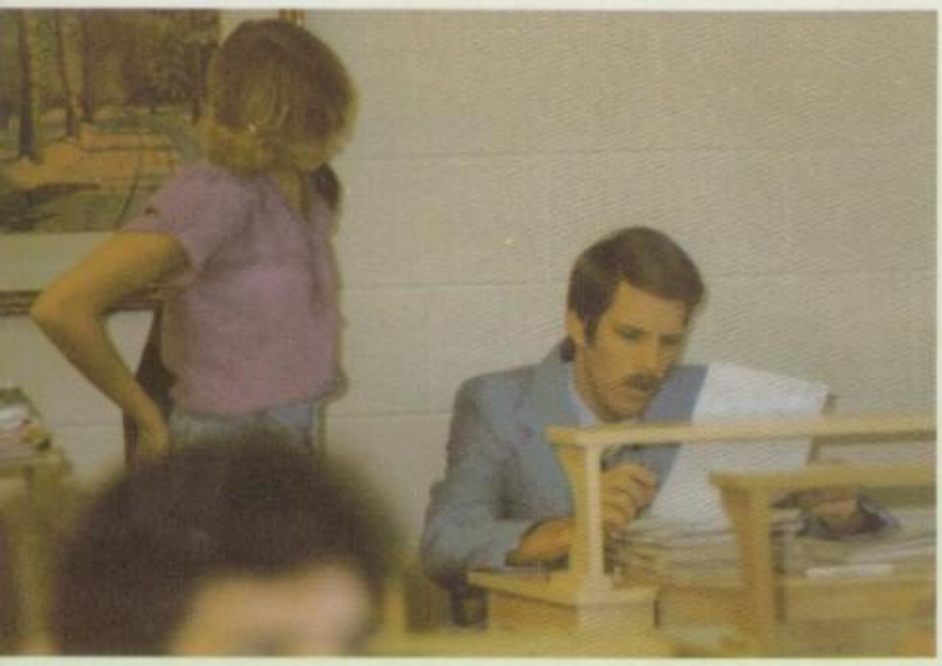
Band members are always willing to brave the cold to offer a warming tune.



Since no student can escape P.E., the Physical Education Department tries to make the class fun as well as educational.

Some classes are not as interesting as others, but students like Marcia Coné manage to live through them all.

Darting from class to class, worrying about exams, and having a good time are all common to a KHS student.



Mr. VanHootegem takes some time to explain an assignment to Jodi Wager. Most teachers have a genuine concern for the students.

Students in Home Economics learn about life after KHS. Preparation for later life is the true purpose of high school.

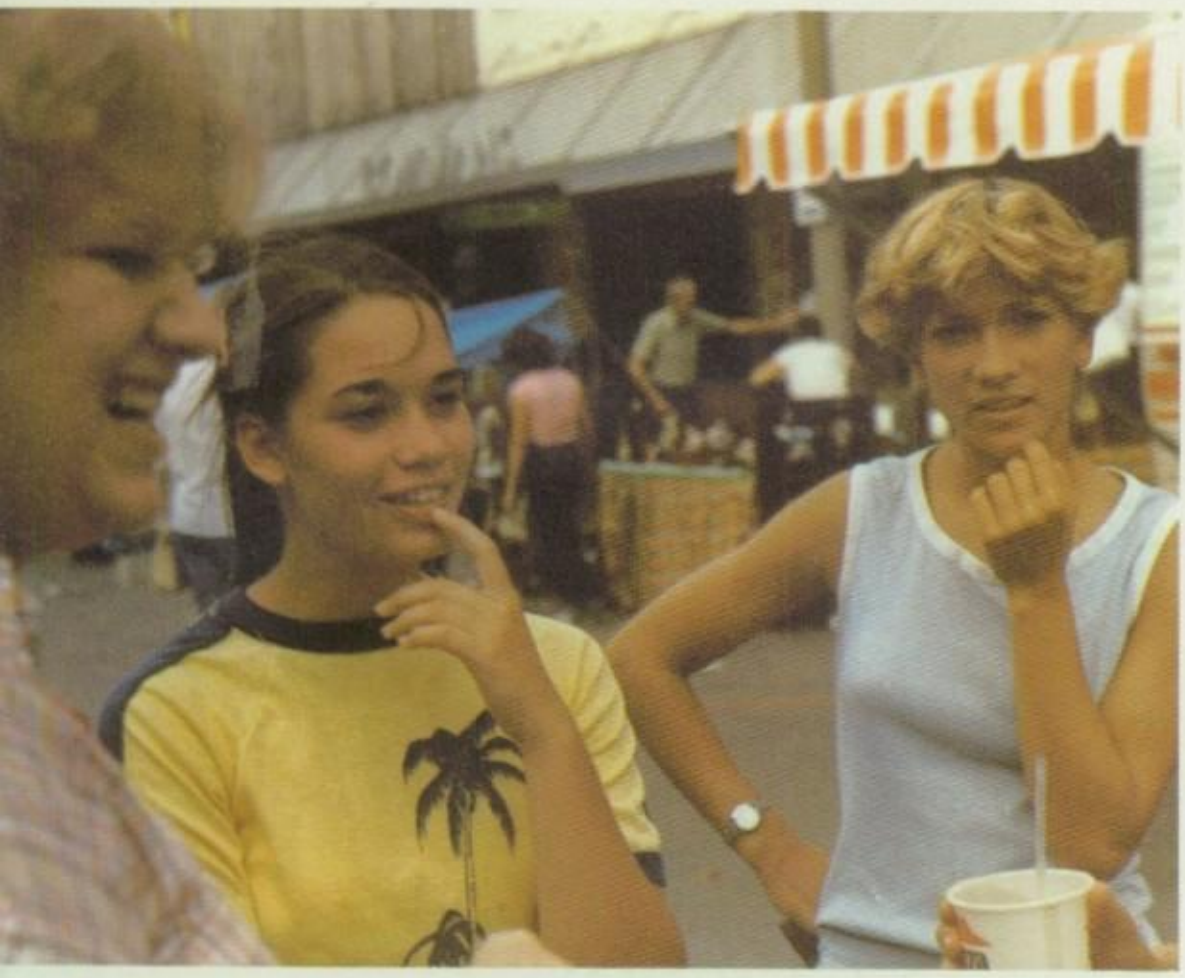
Pork and Play

As the pork industry still thrives in Kewanee, the town continues to hold its annual Hog Day festivities. In a town parking lot, pork chops were sold to hungry pork lovers over the Labor Day weekend. The carnival, set up in down-town Kewanee, stayed for four days and became the center of attraction. The annual Hog Days parade featured floats, bands, and queens. The Hog Days activities provided a short break from what was soon to become a very routine schedule for high school students.

KHS Poms help each other out before performing at the Hog Days talent show. The girls received a second place trophy for their performance.

Attempting to go over the top, Mike Heinrich and Steve Salisbury try out the cages, one of the most popular rides at the carnival.

Taking a break, Mike Rose and his younger brother stop to observe the crowd at the carnival.



Juniors Lori Felton, Cindy Parish, and Kami Sturtevant stop to talk with a friend. Hog Days gave students a chance to get together once school had started.

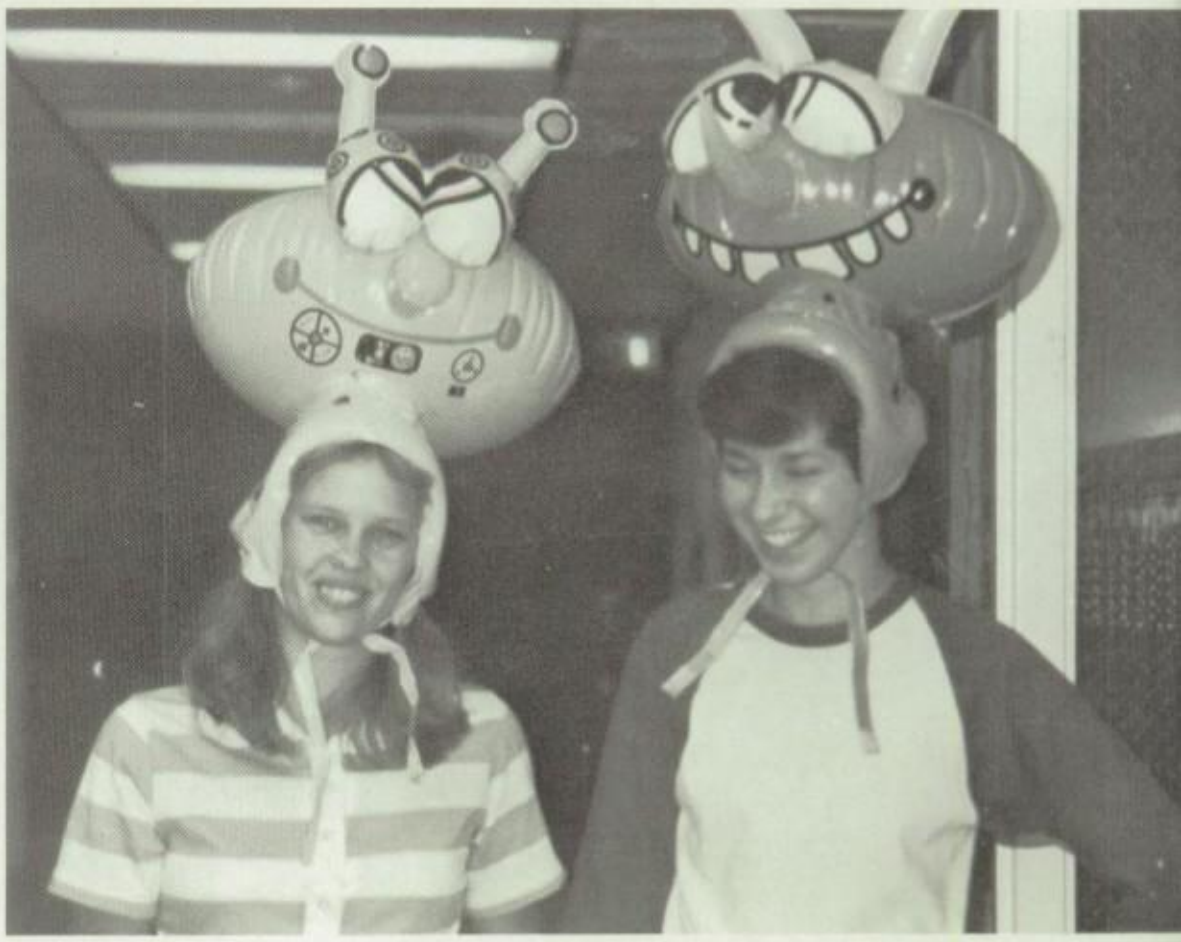
In hopes of winning a prize, Brian Vickrey takes careful aim at a target in a carnival booth. Game booths lined the streets in order to persuade the crowds to try their luck.

Showing Off Spirit

Homecoming Week was a week of student participation in KHS. For the second year a sweepstakes was held during "Spirit Week." The Junior Class was announced sweepstakes winner at halftime of the Homecoming game. A big bonfire lighted the sky as students watched and listened to speeches given by the attendants. The FFA was in charge of wood-collecting for the fire. The bonfire was followed by a Social Hour with Rick McGuire from KIIK radio station acting as D.J. The Homecoming assembly turned out to be a rivalry between Juniors and Seniors. Students showed enthusiasm throughout the week.

The Bonfire was topped by boat donated by the Sea Explorers Club. The "S.S. Ottawa" perished in the flames.

The Honorary Boilermaker award was given to Dr. Stewart, and was accepted at the assembly by Dr. Terry.



Hats of various kinds could be seen in the halls on Hat Day. Wearing unusual hats, seniors Marcia Conè and Sue Craddock showed enthusiasm and spirit.

Performing in the winning skit, sophomores do their own version of "Saturday Night Live."

Before they could enter the high school building for the Social Hour, featuring Rick McGuire, fans were warmed by the bonfire.

Homecoming Pride

The assembly, all quiet. As all six attendants stood on the stage, the 1979-1980 Homecoming Queen was announced. Standing in front of the entire Student body, Kelle Lindbeck discovered she was awarded this honor. As Queen, Kelle's court included two senior attendants, Jodi Wager and Angela Hansen; junior attendant, Donna Hancock; sophomore attendant, Kathy Kaine; and freshman attendant, Karen Farber. The final part of the assembly, the announcement of the Queen, was soon followed by the parade. As usual it included the band, attendants, and homeroom floats. Class floats were also allowed in this year's parade. The winning class float belonged to the Junior Class.

Helping her freshmen homeroom, Mrs. Barto drives their winning float.

Kathy Mayberry displays her refreshing spirit in the parade.

Steve Kuffel plays his heart out for the Marching Boilermakers.

The Riveter Cheerleaders liven up the parade with their spirited cheers.

Homeroom 31 goes to the dogs to show their Boiler spirit.

Sharing the honor of being chosen senior attendant, Jodi Wager and Angela Hansen smile pretty during the Homecoming parade.

The Final Event

As the final segment of Homecoming activities, the dance was attended by many couples. In charge of the dance, the Senior Class decorated the gym with fall decorations in order to set the mood of Halloween. Music was provided by "Now and Then".

Many couples decided to sit out this dance and watch the others.

The Boilermakers played a rough, cold Homecoming game, only to find the Ottawa Pirates too overpowering. Pregame activities included the presentation of the Homecoming Royalty and winning floats. Although fans backed the Boilers, the players were unable to pull off a victory. Half time entertainment was provided by the band and featured a marching routine to the Spanish song "Cordoba." The score at this time was 50-0. In the second half, improvement showed in Boiler defense. The final score was Ottawa—58, Boilers—8.

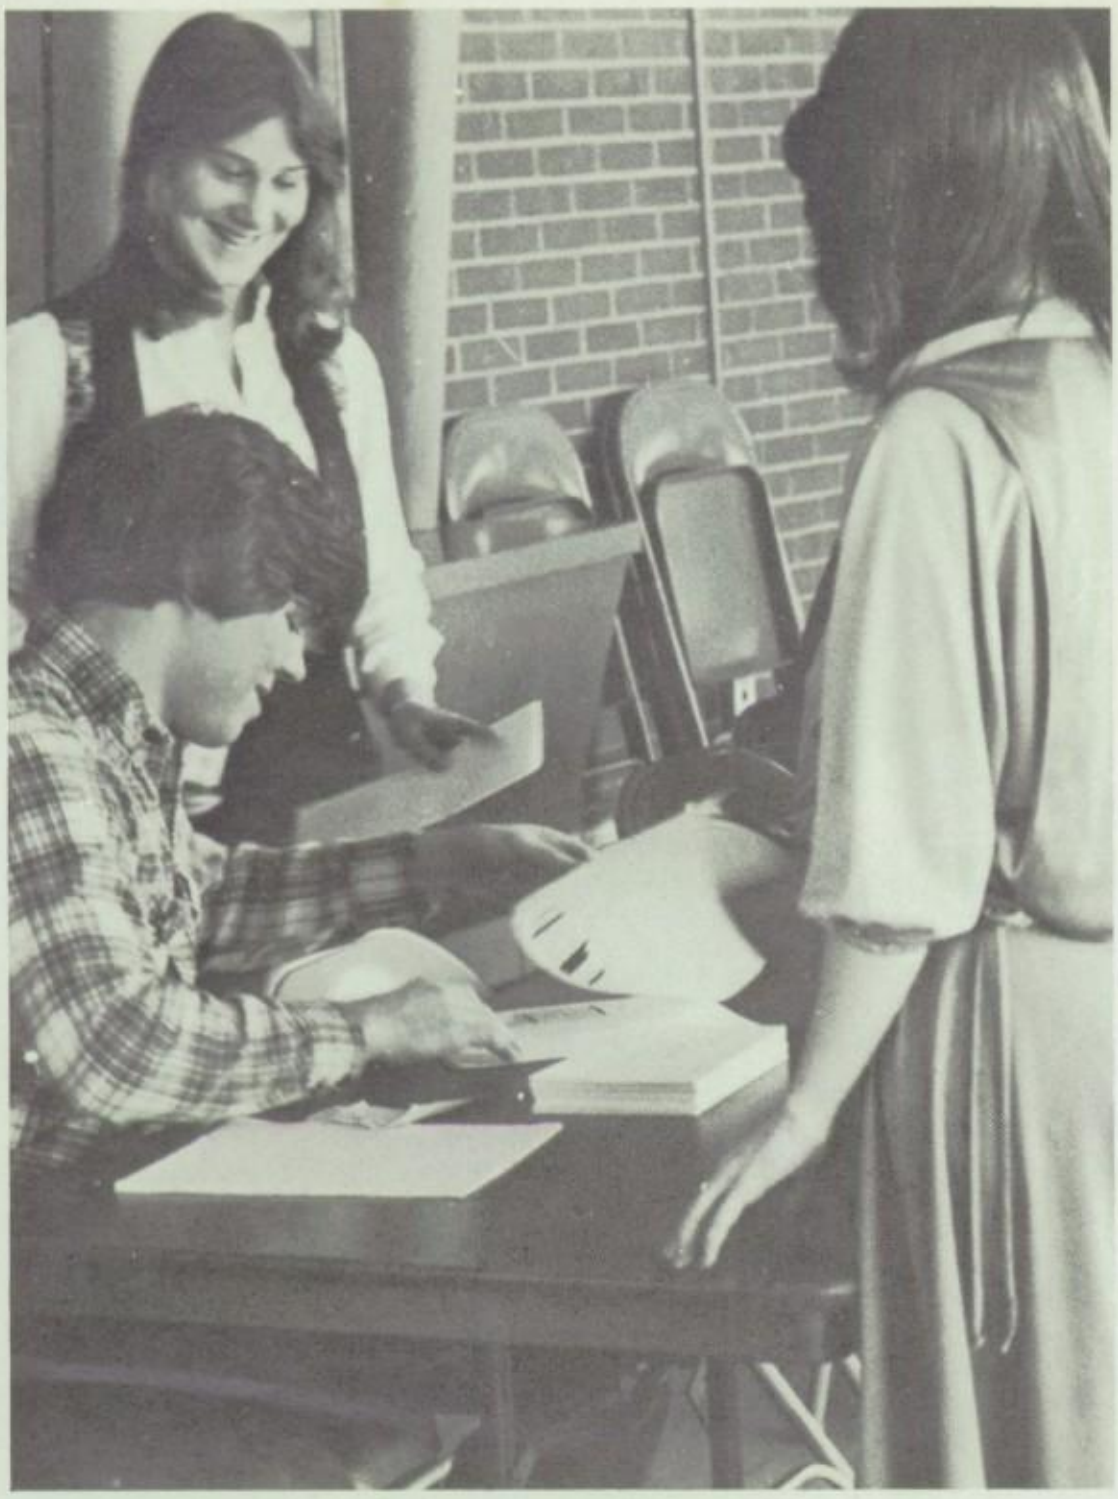
A Friendly Battle

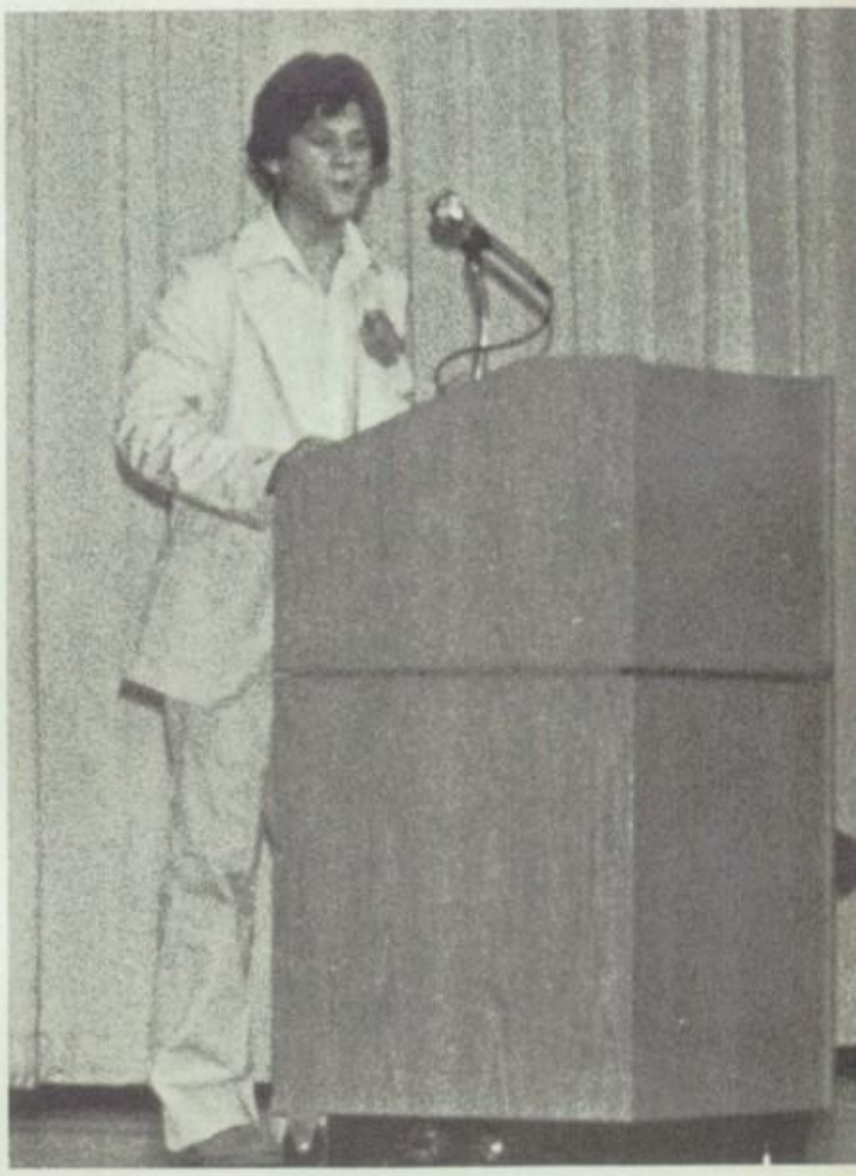
No mud-slinging, no vicious rivalry; just competition between friends. Such was the Student Council election held in the spring of 1979. The two candidates up for the position of president, Mark Kelley and Scott Kuffel, were good friends from the start, so there were no heated debates or degradation. On the final day of campaigning, the student body listened to proposals of both candidates. Two students from each class spoke on a nominee's behalf to convince their classmates of the better candidate. Students voted and the winner, Scott Kuffel, was announced in mid-afternoon.

Acting as Mark Kelley's grandmother, Jackie Gustafson tells the student body what a "fine, upstanding young man" Mark is. Mark and his speakers used humor to gain votes.

Students took time during lunch to vote.



All four classes were represented at the polls, as students from each class handed out ballots and kept records of those who voted. Senior representatives Tim Damron and Lynn DeKeyser cross Robin Hulslander's name off the list.



As a representative of the Junior Class, Scott Schwefel speaks on behalf of Scott Kuffel.

Straight and to the point, this sign expresses its choice for SCP. Signs were placed in the halls and on lockers throughout the school.

"The Clumsy Waltz" was one of the favorite dance scenes of the play, as the cast members awkwardly demonstrate.

A slippery floor proves to be quite a problem as Greg, Doug Currier, helps Cinderella up.

The Truth Comes Out

Contrary to the fairy tale version of Cinderella, the Junior Class Play exposed "The Truth About Cinderella." According to the play, Cinderella wasn't forced to work all the time; she did it to bring pity on herself. One of Cinderella's god-mothers, Dame Prudence, tried to show Cinderella that Cindy was only feeling sorry for herself. The other god-mother, Dame Wiley, was a bad influence on Cinderella. Weeks of practice made "The Truth About Cinderella" a success.

Showing Cinderella, Mary Seyller, the joys of "Guilt," Dame Wiley calls in her assistant witches.

As the slipper is placed on Cinderella's foot, the Prince, Dave Craddock, sings "Ready For You."

Minced squid doesn't seem to be one of Sir James', Dave Petersen, favorite dishes.

Arousing Student Interest

Throughout the year, KHS students enjoyed several assemblies. To encourage student support in school athletics, pep assemblies were again held on the days of some sports events. Cheers, coaches' speeches, and pom-pon and twirling routines were a basic part of these assemblies. For the first year, the Pep Club sat together in the center of the stands to raise spirit. Along with pep assemblies, several professional assemblies were presented to the student body. These included a clarinet choir from W.I.U., a professional archer, a memory expert, and a snake handler. The professional assemblies provided students with education and entertainment. KHS students were also offered a look at new countries through the assemblies given by AFS and AA students. The foreign students showed their countries and the AA students shared their experiences. The student body enjoyed a variety of assemblies during the year.

Giving out the spirit stick is one of the biggest moments during a pep assembly. The varsity cheerleaders try to decide which class deserves the coveted stick.

Learning that snakes aren't really slimy, students get a chance to feel a real snake.

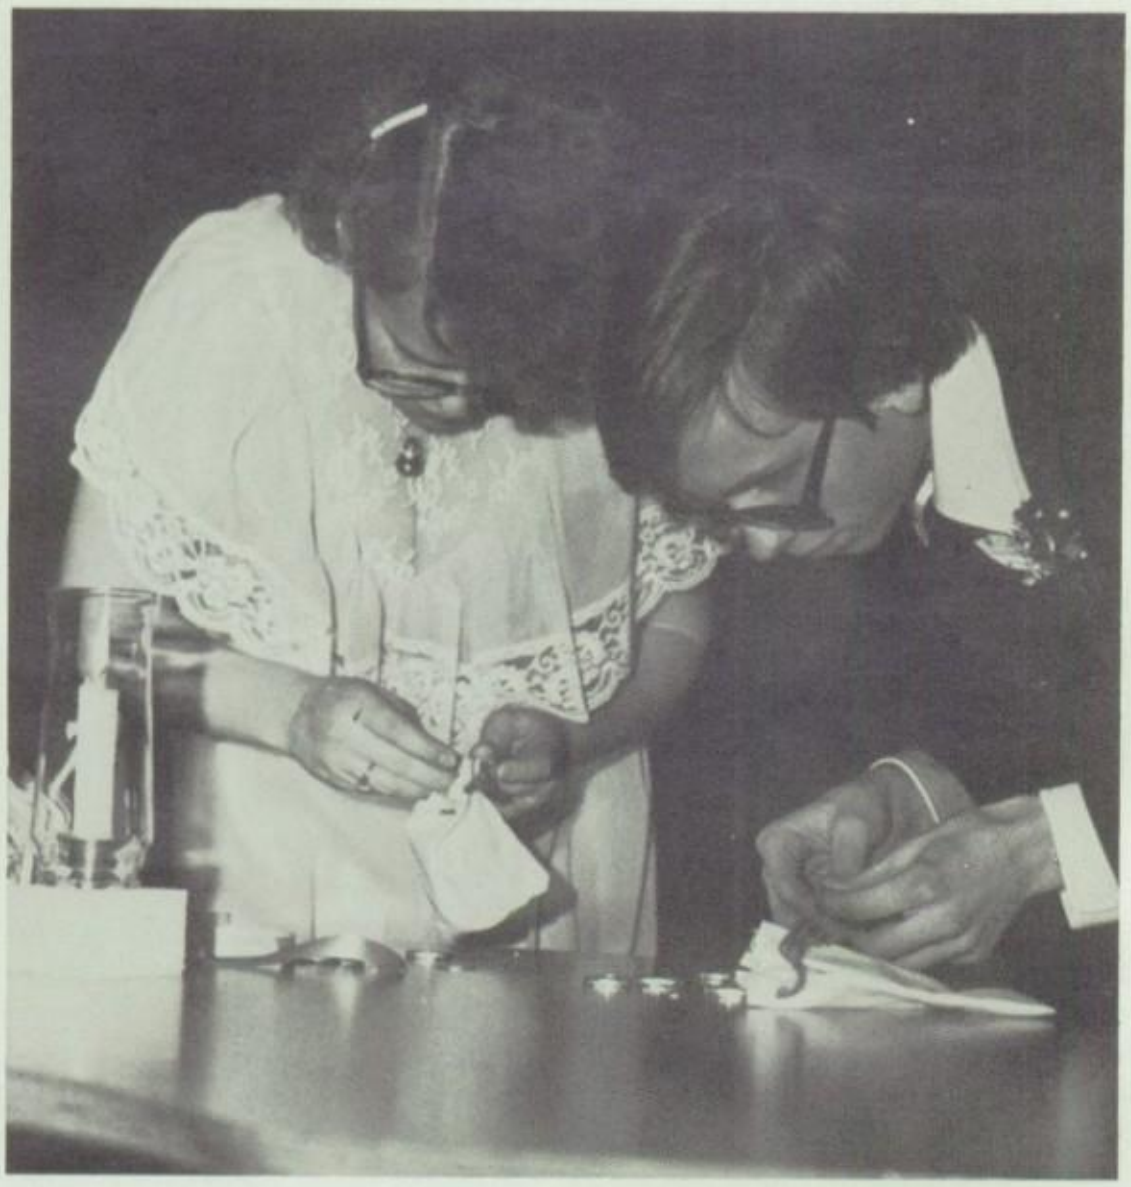
Scott Kuffel, an Americans Abroad Summer Exchange student, tells the student body of his unique experiences in Kenya.

O.G. Fitzgerald's presentation proved to be mind-taxing for all, including Mr. Uppinghouse. Audience participation is a popular part of professional assemblies.

A few underclassmen try their luck at one of the various games scattered about the gym floor.

At the Mid-Winter Dance, Mark Kelley and Amy Peterson examine some of the props used to create the atmosphere of the Wild West.

A Rootin'-Tootin' Good Time



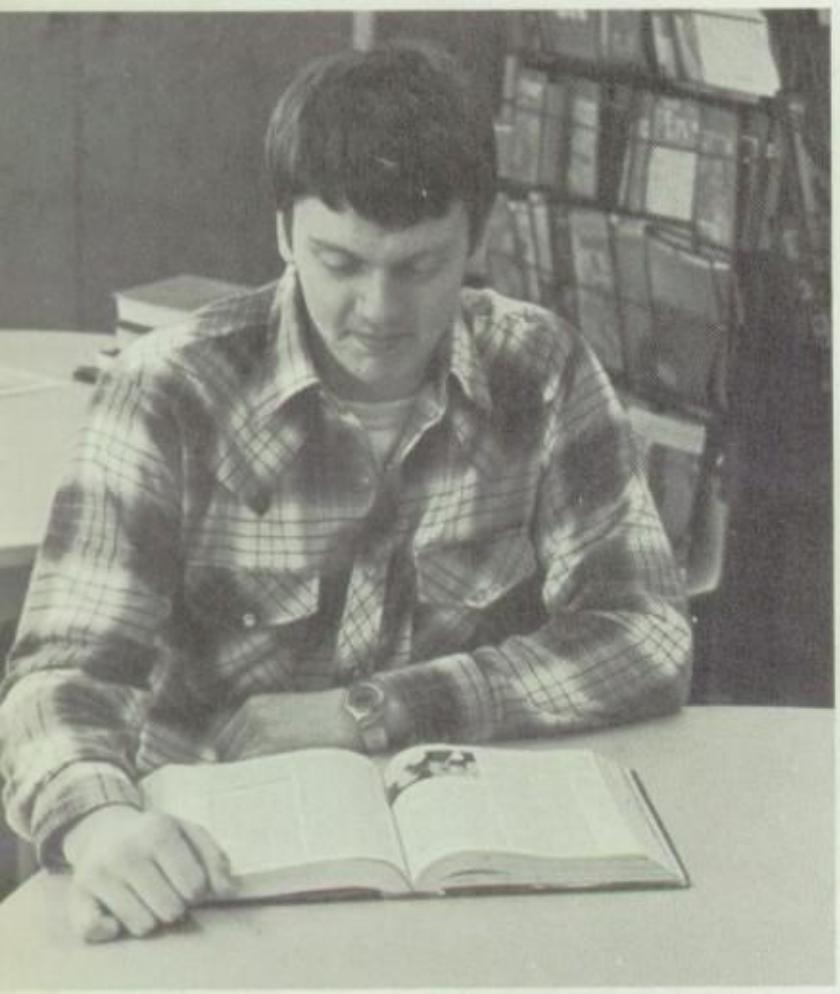
On February ninth, Key club recreated "The Wild West" as the setting for the Mid-Winter Dance. Upon entering the gym, each couple received a bag of gold and encountered the atmosphere of a scene out of the Wild West. There were tables which had different games where the couples either lost or made some gold. Students serving at the dance were dressed up in typical western gambling suits. The music, presented by The Henry Street Four, provided a little romance for the couples. The Key club made the Mid-Winter Dance special for everyone.

Looking over their bags of gold, Danny Wickey and Becky Calhoun prepare to play a few games.

Upon deciding to "sit this one out," Tim Smith and his date take in the many sights and happenings of Mid-Winter Dance.

Despite the power outage that night, Debbie Nuding and Greg Engstrom enjoy themselves playing a game by candlelight.

Clowning around in front of the school wall, AFSers Katekao Tuntiprawon and Jean-Philippe Heymans play in a bit of Kewanee snow. Winter in Illinois is very different than winter in their homelands.



Kewanee High School enjoyed the presence of senior Eric Lindberg who transferred here from Sweden.

Kewanee students welcomed students from Germany and Ethiopia. Connie Oberst and Abrham Ayele fitted in quickly as part of the student body.

Kewanee Plays Host

Since Kewanee High School offered many courses that were not offered in other schools, several students came from outside of Kewanee to share the benefits of KHS with Kewanee students. KHS hosted students from neighboring cities such as Annawan, Bradford, Neponset, Western, Galva and Wethersfield. Kewanee High School was also fortunate to have several students from foreign countries in attendance. These students came from countries including Belgium, Thailand, Sweden, Germany, and Ethiopia. Because of the different environments, cultures, and backgrounds of these "Out-of-Towners", native Kewanee students gained insight into different lifestyles. Kewaneeans and "out-of-towners" both offered and received benefits from coming in contact with someone from a different background.

Lonnie Williams, Annawan, is a student in Mrs. Lippen's HEO class and works in an area grocery store.

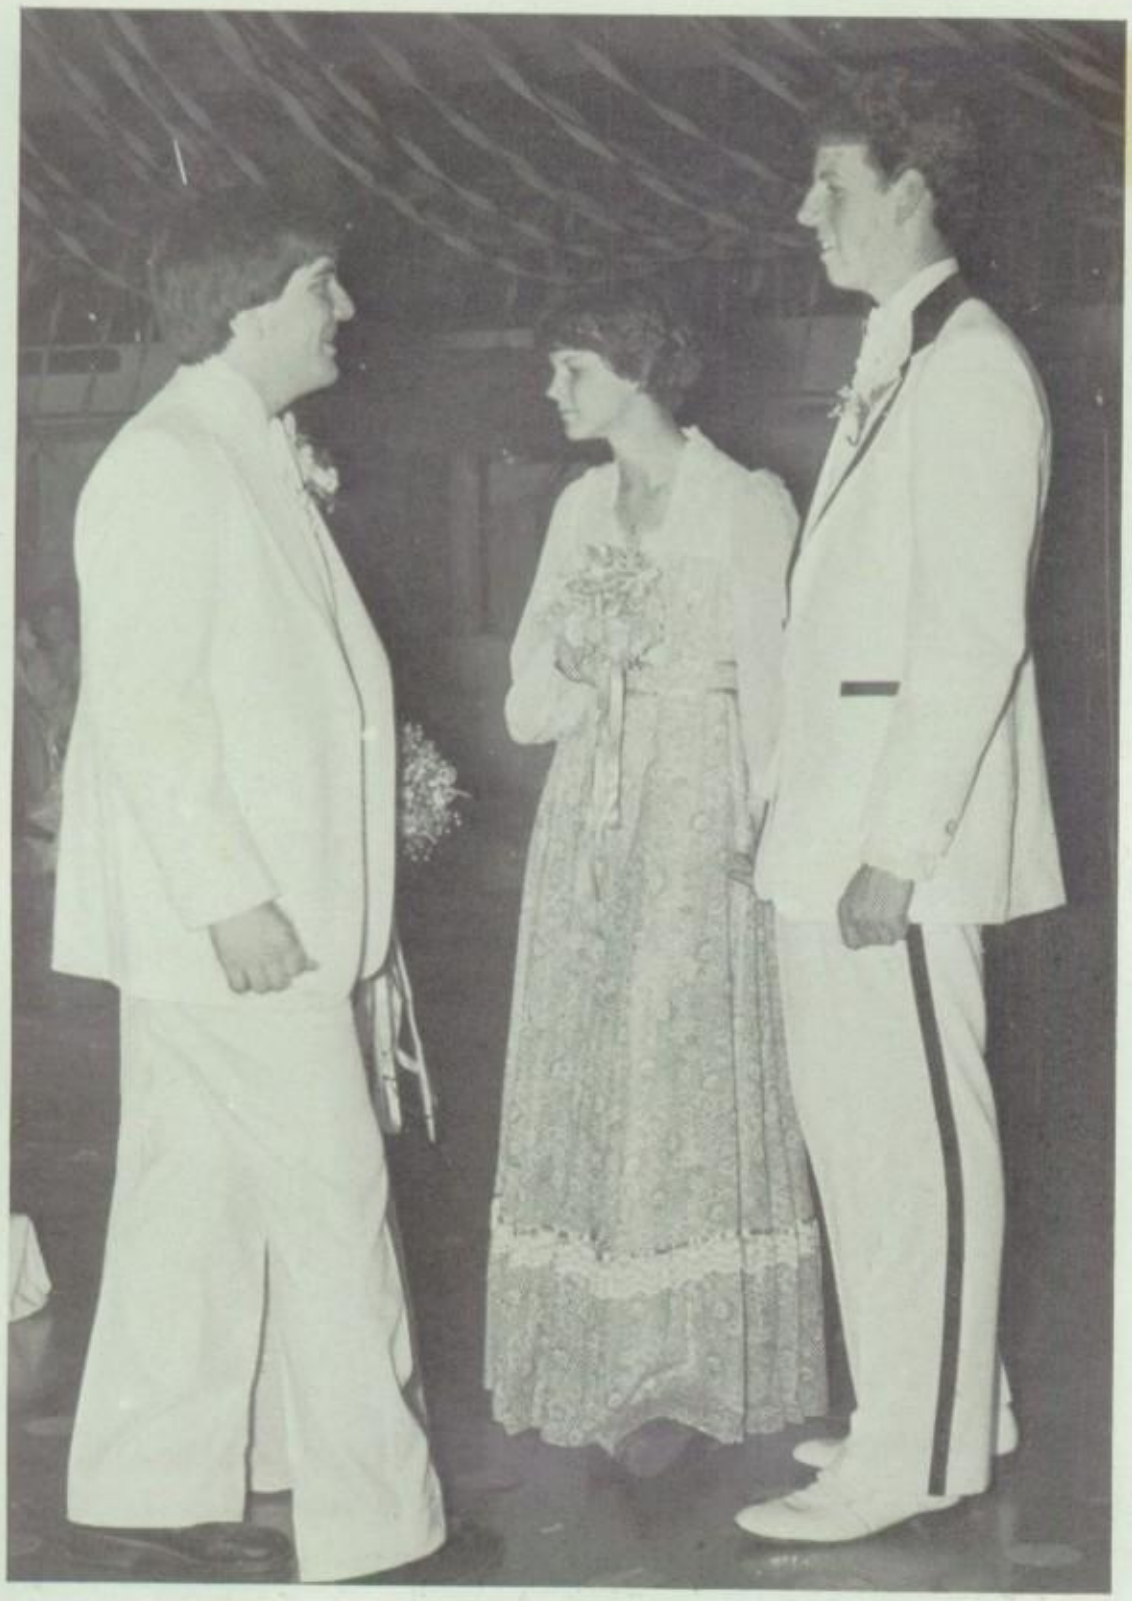
Dream On

Living out a dream. The Junior class gave students a chance to do just that during the Junior-Senior Prom. The theme, "I Like Dreaming," was illustrated by stately castles, wishing wells, twinkling stars, and soft music. Also creating a dreamy atmosphere were pastel streamers and a giant gazebo in the center of the gymnasium. After-Prom included a movie at the Wanee Theatre and another dance at the American Legion.

These couples, along with many others, enjoyed the Junior-Senior Prom. The theme of the 1979 Prom was "I Like Dreaming."

Band and Choir instructor, Mr. Blucker plays with The Henry Street Four, which provided music for the dance.



Prom is an event where one can enjoy getting all dressed up and going out for an evening of dancing and socializing. Greg Engstrom with Debbie Nuding and Greg Miller with Ann Ptasnik were just two of the couples who attended Prom.

Junior Class President Mark Kelley dances with AFS student Natalie Buffat. School dances were a first for Natalie since they do not exist in her home country of Switzerland.

Dressed as leprechauns and cupids, underclassmen helped at Prom by serving pink punch and strawberry-shaped cookies.

Struggling to Excel

Representing KHS in the spring of 1979 the girls' and boys' track teams ran a tough season. The teams practiced every day under the coaching of Mr. Tocha, Mr, Kirkham, Mr. Fulton, and Mr. Jorgensen. Events in the school's track program included the high jump, the long jump, the discus, the shot put, and relay running. The girls' season record for frosh-soph was 6-1; for varsity, 4-3. The record for the boys' teams at the end of the season were: frosh-soph—3-5, varsity—6-5. The 1979 track team did a fine job in a rough season.

Pulling into the lead, Jodi Wager struggles through a tough relay race at a home meet.

Carefully retaining his form, Scott Mighell sets a new pole vault record at varsity level.

With a look of determination, Kevin Williams strives to keep his pace during a relay race.

Young, Talented Linksters

As a young squad, this year's golf team worked hard to improve their skills. The team practiced at Baker Park under the coaching of Mr. Lazar. Even though they were small in number the squad did a commendable job of representing KHS in competition.

Harriers Run Rough Ground

Long, rugged courses passed under the feet of this year's Cross Country teams as the harriers ran to represent Kewanee in meets. This year enough girls went out to establish a girls' team as well as a boys' team. Under the coaching of Mr. Vincent, both the boys and the girls ran a tough season.

Competition on the Courts

Pride and accomplishment accompanied the close of this year's tennis season. Coached by Mrs. Blake, the tennis team had a 5-5 season. Practices and home matches were held at Northeast Park and exhibition matches were held at Windmont Park. The girls played each other in challenge matches to determine rank. On the courts, the 1979 team proved to be tough competition for the opposing teams.

Young and Willing

Young and aspiring, several freshman went out for football this season. These athletes worked hard to gain the experience needed to play on the varsity team in their future years. Although the season was not too successful, the freshmen team managed a 3-5 record. All and all, the team put forth an effort to develop their skills and abilities in a popular high school sport.

The Riveter football players showed dedication by sticking with the team through daily practices and hard workouts. They also showed their dedication by playing out the season although the games were not always in Kewanee's favor. Playing against tough and challenging competition they pulled through with a 1-8 record.

Dedication and Loyalty

Although this year's team put forth the effort needed to produce a successful team, their hard work did not produce a winning season. The inexperience of new members and the lack of participants hindered the selection for the positions. Along with new players, this season brought a new coach to KHS, Mr. Dan Dickle. Coaches Kirkham and Dickle and the Boilers deserved all the recognition they received for their time and devotion.

Football requires a great amount of teamwork. Greg Engstrom and Kurt VanDaele double-team an opponent.

Football is a rugged contact sport. Co-captain Gerald Harland is blocked by a Princeton Tiger at Kewanee's first home game. During this game Harland was injured and had to sit out for the remainder of the season.

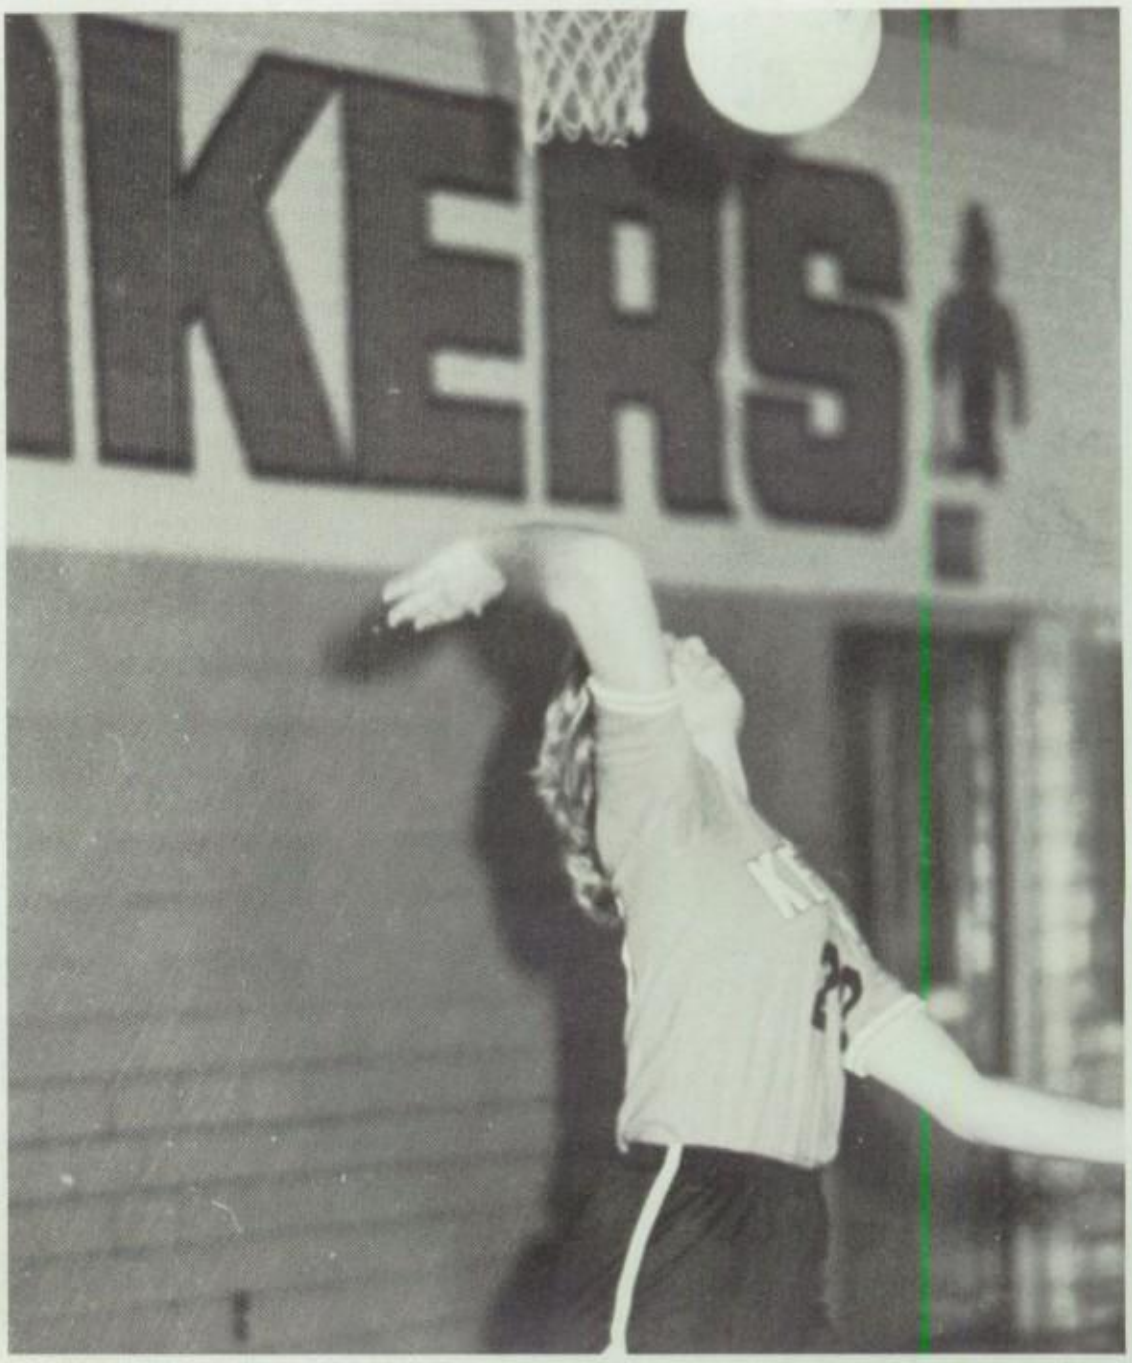
Spiking for Records

Winning was their goal and that's just what the varsity volleyball team did. KHS was proud of this year's excellent varsity team. The girls came one game away from going to state, losing to Woodstock in super-sectional competition. Determination, hard work, and experience, were combined to make the 1979 season a very successful one.

As successors to the 1979-1980 varsity team, the frosh-soph girls had a tough act to follow. Practice improved the younger players' skills in this sport and showed in their games. The girls played a challenging season and came through for KHS with a seasonal record of 9-2.



Volleyball girls are encouraged to improve all of their skills. Serving to the opposing team, Kathy Rose uses the serve to her advantage.

Freshmen Steam On

By the close of the season, members of the freshmen boys' basketball team had established a firm base to build upon. The young cagers practiced before school in the "big gym." In practice, they worked hard as a team developing skills and learning new plays. Although the freshmen boys were 5-10, the losing scores were often within a 5 to 10 point range. Through their hard work on the courts, the freshmen team showed their determination.

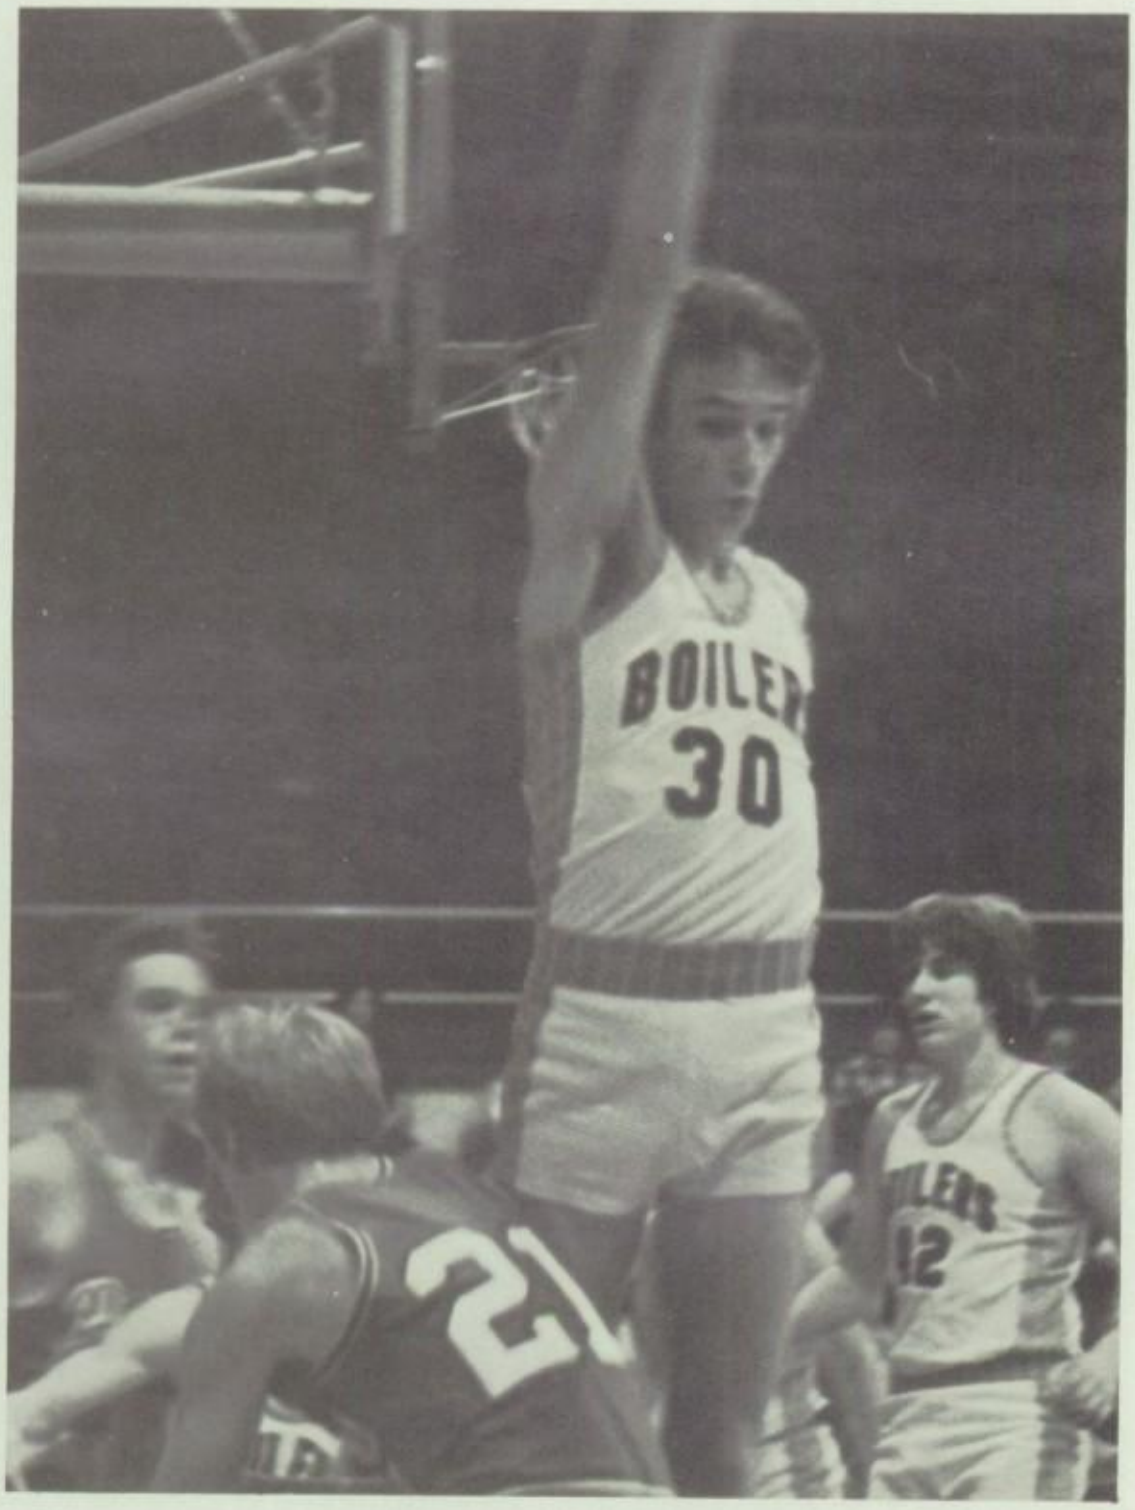
Shooting for Success



Representing the class of 1982, the Riveter boys' basketball team had a winning season. The Riveters began the season well by winning the Princeton Tournament and later placing second in the Ottawa Tourney. In practice, Coach Peck helped the team develop offensive and defensive skills. As the season progressed, the boys had a chance to use and improve these skills. Due to the dedication and hard work of the players, the Riveters had a successful season.

Riveter Pat VanDeVelde flys high to block a shot from the opposing team.

The Record Setters

With Coach Kirkham, the varsity boys basketball team produced another great season. Setting new records, winning tournaments, and beating teams Kewanee hasn't beaten for several years were just some of the things that happened throughout the season. Opening up the season by winning the Princeton Tournament, the Boilers kept going the entire year. Just before Christmas, the varsity beat LaSalle-Peru and went on to win the Macomb Tournament. The team also kept their "TW³" motto alive and broke the school record for consecutive wins. All this adds up to the really fine job the Boilermakers did in representing our school.

Coach Kirkham applauds a good play by the record-breaking team he helped to produce.

Keglers Strike Again

Although there were not many participants, the girls' bowling team worked hard in the most recently added KHS sport. The Keglers did very well in the second season of bowling. Practices were held after school at the Dura Bowl under the coaching of Mr. Bill Parish. Through the dedication and time put into their season, the Keglers came through successfully for KHS.

A Struggling Season

Struggling through their first season together, the girls' frosh-soph team played a challenging season. Inexperience seemed to be the girls' biggest problem as the team consisted mostly of freshmen. The season record hovered around the 500 mark with the wins and losses about equal to each other. Through their games and practices, the girls' frosh-soph team built a strong basis for the future.

Best Season Ever

The motto for this year's varsity girls' basketball team, "Be Tenacious," gave the girls initiative throughout the year. Led by outstanding seniors Diane Crowell and All-American pick Kelle Lindbeck, the girls had a very successful sixth season. By the middle of the season, Kelle Lindbeck set a new state record for total points scored in four years as a varsity player. The varsity girls' team had a disappointing start, being cut short at the Dixon Tournament, but the girls quickly recovered and played a great season. The girls never let up and finished with a spectacular season.

Athletic Achievement

The cougars achieved another successful season under the coaching of Mr. Warren. The Cougars participated in basketball and softball and did well in both. KHS should be proud to have a team like the Cougars representing it. Although some games were tough for the Cougars, in the end the experiences paid off for a successful season all around.

Striving for Pins

Despite the disappointing record, the KHS wrestlers put on a fine showing this year. Wrestling is a sport in which qualified athletes show their individual superiority. It is a one-on-one battle to test the wrestler's mental awareness and physical condition. Through the season, the Grapplers had to maintain themselves in order to wrestle at peak efficiency and at the same time, keep themselves at wrestling weight. Throughout the season the KHS wrestlers worked to improve their records and abilities.

Bill Sturtevant controls his opponent during an opening match of the Kewanee Invitational. Tim Brown, Chris Sullens, and Bill Sturtevant all placed first in their weight divisions.

ORGANIZATIONS

Making Foreign Friends

Kewanee High School hosted two American Field Service students and welcomed back three Kewanee students who went abroad for the summer. The assemblies presented by these AFSers were interesting and enlightening. AFS Club raised money using student members who worked at concession stands and sold pizzas during the annual Pizza Sale. One aim of AFS was to generate interest in becoming an Americans Abroad student or a host to a foreign student. Since AFS is a cultural exchange, it gave students the opportunity to broaden their view of the world.

The primary fund-raiser for the AFS club is the annual AFS Pizza Sale. AFS welcomes all who are willing to help sell pizzas. AFSer Chris Helmkamp donates some of her time to help the club.

"Kluay" took advantage of many possibilities at KHS. She was a member of the girl's volleyball team and the girl's bowling squad.

Exchange student Jean-Philippe Heymans from Belgium and host brother, Brad Ahlgren; Katekao Tuntiprawon from Thailand and host sister and brother, Beth and Doug Deskin.

AFS students get involved in many extra-curricular activities. Jean-Philippe Heymans, the only Belgian Boilermaker, places a kick during a varisty game.

Distant Summer Homes

After three years of German, Sue Craddock was already partly prepared for her trip to Austria last summer. In Austria, Sue's adventures included getting lost mountain climbing and teaching English in a camp for teenage girls. Sue's summer proved to be fun-filled, worthwhile and very memorable.

Through the Americans Abroad program, Scott Kuffel was able to spend two months in Kenya, Africa. Scott lived with a large family of the Luo tribe and experienced the life-style and culture of a Kenyan family during his brief stay.

Also a participant of the AA program, Sue Kapacinskas ventured to Australia. Sue spent part of her time in school and the rest of her time at the beach. The climate, the people, and the scenery were extremely different than they are in Kewanee, and Sue holds very special memories of them all.

Experience for the Future

Helping students prepare for the future, VICA students discussed the unemployment rate and job-market demand. VICA students also learned of current job factors in this class. The Kewanee chapter of Vocational Industrial Clubs of America helped students establish reasonable vocational goals.

Homemaking Qualities

Future Homemakers of America was an active organization. The girls attended several rallies with Mrs. Shafer, club advisor. These rallies brought education and entertainment to the girls who participated. The spaghetti supper was a success, thanks to the cooperation of the kitchen and the FHA workers. Other fund raisers included the selling of mums and "Go Boilers" weeples at Homecoming. FHA had a busy and successful year.

Talent Tunes Up

Consisting of several different divisions, the KHS band did a fine job of providing entertainment for the school and community. The marching band participated in the Labor Day and Homecoming Parades. The pep band played the Boilermakers on at both football and basketball games. The Jazz band performed at many activities during the year, most of which were for the community. Through their hard work, the band members and Mr. Blucker did well in representing our school.

Jazz band members practiced every Tuesday and Thursday morning to improve their talent. Drummer Steve Jacobs practices with the group during rehearsal.

Warming Up Their Chords

Singing their way through the year, the Kewanee High School Choir, under the direction of Mr. Blucker, performed at many places. At contest, the choir participated in several variations of groups. The whole choir, the girls choir, the boys choir, and the swing choir all competed. The swing choir performed many places within the community. Some members of the choir participated in NCIC, District or, State festivals. The choir, whether as a small or a big group, sang into the hearts of many listeners.

In order to perfect their tone and pitch, the members of the choir must be prepared to practice.

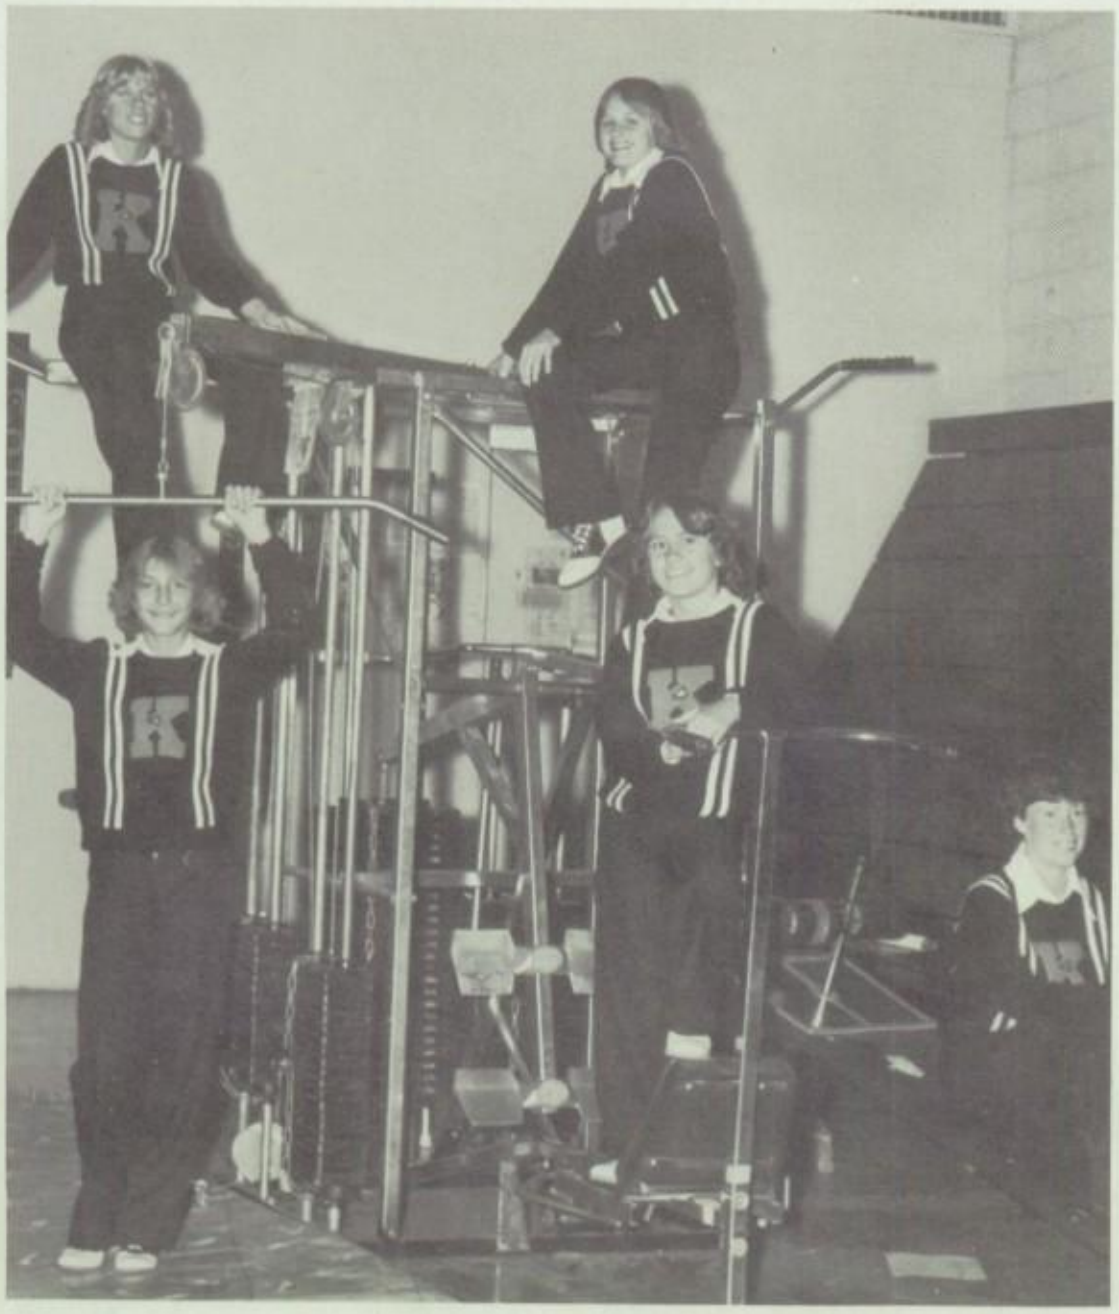
Spunk and Spirit

Keeping up school spirit was not as easy as it may have looked from the stands. The cheerleaders had practices twice a week to work on floor cheers, mounts, and sideline cheers. In an effort to rouse school spirit, the cheerleaders decorated the gym with signs backing the Boilers for pep rallies. Throughout the year the cheerleaders cheered on with undying devotion for their favorite team—the Boilers.

Before the start of the varsity football game, the cheerleaders lead the school song. They often had to brave the cold fall weather in order to support the Boilers.

Varsity Cheerleaders: Cindy Parish, Alternate: Missy Owens, Jan Lemanski, Julie DeConinck, Angie Waller, Verena Cummings, captain: Kim Bucy.



Riveter Cheerleaders: Colleen Naughtin, Amy Kohler, Patty Reiff, alternate; Jill Gustafson, Terrill Currie, captain; Debbie Logsdon, Teri Jennings.

Cross Country/Wrestling Cheerleaders: Standing, Shari Stark, Cathy Swearingen. Sitting (bottom), Carrie Rux, captain. Sitting (top), Julie Choromokos, Lori Hampton.

Captain Verena Cummings takes time out to watch some of the game. It was often discouraging to cheer for the team when the score was in the opponent's favor.

Whirling and Twirling

Several years of experience backed the two KHS twirlers who performed at football games, assemblies, and basketball games this year. Practicing every day, the girls made up their own routines to perform before the student body. These two twirlers competed at state and national levels where both placed within the top ten twirlers of each level. KHS was proud of the two twirlers who represented the school this year.

The 1979-1980 pom-pon squad brought pride to KHS by gaining commendable recognition in competition. In November, the squad received high ratings in competition with a routine to "The Wizard of Oz." Then in March, the squad went to a state contest and placed high. During the year, the pom-pon squad worked hard to learn and perfect new routines. Along with performing at basketball games, the squad marched with the band in parades and at football game half-times. The efforts of the year's pom-pon squad showed through in their trophies and performances.

Pom-pon requires a great amount of practice. The squad practices everyday during 5th hour. Rae Ann Tucker and other squad members work to perfect a routine.

Joni Bumphrey demonstrates a hand motion to the squad. She and Angela Hansen were the co-captains of the squad.

Marching in the Hog Days Parade, KHS poms lead the band through the streets of Kewanee.

During a pep assembly, Lisa Urquiza twirls to entertain the student body.

Lisa Urquiza and Debbie Nuding twirled for KHS this year. Since both girls have twirled for many years, they are excellent twirlers.

To my best friend:
You're a great guy. What can I say. Mark. What can people remember the school needs more like you. I'll always remember all you've done for me. Thanks always and the best you can in life. I'll stay with the Lord.
Do especially, your friend always,
Rod Cantrell

Pep Club members spend many study halls painting signs on the stage. Pep Club member Debbie Breedlove helps hang up a sign during the football season.

Designed to encourage sports spectators to cheer for the Boilers, the Pep Club was an organization of spirited fans. The cheerleaders taught the club cheers at meetings held in the gymnasiam. And for the first time, the Pep Club sat together at assemblies to generate enthusiasm in the student body. This club enabled students to learn cheers in order to help support the Boilers at games.

From KHS to Congress

Even though the chance of seeing the President was pretty remote, the students going to Washington did see several interesting sights and people. Students were given the chance to go to Washington D.C. to take a closer look at our government through the "Close-Up" Program. These students made most of their money for the trip by selling candy bars, working concession stands, and soliciting donations. After almost a year of trying to make enough money, the week in D.C. was quite a memorable experience.

Testing a Profession

Grading papers, recording grades, and typing dittos were all a teacher's aide's job. The Future Teachers of America club gave students interested in teaching a taste of the profession and an option to study hall. The teachers enjoyed the invaluable help of the aides, while the aides gained good experience.

All members of FTA are teacher's aids. They assist in grading papers and offer other help that the teacher might need. FTA president Debbie Nuding helps Mr. Wallace in the math department.

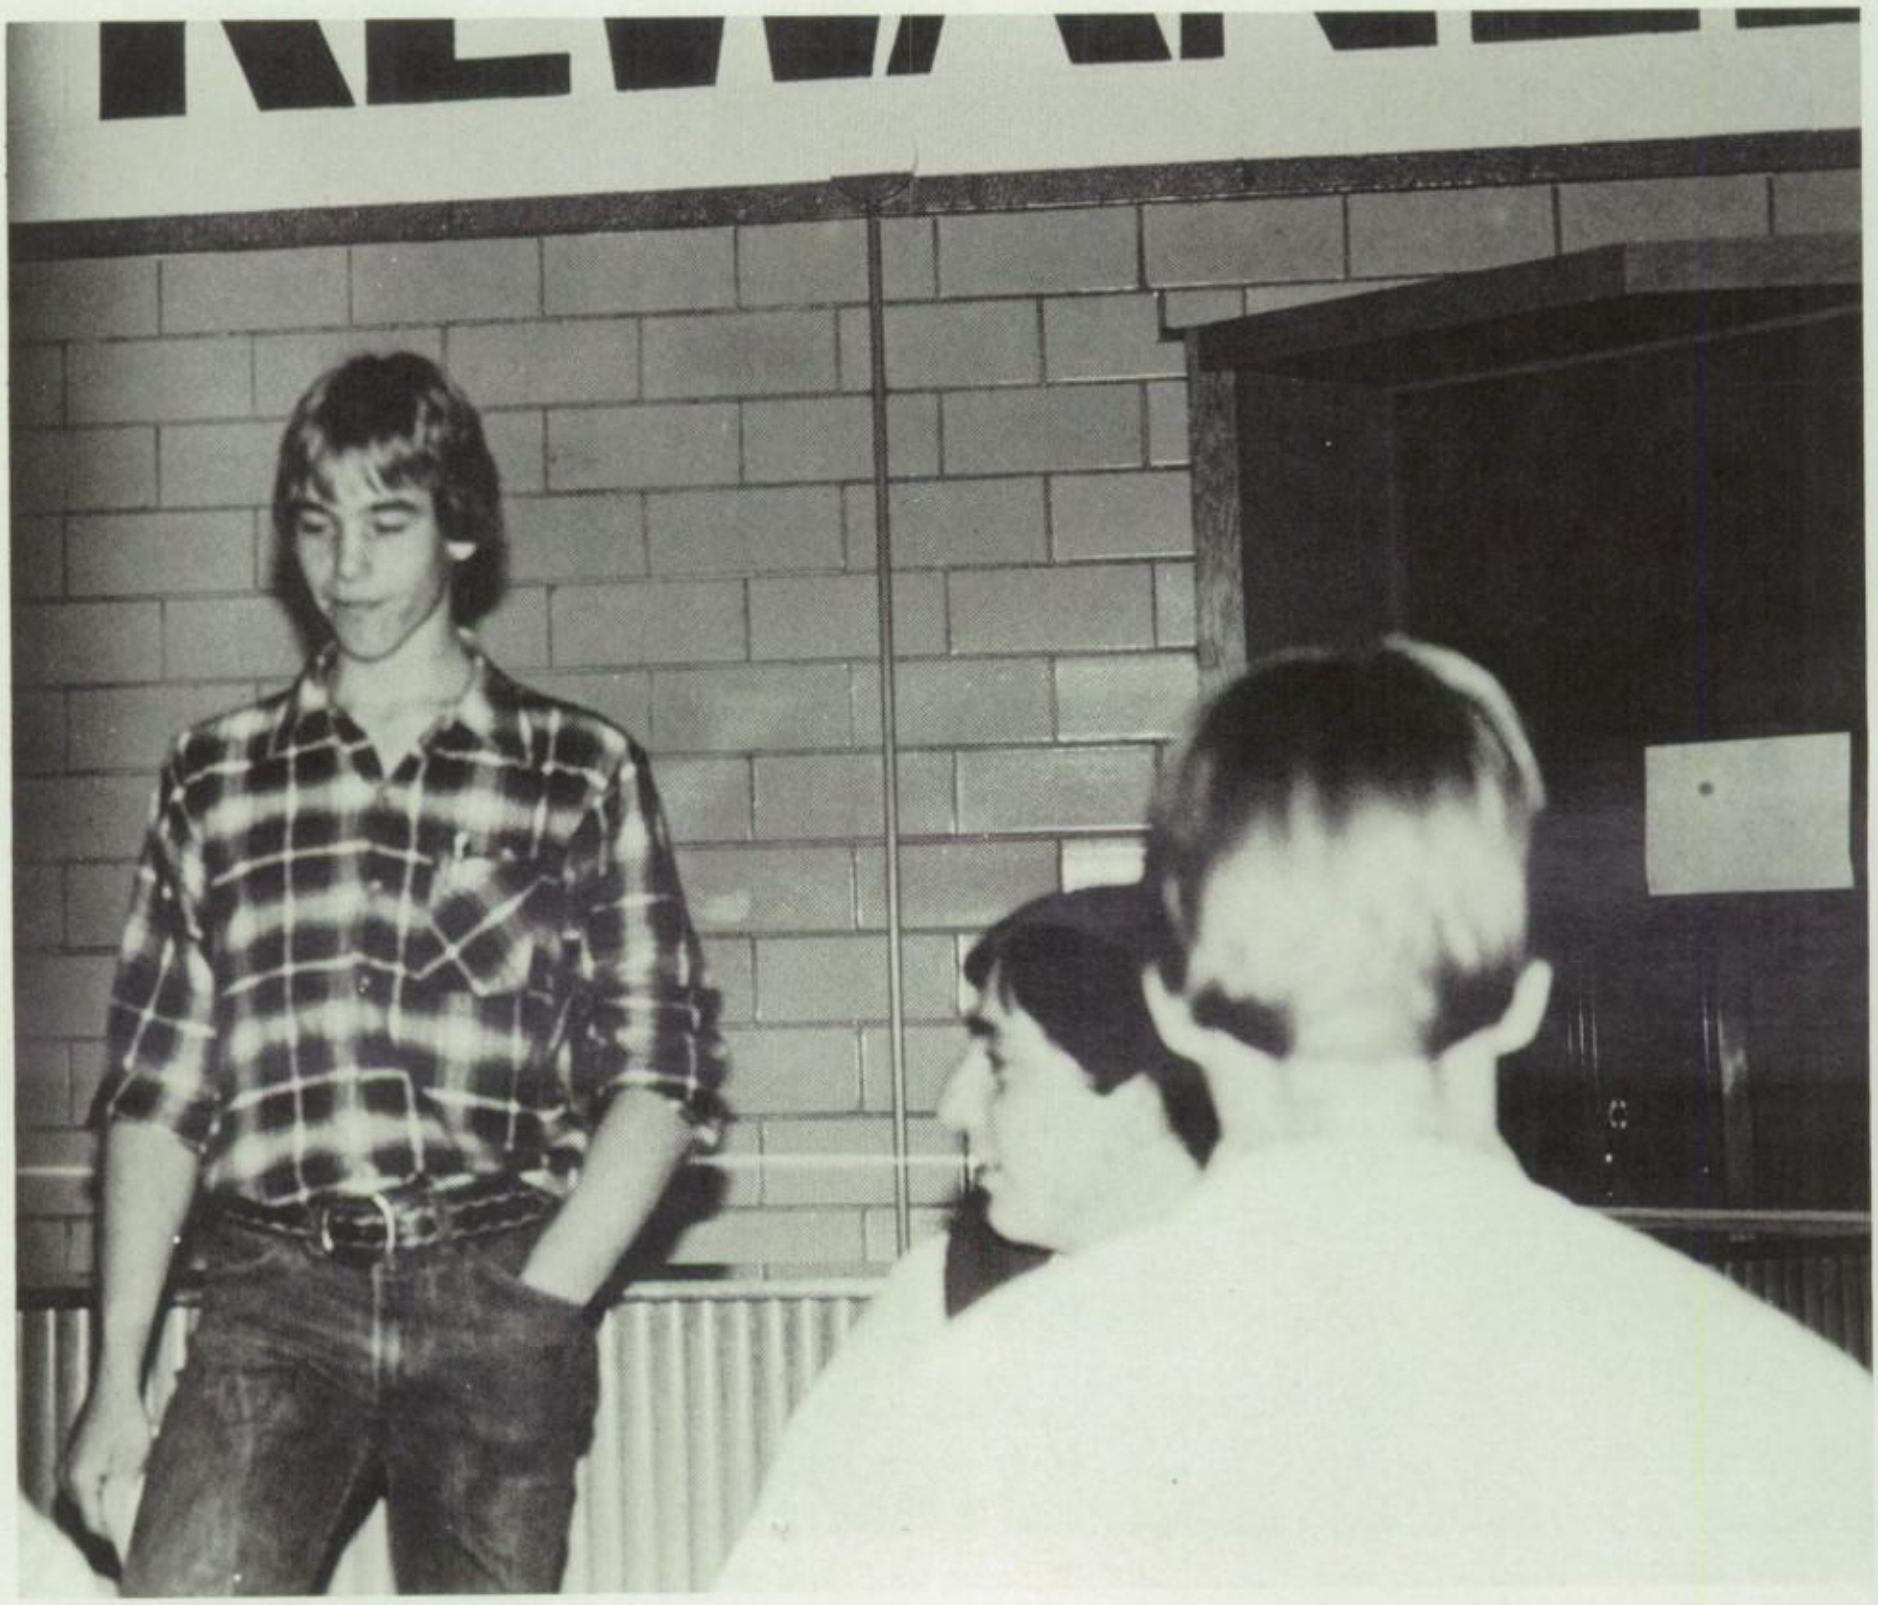
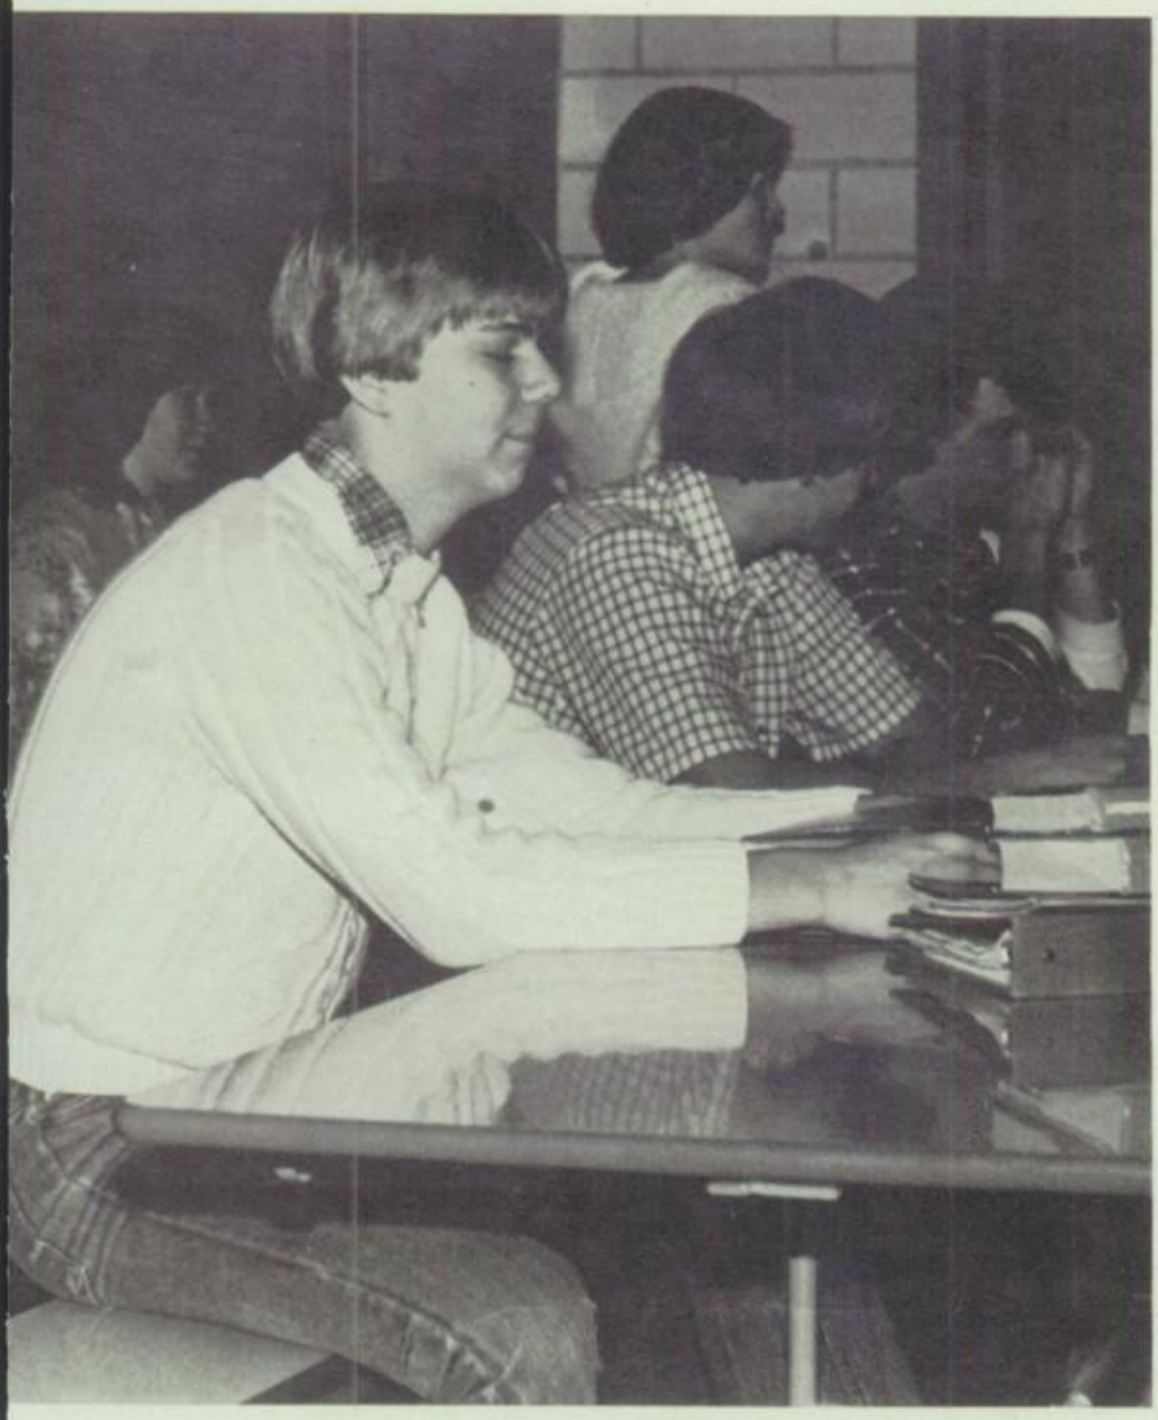
Excelling in Their Field

The Future Farmers of America was an organization involved in activities serving the community as well as the school. Activities sponsored by FFA included the Homecoming Bonfire, a chili supper, and the annual Barnyard Zoo held during Hog Days. FFA members participated in various contests throughout the year such as soil judging, public speaking, and parlimentary procedure. Members of FFA also sold grapefruits and oranges at Christmastime as a fund-raiser.



As President of FFA, Roger Bates had many responsibilities. One of his duties was to conduct meetings in order to organize projects.



FFA member Mike Damron listens as the chili supper is being discussed at a meeting. The annual FFA chili supper is the club's biggest money-making project.

Student Council

The students played an active role in student government on the student council. Issues pertaining to school-related activities were brought forth in front of the delegated representatives of the council and discussed. Throughout the year there was much talk concerning many new ideas and members of the council were ready to work for what they wanted. Student Council brought new ideas to the administration and student voice in school matters.

Producing a Paper

Once a month, the student body received newspapers entitled "K-Chronicle." Little did students stop to think about where those papers came from. They came from a small but dedicated group called the K-Chronicle staff. Members of the K-Chronicle took pictures and gathered information, then wrote articles to keep students informed or just entertained. The advisor of the K-Chronicle, Mr. Kirkham, worked hard with his staff to insure students a quality newspaper.

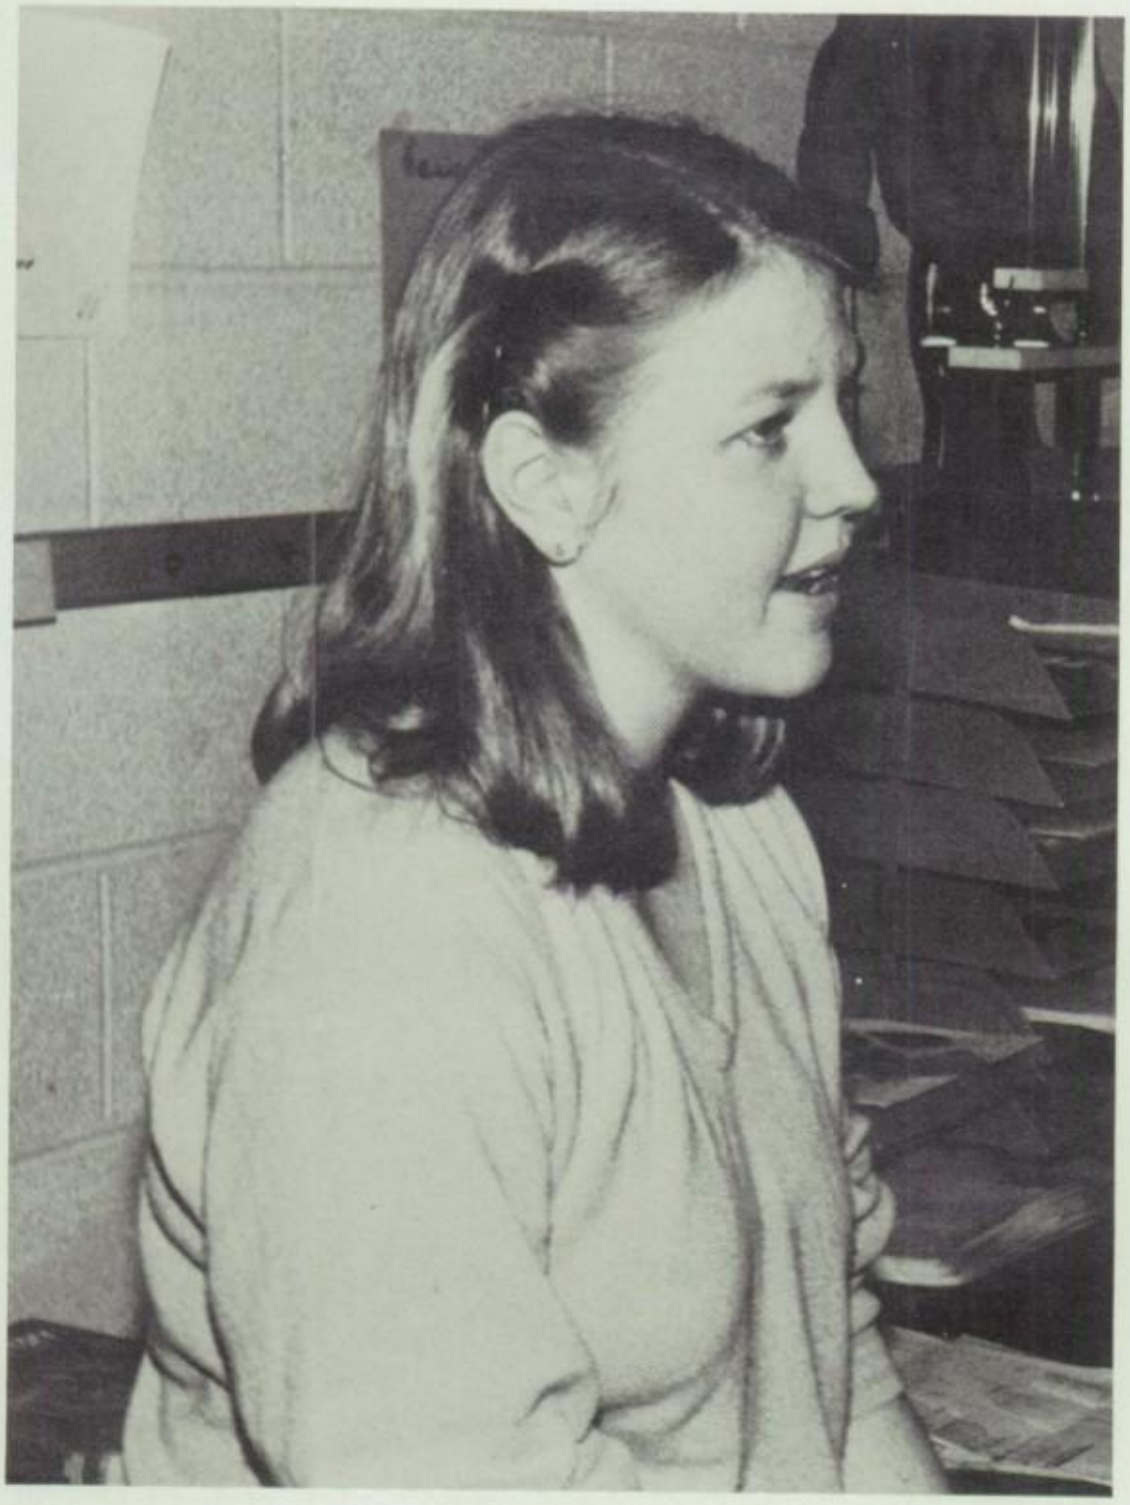
Recording the Year



From the beginning of the year until the end of February, meetings were held in Mr. Fleming's office at least twice a week to get pages done for this year's edition of the Kewanite. The Kewanite staff gave much of their time and effort toward the production of this yearbook. The advisor, Mr. Fleming, explained to the editors how to put together a yearbook and shared his knowledge and experience in the field. Although this year's staff was small, it was willing to do the necessary work to produce a quality yearbook.

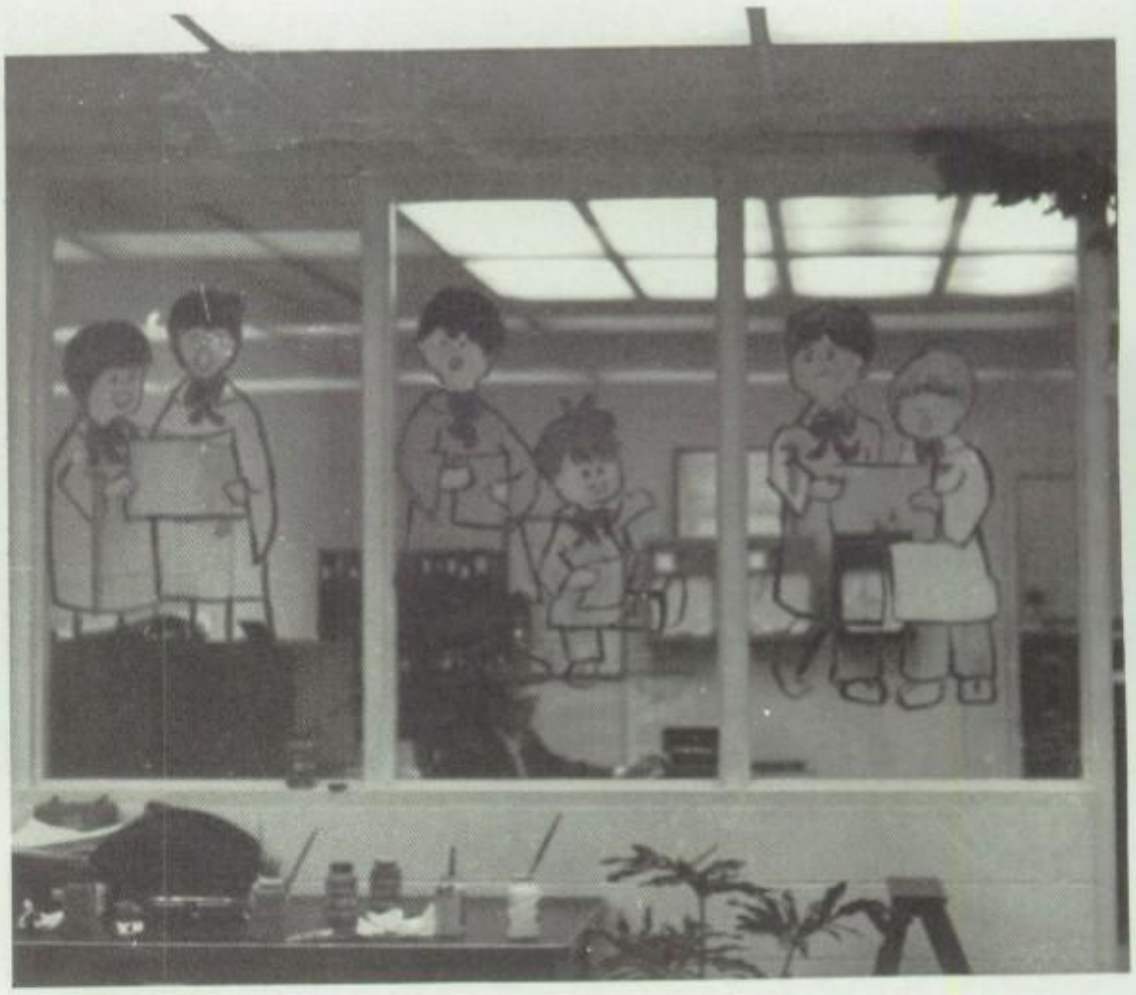
Painting the Town

Unknown talents were exposed to students in the Art League by the effort put forth in their many endeavors. Props drawn and painted by the Art League provided the proper settings for the class plays. The Art League used the screen printing facilities available in the art room to print dance and play programs. To spread holiday spirit the students painted the windows of many businesses downtown. Art League's projects were beneficial to the school and the community.



These colorful carolers would brighten up any office. Art Leaguers devoted many hours after school and on weekends to paint windows during the holidays.

Key Club Cuties

Key Club released its annual calendar in the fall of the year. The calendar featured a picture of a girl from each class above every month. Activities of each day during the school year were included to keep students informed of upcoming events.

Servicing the Community

Devoted to helping the student body, the elderly, and the underprivileged, the Key Club was a very active organization throughout the year. Asking for donations in the downtown area, Key Clubbers raised money to help the needy. Also Key Club sponsored a Christmas party for underprivileged children. Informing students of upcoming events, the Key Club Calendar was a service to the student body. The Key Club was active in helping both the community and the students.

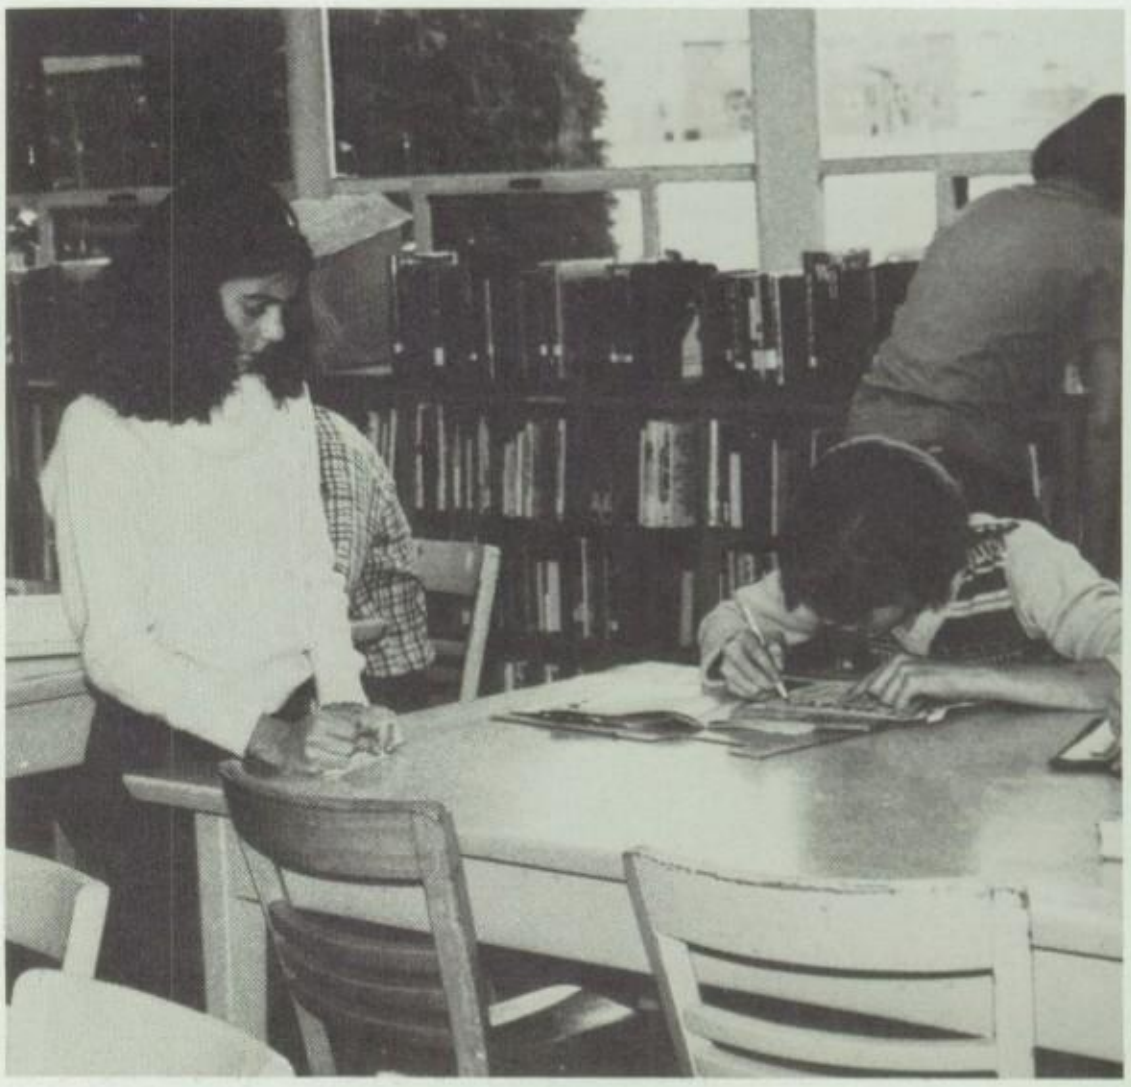
Assistant Librarians

Members of the Library Club aided Mr. Hoffstetter in keeping the library in order. Student librarians checked books in and out, helped students use audio-visual aids, and put books and magazines in their proper place. Library Club members became aquainted with the location of books in a library, while the school benefited from their help.



As part of her job as a student librarian, Kathy Lasky collects blue slips.

Honoring Excellence

The National Honor Society honors those students who have worked hard to receive good grades. Most of the new members each year are juniors who meet the specific standards and have a high grade point average. Sophomores must have a perfect 4.0 grade point average along with other qualities to be eligible for NHS. The students in National Honor Society are honored with a special banquet in the spring with each member's parents and Mr. Damron, the advisor, present.

Speaking Their Piece

Although early morning meets, cold bus rides, and hours of memorization didn't appeal to the members of Speech Club, in the end it all paid off. The finer side of being in speech was the personal satisfaction felt by the speakers after receiving a rating at meets. The Speech Club did a fine job of representing KHS in their meets.

After four years of both speech and debate, Kay Charlet finds the work easier to finish, which leaves her extra time for other things like Introductory Analysis.

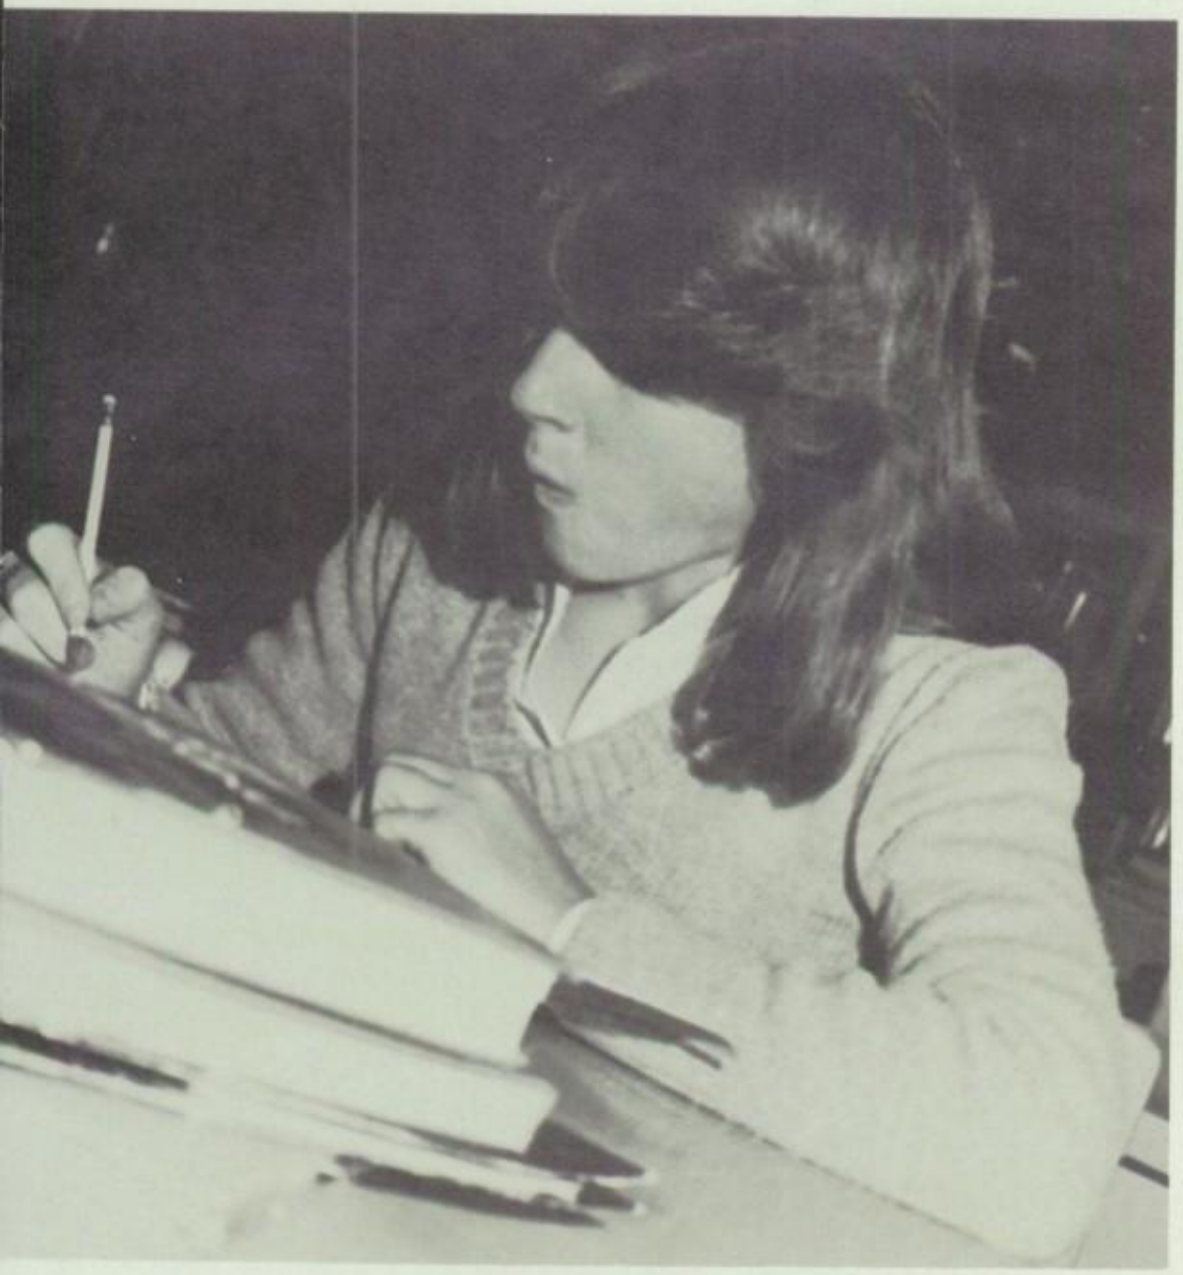
Arguing the Point



Practice makes perfect-and so the debate club found out. The members of debate club spent fourth hour each day researching in the library or challenging each other in practice debates. The debate team took part in the KHS Invitational Debate held Dec. 1st and the Northwestern Debate Invitational. With many potential debators in the freshman and sophomore classes, KHS Debate Club became well prepared for the future.

Research is a major part of debate. Jennifer Shinkevich works in the library researching material for an upcoming meet.

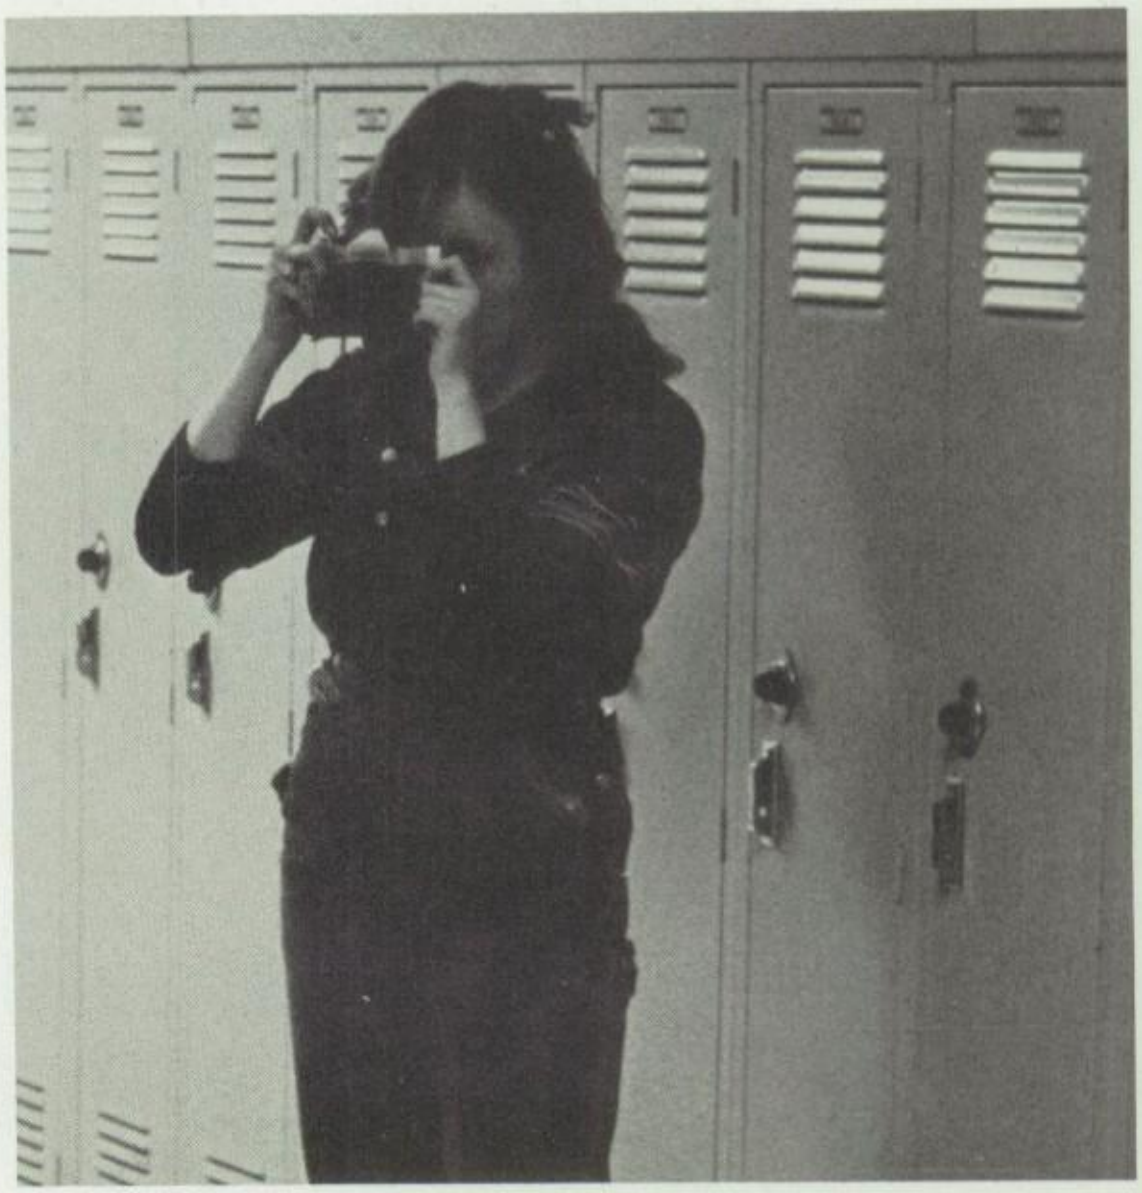
Developing a Hobby

Members of the Kamera Klub, under the direction and supervision of Mr. Malcolm, learned not only how to take pictures, but also how to develop them. Students in Kamera Klub were allowed to use the club's camera and the school lab to take and develop their pictures. Kamera Klub members also took pictures of couples at the three annual dances, printed them up, and delivered them to homerooms. As a service project for AFS students, the club made pictures into slides for the foreign students to use in their slide presentations. Students involved in Kamera Klub kept busy throughout the year learning how to become good amateur photographers.



By being a member of Kamera Klub, Peggy Hankins finds she can take her own pictures and develop them.

Scientific Interests

For Bi-Phy-Chem members, the school year started out with the annual picnic, where members present were given a tour of Mr. Malcolm's solar-heated house. Spring trips were also planned throughout the year for visits to an animal reserve and to Chicago's Museum of Natural Arts and Sciences. Bi-Phy-Chem is a club for students primarily interested in science. In their excavations, Bi-Phy-Chem members learned more about science and its effect in their lives.

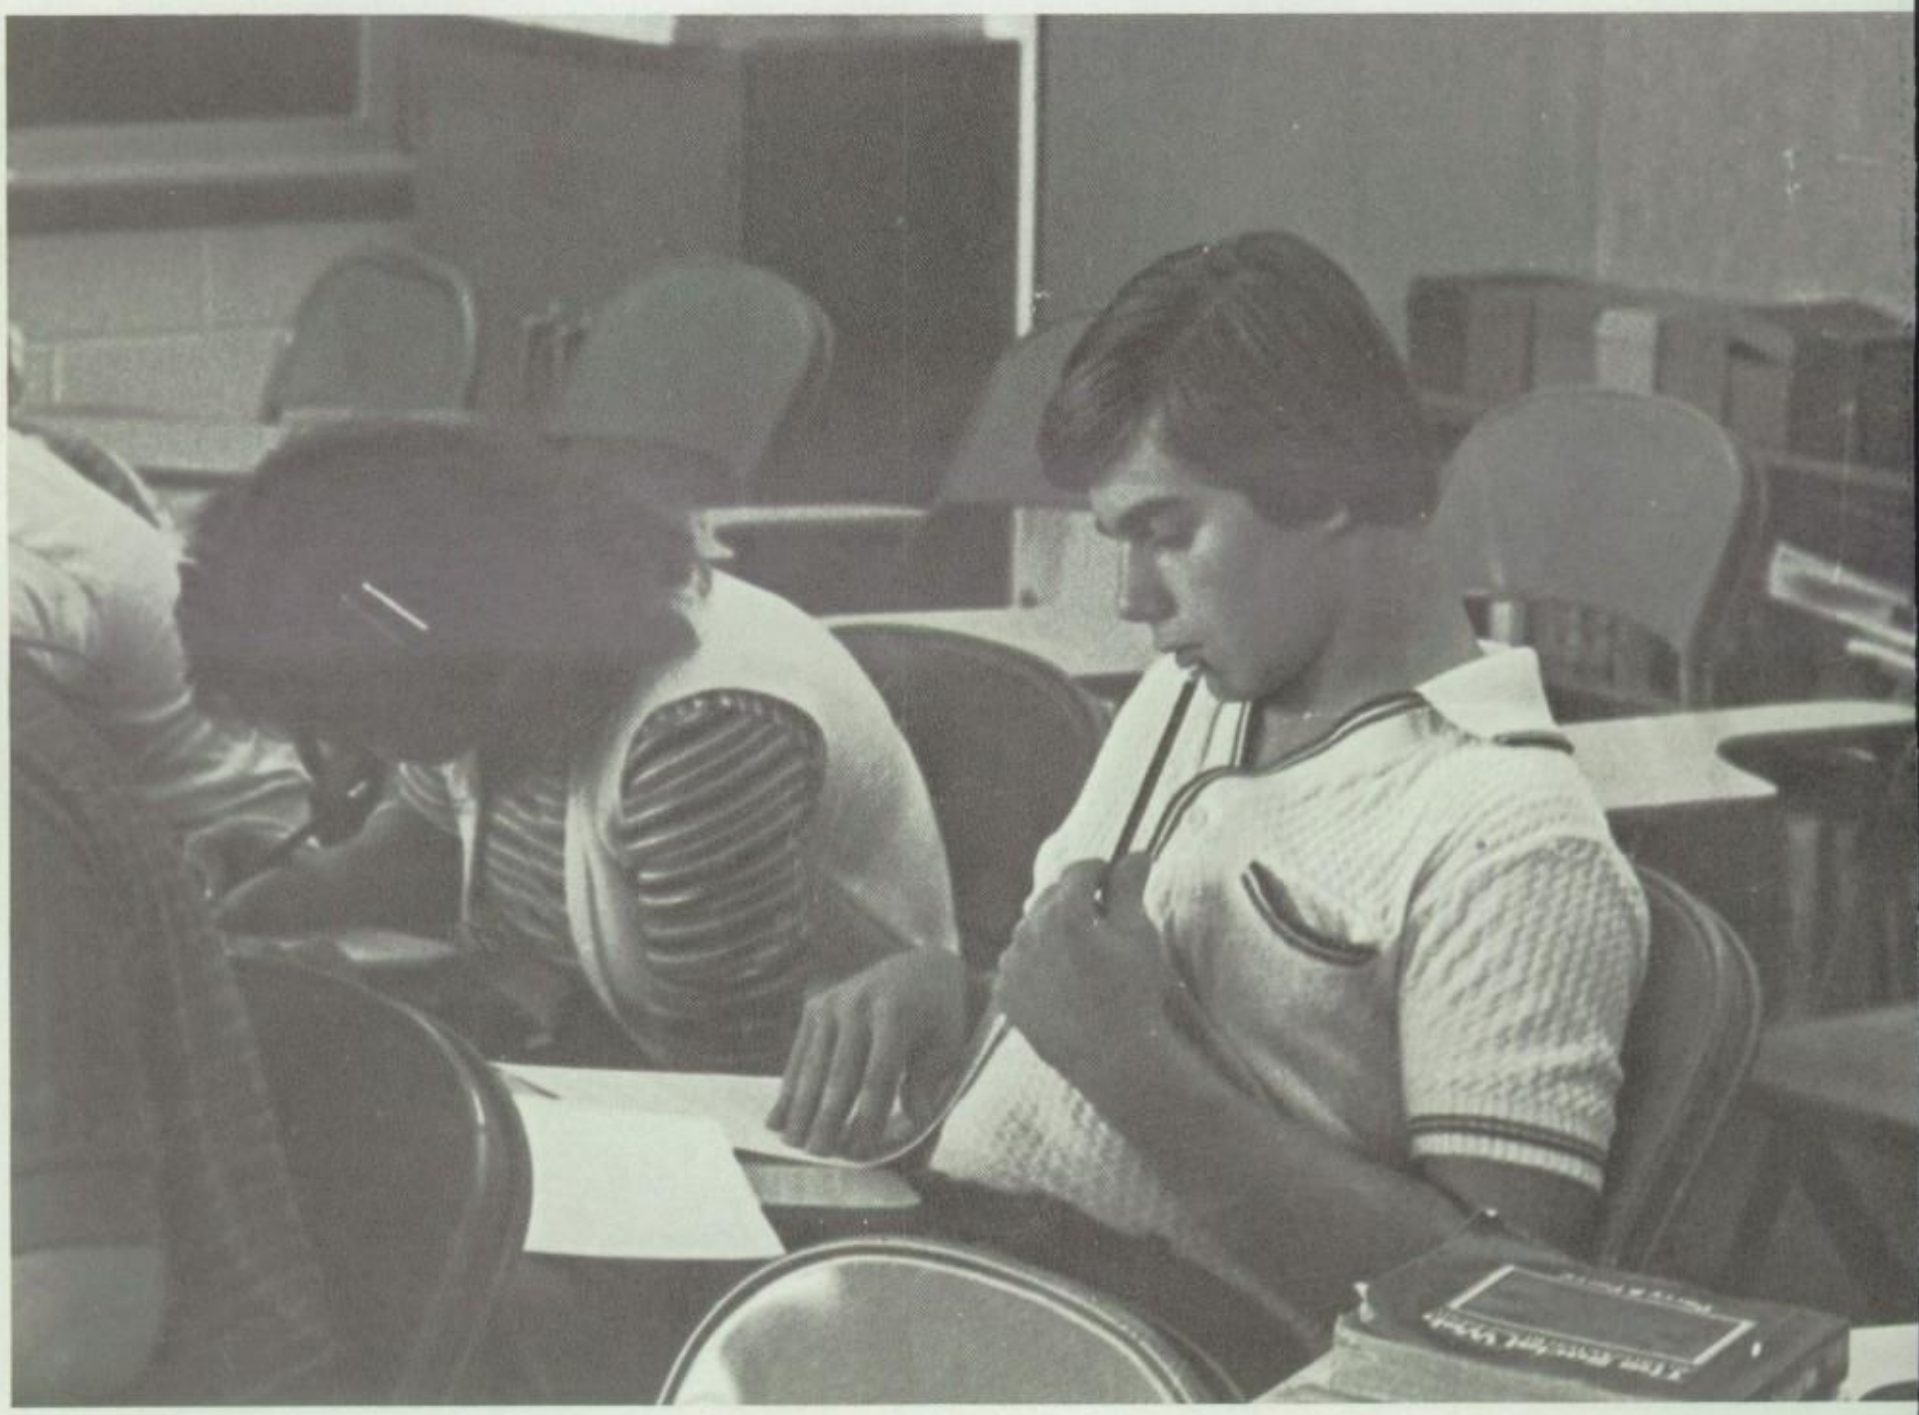
ACADEMICS

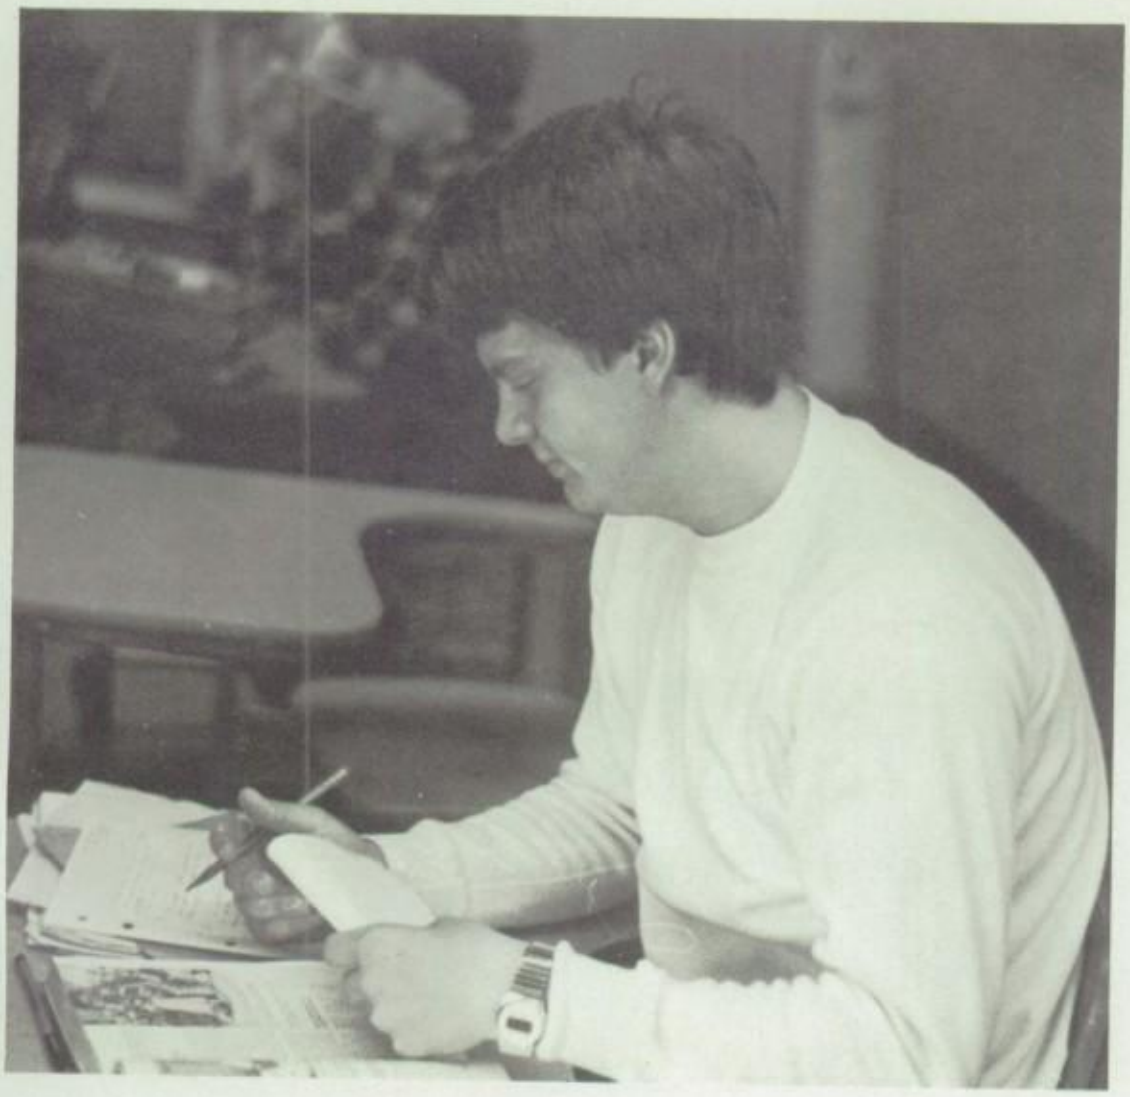
A Look at Society

Societies of the past and present were not always interesting to KHS students; however, two courses in Social Studies are required. Five Social Studies classes were offered: World History, U.S. History, Government, Sociology, and Economics. Learning about societies helped students prepare for the future.

Dave Craddock breezes through his United States History test. This course is required for graduation.

Thinking over a question, Tony Roper takes a Sociology test.





By taking notes in World History, Eric Lindberg learns about the history of other countries as well as their current affairs.

To illustrate a point in sociology Mr. McKee uses a diagram. Sociology deals with situations that occur in society.

Looking at the text, Mrs. May gives her World History class a reading assignment. Reading plays an important role in all social studies classes.

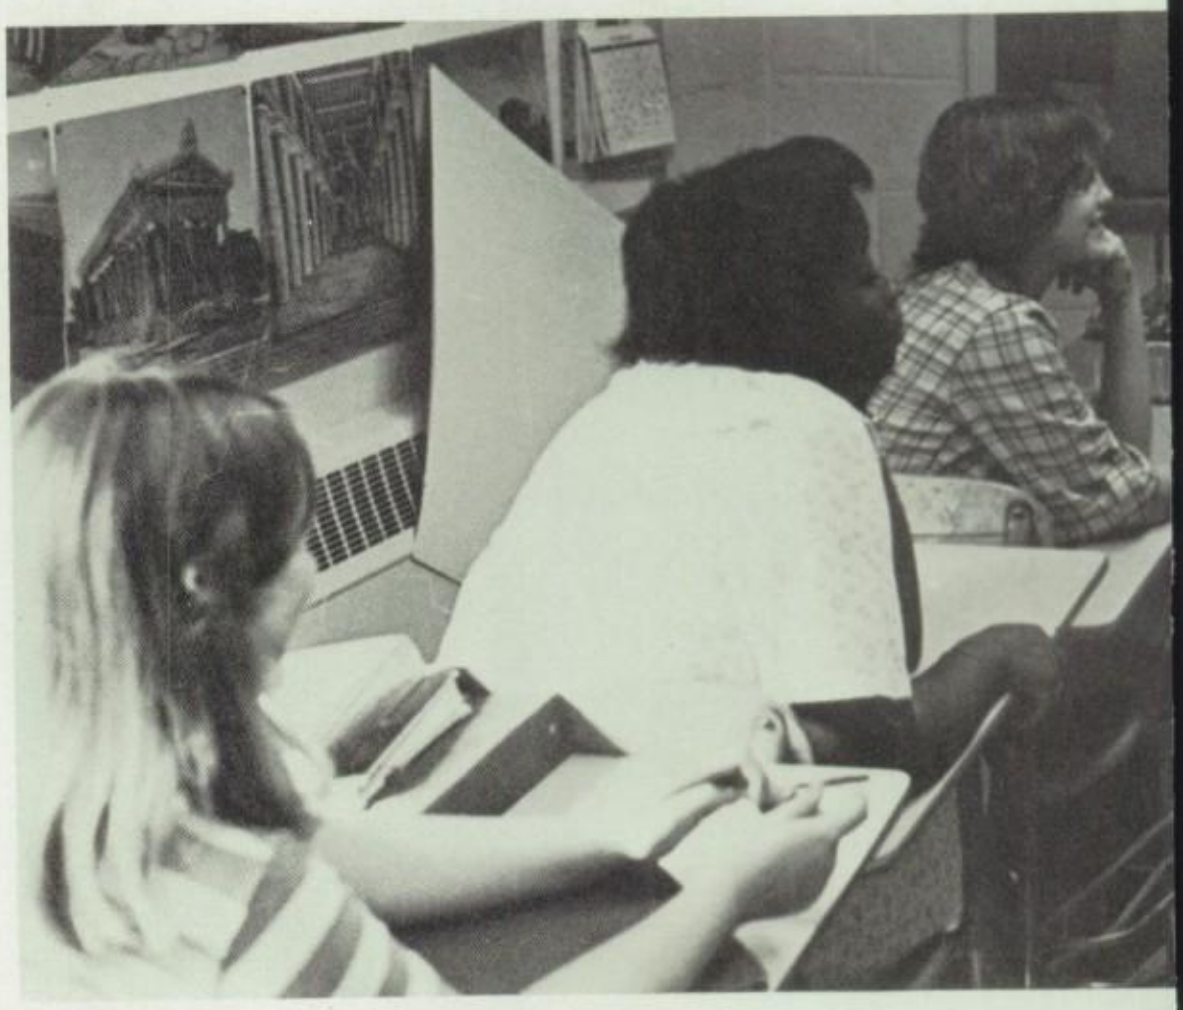
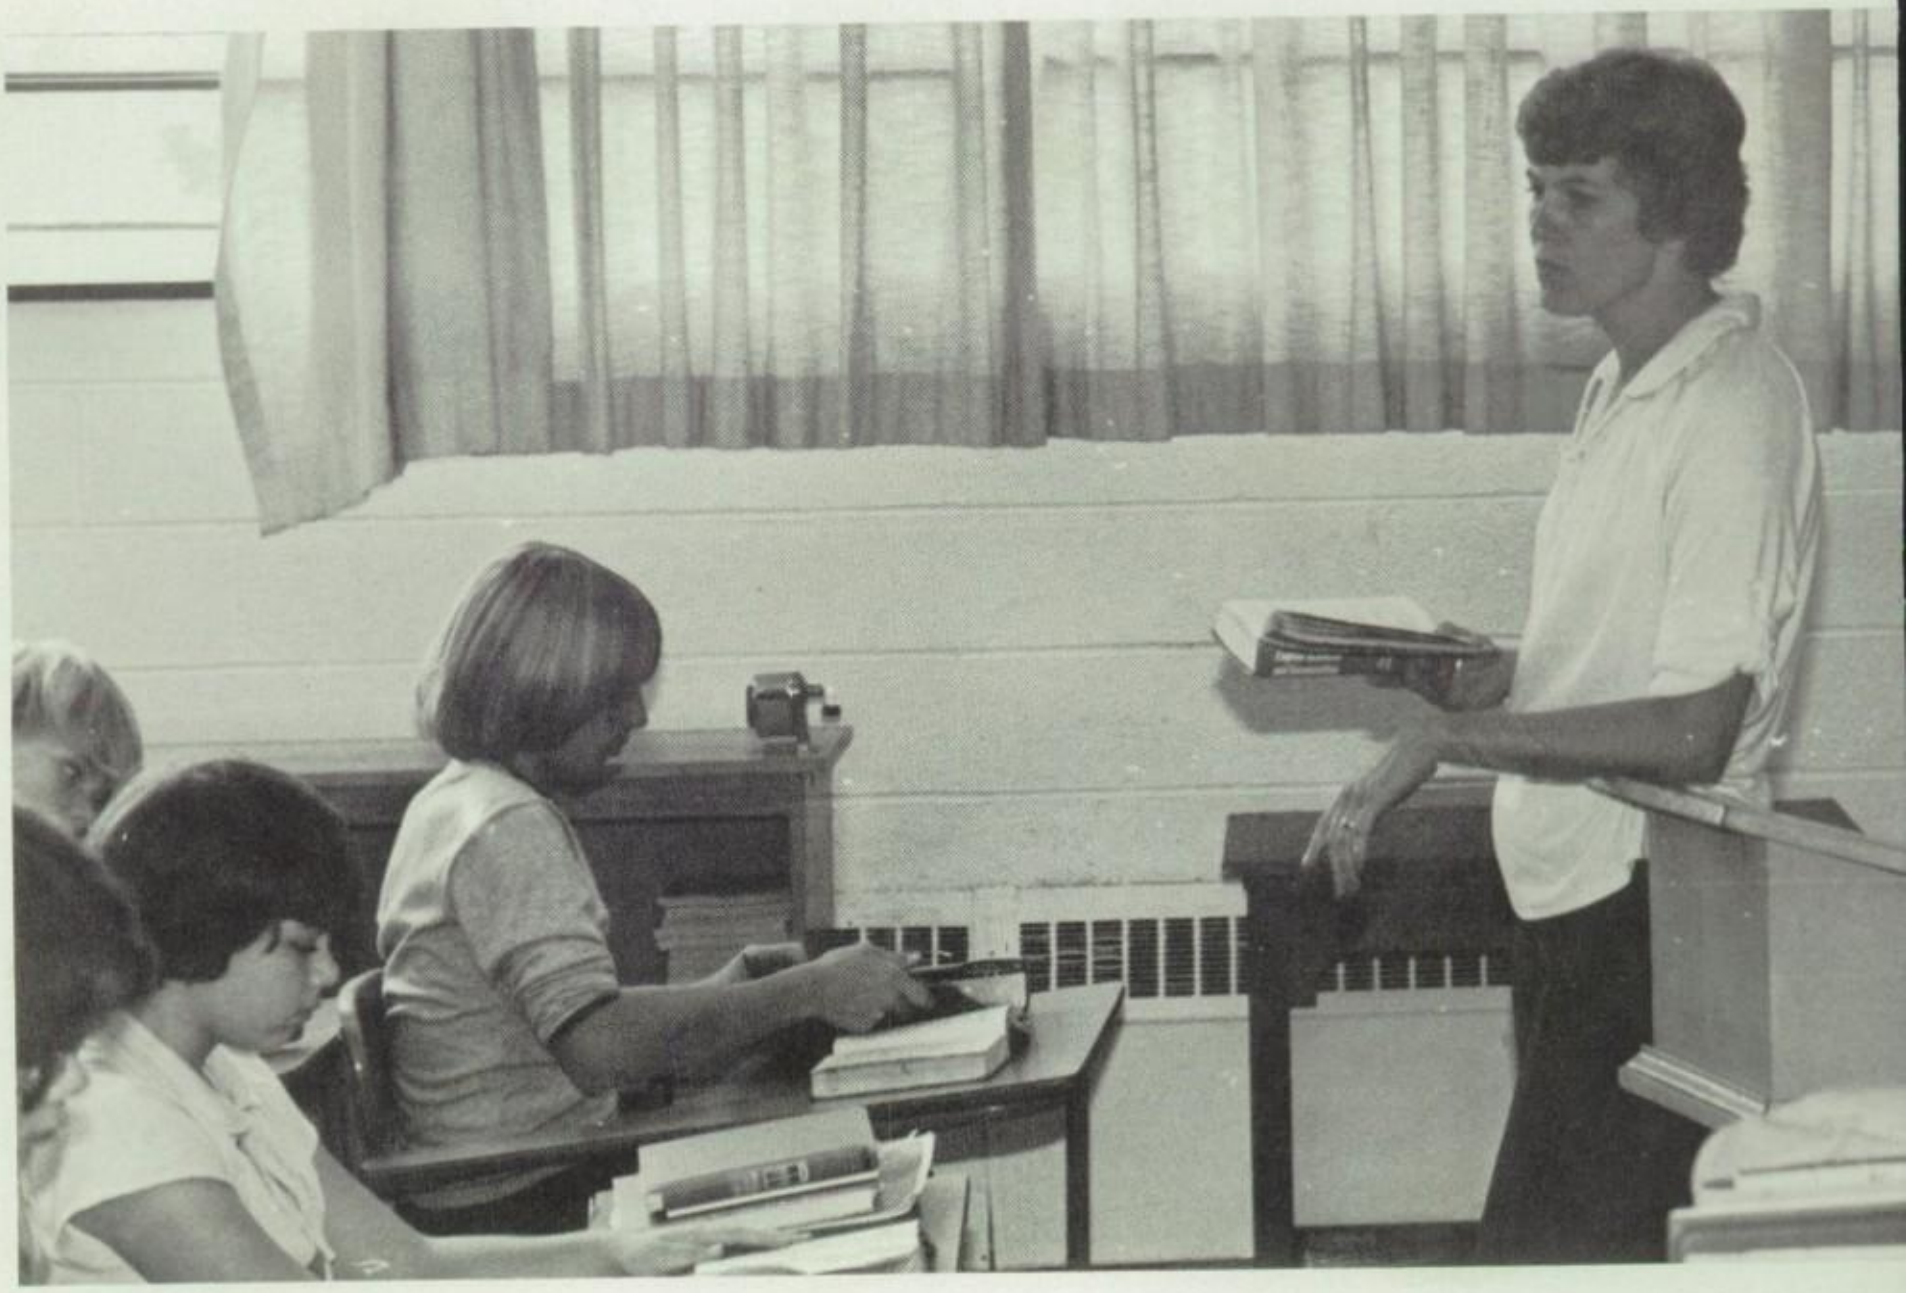
English Skills Improved

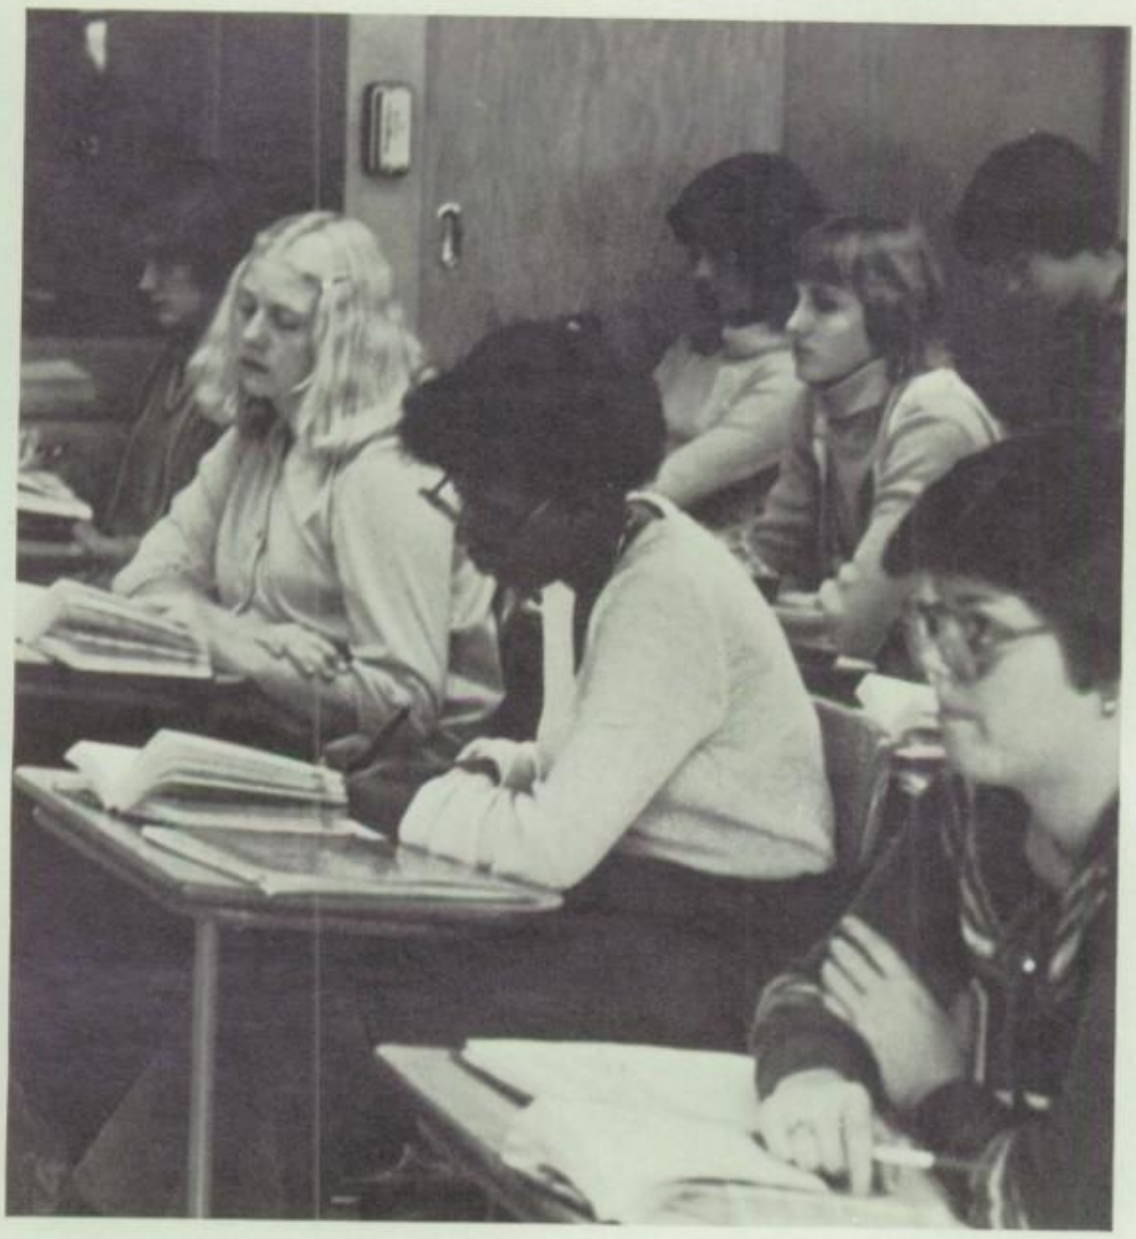
Writing term papers, diagraming sentences, and reading literature were the main parts of English courses. Two levels of English, college preparatory and basic, were offered to students during their first three years. Those who wished to take a fourth year were placed in an English class designed to prepare the students for their freshman college English class.



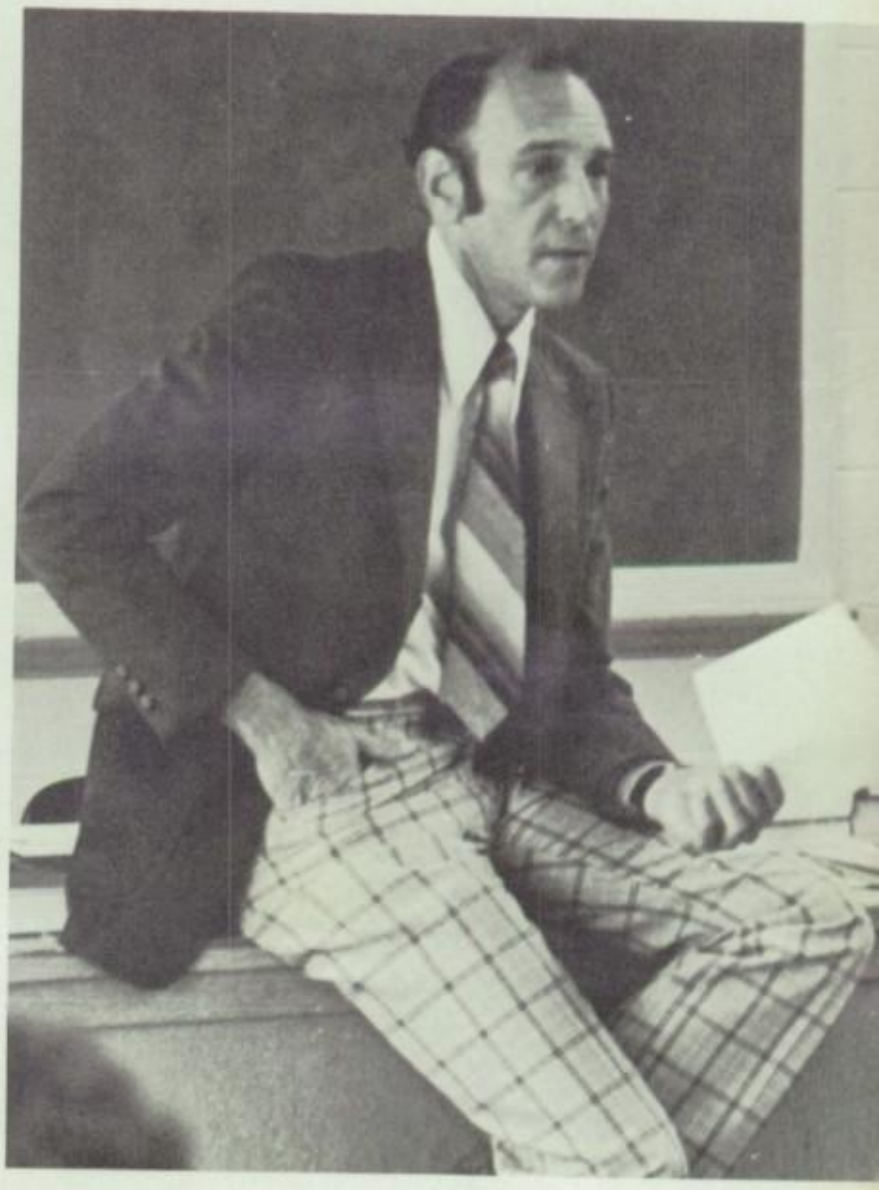
Smiles appear on students' faces as they listen to Mr. Carlat in English II-B.

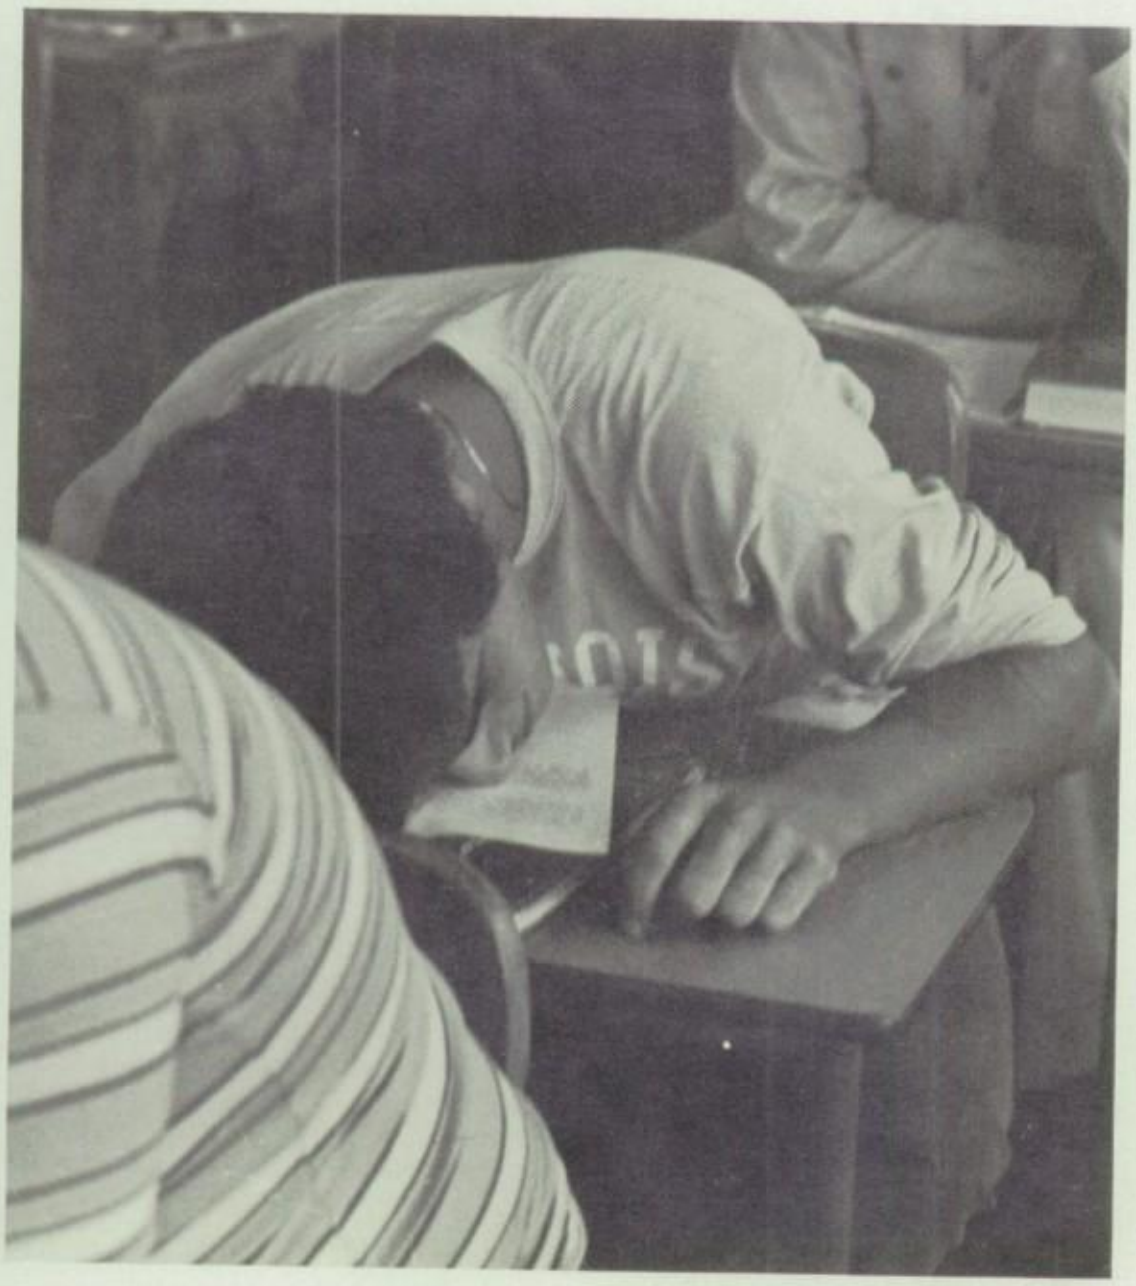
Learning proper use of grammar is important on the freshman level, as students in Mrs. Scott's English I class are finding out.





English IV-C students learn to explicate poems, understand logic, and write a research paper. These seniors listen to Mr. William's lecture during first hour.





Literary movements, and literary classifications are introduced in World Literature. Discussions are often held between Mr. Williams and his "Lit" class.

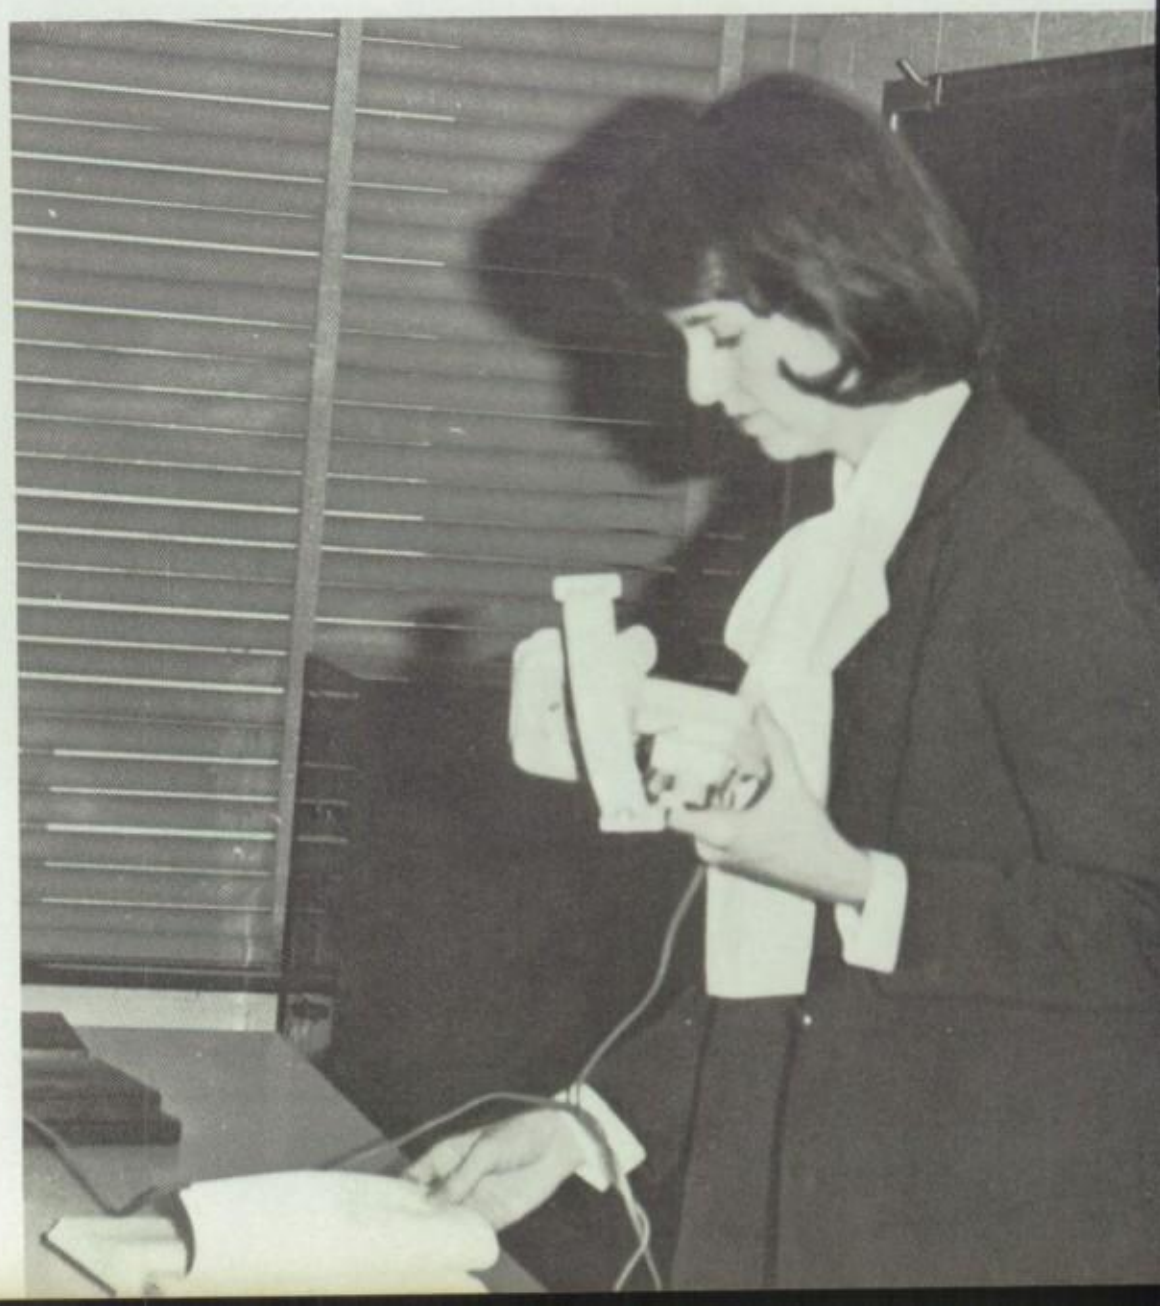
Not all moments at KHS are exciting. Tom Jetel catches forty winks in one of his moments.

A Variety of Dialects

A variety of foreign languages gave students the opportunity to learn a different language and a different culture. Spanish, German, French and Latin were included in the high school curriculum to introduce students to languages other than their native tongue. The courses taught conversations, verb forms, and common vocabulary.

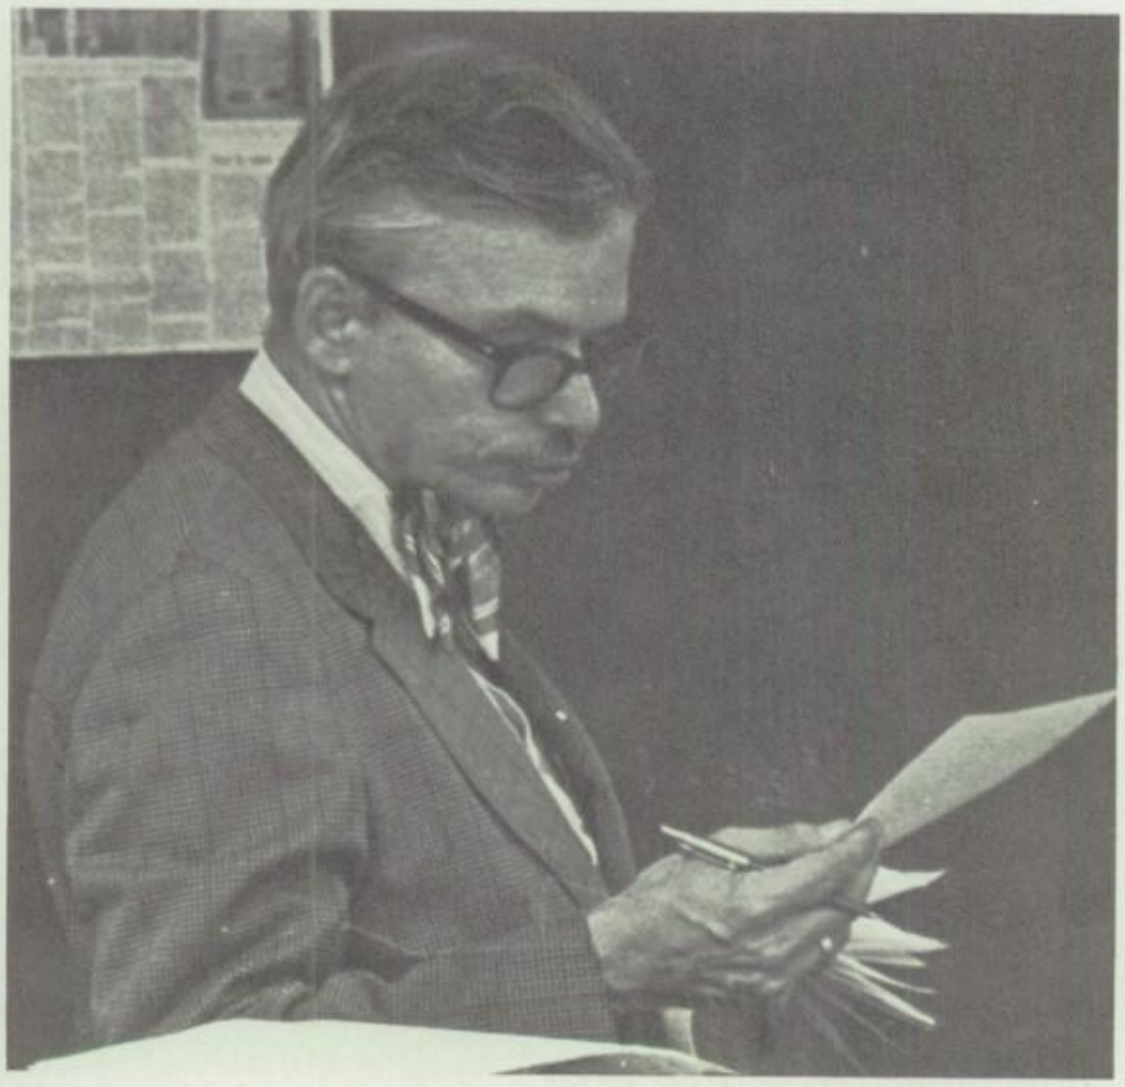
Mrs. May pronounces new vocabulary words for her German class.

Teachers listen to students' pronunciation of dialogue in the language lab to check the students' progress.



Checking on the page, Mrs. Morrison prepares to listen in on French students in the language lab.

By drilling students with pictures, Mrs. Meiburg teaches Spanish I students to identify objects in Spanish rather than English.



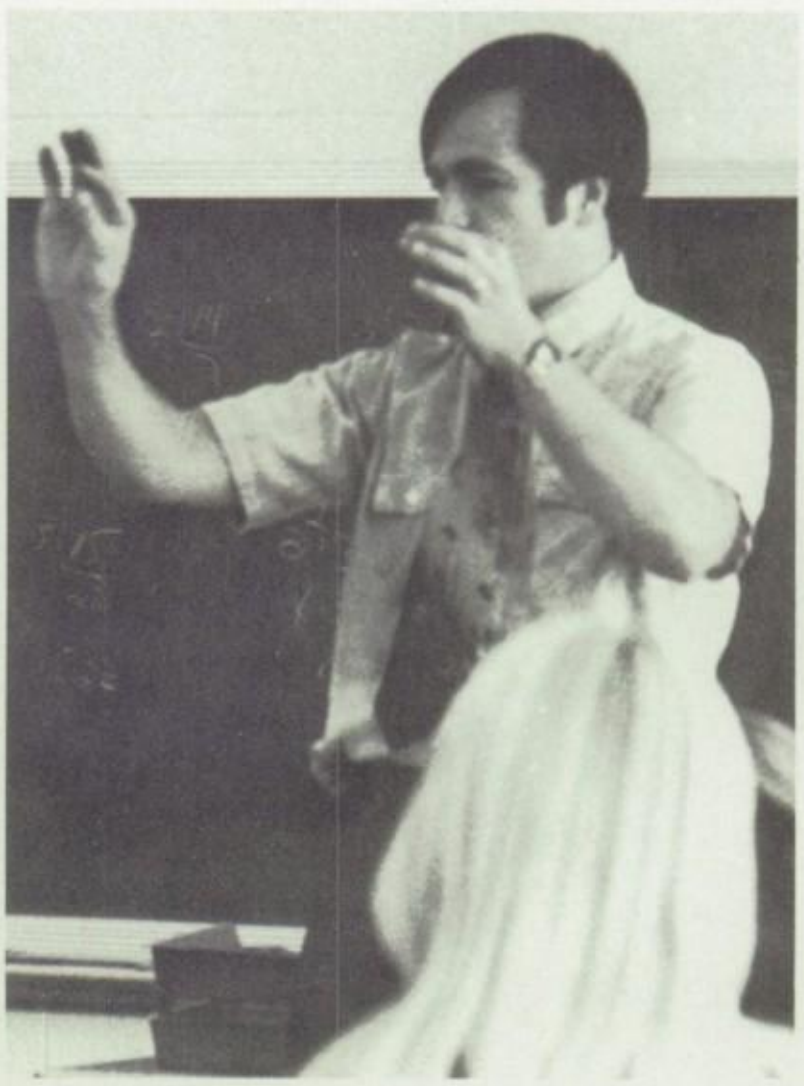
Latin, which is considered the basis of all other languages, is taught by Mr. Carlat. All four years of Latin are combined in one class.

Teaching one of his three Geometry Classes, Mr. Malcom listens attentively to a student's question. Geometry is a stepping stone from Algebra I to Algebra II.

Working hard on his "odds for tomorrow," Bob Cullers learns the basics of mathematics in his Applied Math Class.

Math Is an Absolute Value

Every student at Kewanee High School has received a background in mathematics. One year of math was required, therefore, every student has had at least the basics. There were six different types of mathematics courses offered. There were a variety of courses offered to suit every student. Taught by Mr. Uppinghouse and Mr. Wallace, Applied Math was the most basic of the courses. It covered what the mathematics department considered to be important for everyday life. Pre-Algebra, which was taught by Mr. Malcolm and Mr. Uppinghouse was more of a challenge than Applied Math and offered an introduction to Algebra I. Algebra I was taught by Mr. Wallace and Mr. Malcolm. Geometry covered the study of the relationship between planes, lines, and angles. This course must be completed before the student could take Algebra II. Instructed by Mr. Wallace, Algebra II students increased their knowledge of mathematical equations and operations. Also instructed by Mr. Wallace was Introductory Analysis. This is the most difficult of the math classes, offering basic calculus. Overall, the mathematics department had something for everyone.



Mr. Uppinghouse explains the reading material to his Applied Math Class before assigning more homework.

Taking time out to think, Doug Shiltz searches for the next step in a Geometric proof.

Excelling in Exercise

Physical Education classes allowed students to partake in many different athletics. In some areas, tournaments were included, giving students a chance to compare their ability with others in their class. Participating in sports and competing with other students were just some of the benefits that P.E. classes gave students.

Life has its ups and downs for Theresa Clayes as she takes a "break" in P.E. class.

As a P.E. teacher, Mrs. Clary often finds herself outside.

Using all his strength, Jon Hodge struggles to do as many laps as he can in twelve minutes.

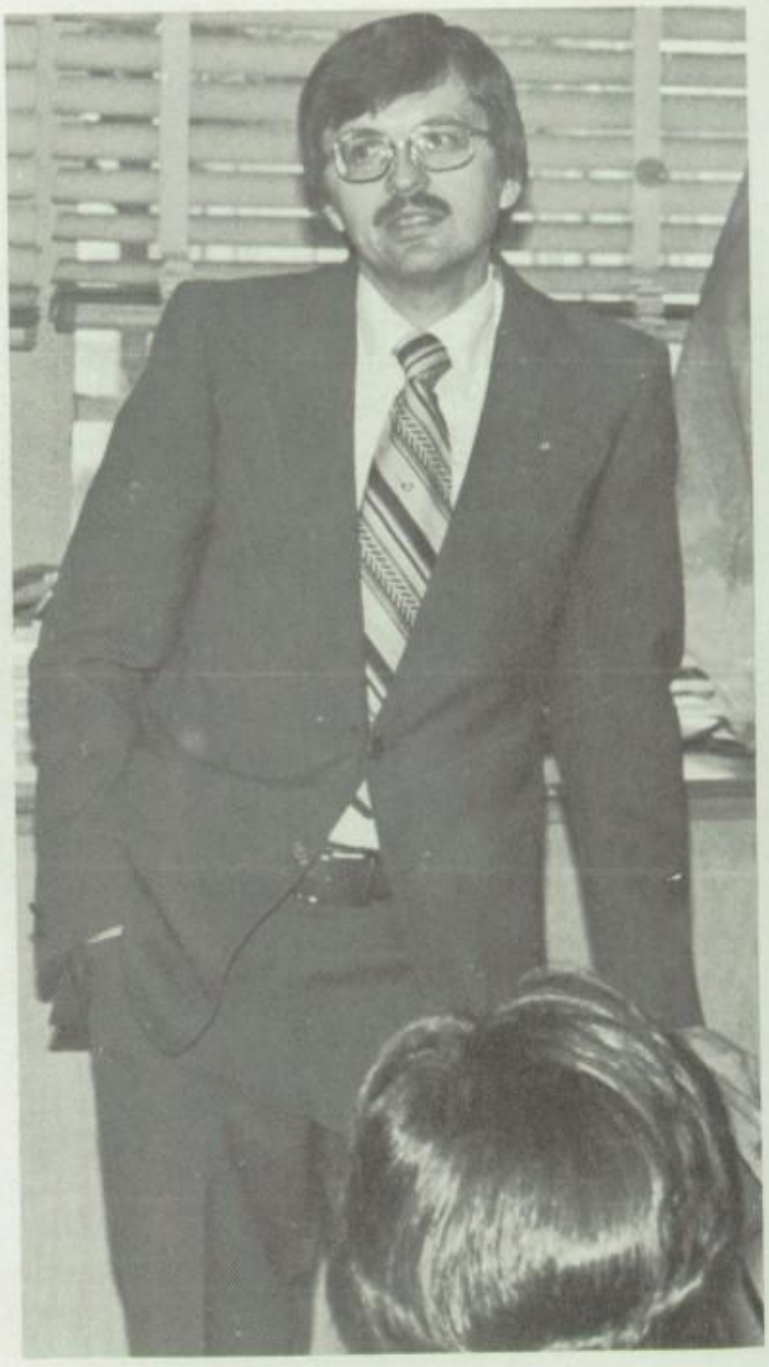
Mr. Lindbeck prepares to help a student learn the techniques of driving. He and Mr. Lazar are the driving instructors at KHS.

To get a driver's license, students were required to take the Driver's Education course, which instructed students on the proper method of driving and the current rules of the road. Students applied the knowledge acquired in the classroom by driving before and after school. Although Driver's Education took only one year to complete, the information taught in this course is applied to everyday life.

Classroom Cruising

Before and after school, and throughout the day, Driver's Ed. students head for the road for some practical experience.

Mr. Buchanan, head of the science department, lectures to his physiology class.

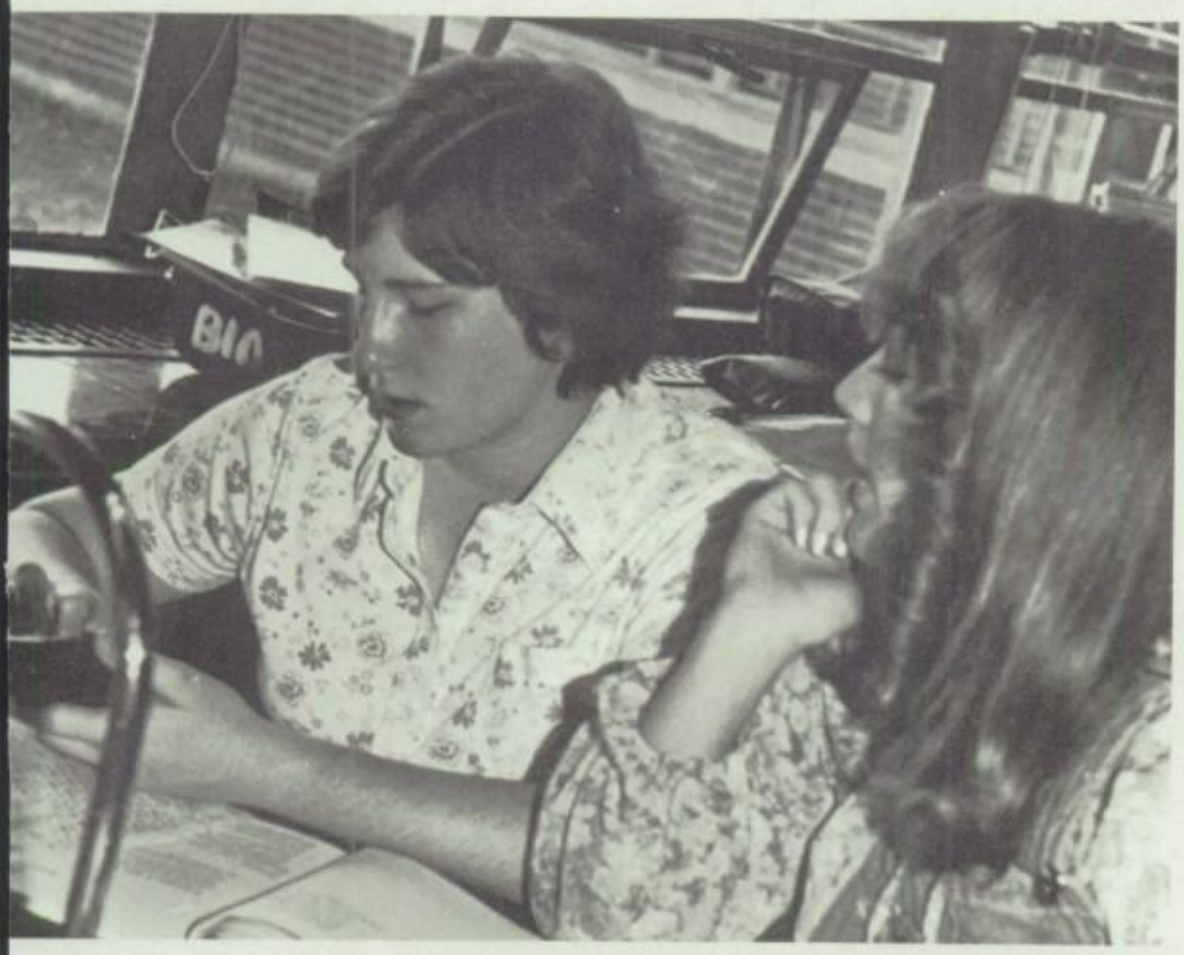


Chemistry students do many experiments. Kari Lindbeck learns that processing the data is the whole purpose of a Chemistry lab.

With the help of a calculator and dial balance, Henry Flores completes another Chemistry experiment.

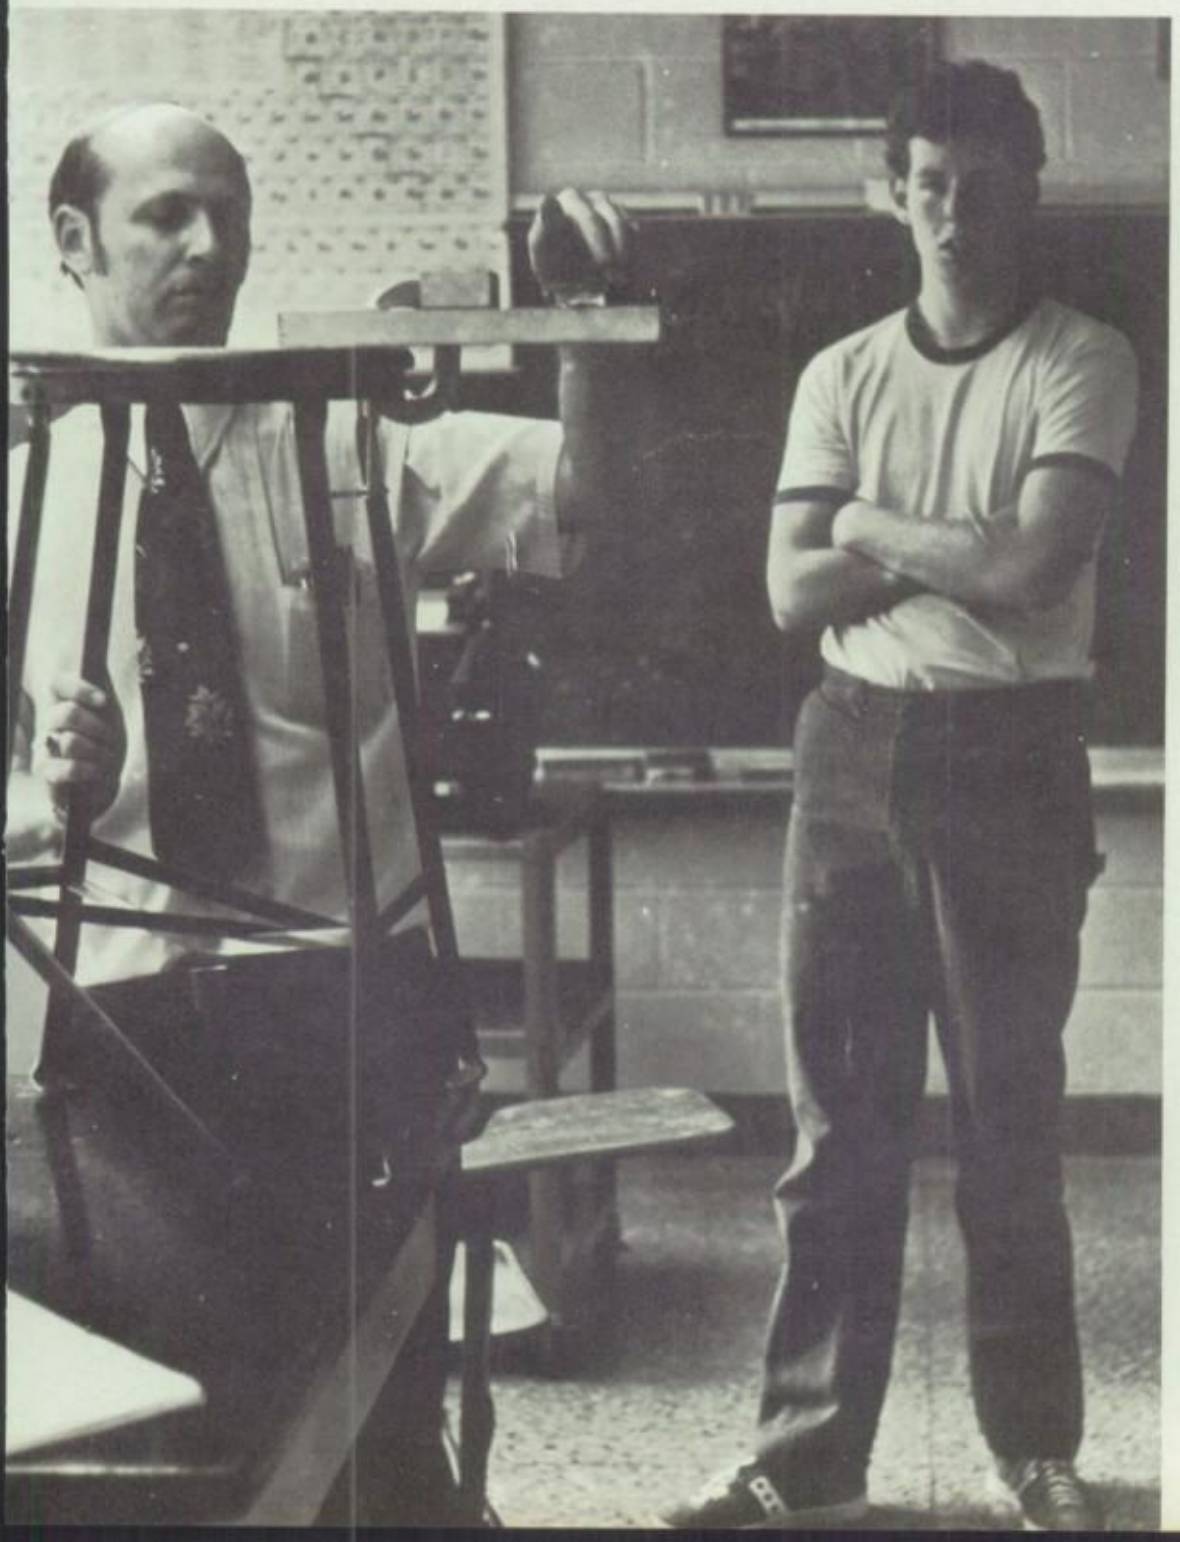
In his second year at KHS, Mr. Christakos teaches Biology I and II.

Learning in Labs



Biology I, Biology II, Chemistry, Physics I and II, Physiology. These were the science courses offered at KHS. There was a complete range of courses offered to give all students a choice of the different concepts they wished to explore. Students in science classes took part in listening, experimenting and observing. Whether catching fruit flies, measuring handiness, mixing acid, or dissecting animals, students were learning about themselves as well as science.

Melanie Elgin looks on as Barb Slover figures the molar mass of an element. This is one method of identifyng elements.

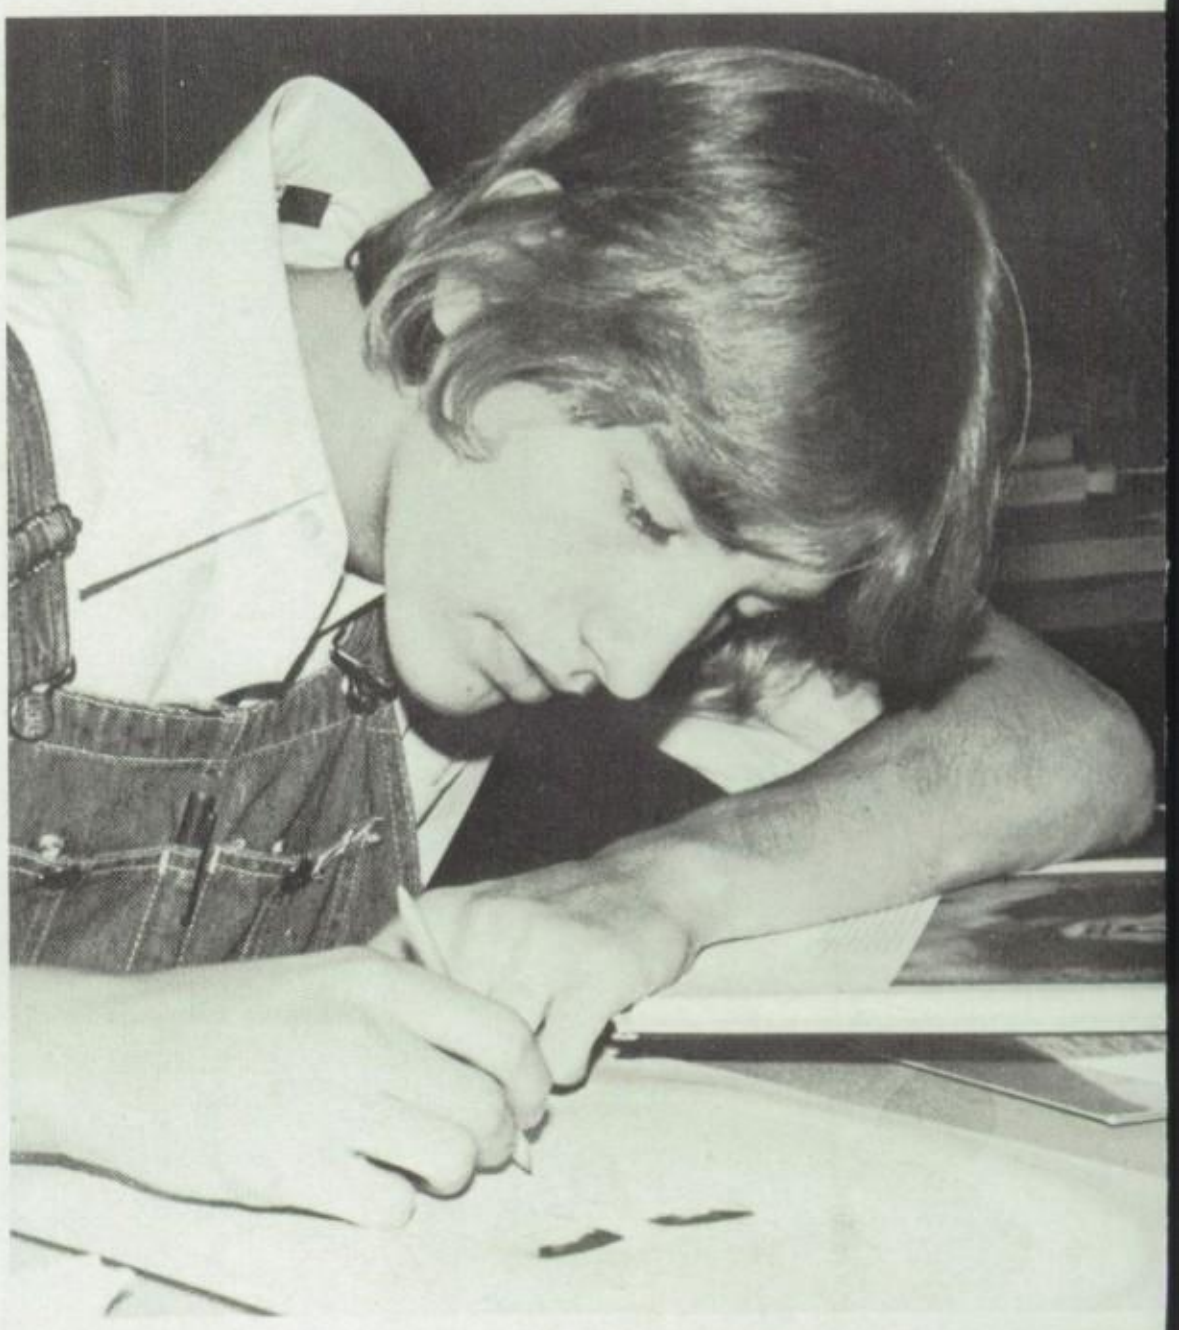


Examining the different specimens, Brooke Remick identifies leaves as part of a Biology II test. Each Biology II student is required to make both a leaf and an insect collection.

Mr. Malcolm demonstrates one of the laws of motion to Greg Engstrom and the rest of his physics class. Physics class involves lectures, demonstrations and lab work.

Canvassing Ideas

Paintings, pottery, and sketches filled the art room as students learned to develop their artistic abilities. The Art Department provided a wide selection of various forms of art, including macramé, block printing, and leather work. Art courses were instructed by Mrs. Ublauer and Mrs. Blake. The Art Department printed programs for plays and dances, as well as "terrible towels" for the Junior Class.



Majoring in art, Chris Ramont combines the talents he has developed to produce good paintings.

Along with her one class at the high school, Mrs. Blake teaches at various elementary schools in the area.

Experimenting with oils, Ed Peterson works on one of the many portraits painted in Advanced Art classes. Some portraits are sent to exhibits for judging.

A Future in the Office

KHS students were brought into business classes by their concern for the future. These courses introduced different fields of business and gave students the opportunity to find their interests. Shorthand and Typing I and II were offered for those interested in secretarial work. A course in accounting allowed students to get a taste of business transactions.

Finishing early, Carol Underwood takes a break in Typing II. Students increase their words per minute and decrease their mistakes in the advanced Typing course.

Joe Tavares learns how to make a balance sheet in Accounting. Concepts taught in this course help students in their financial endeavors after high school.

Chuck DeSy takes a timing in his Typing I class. Timings are a way of improving speed.

Preparing for the Future

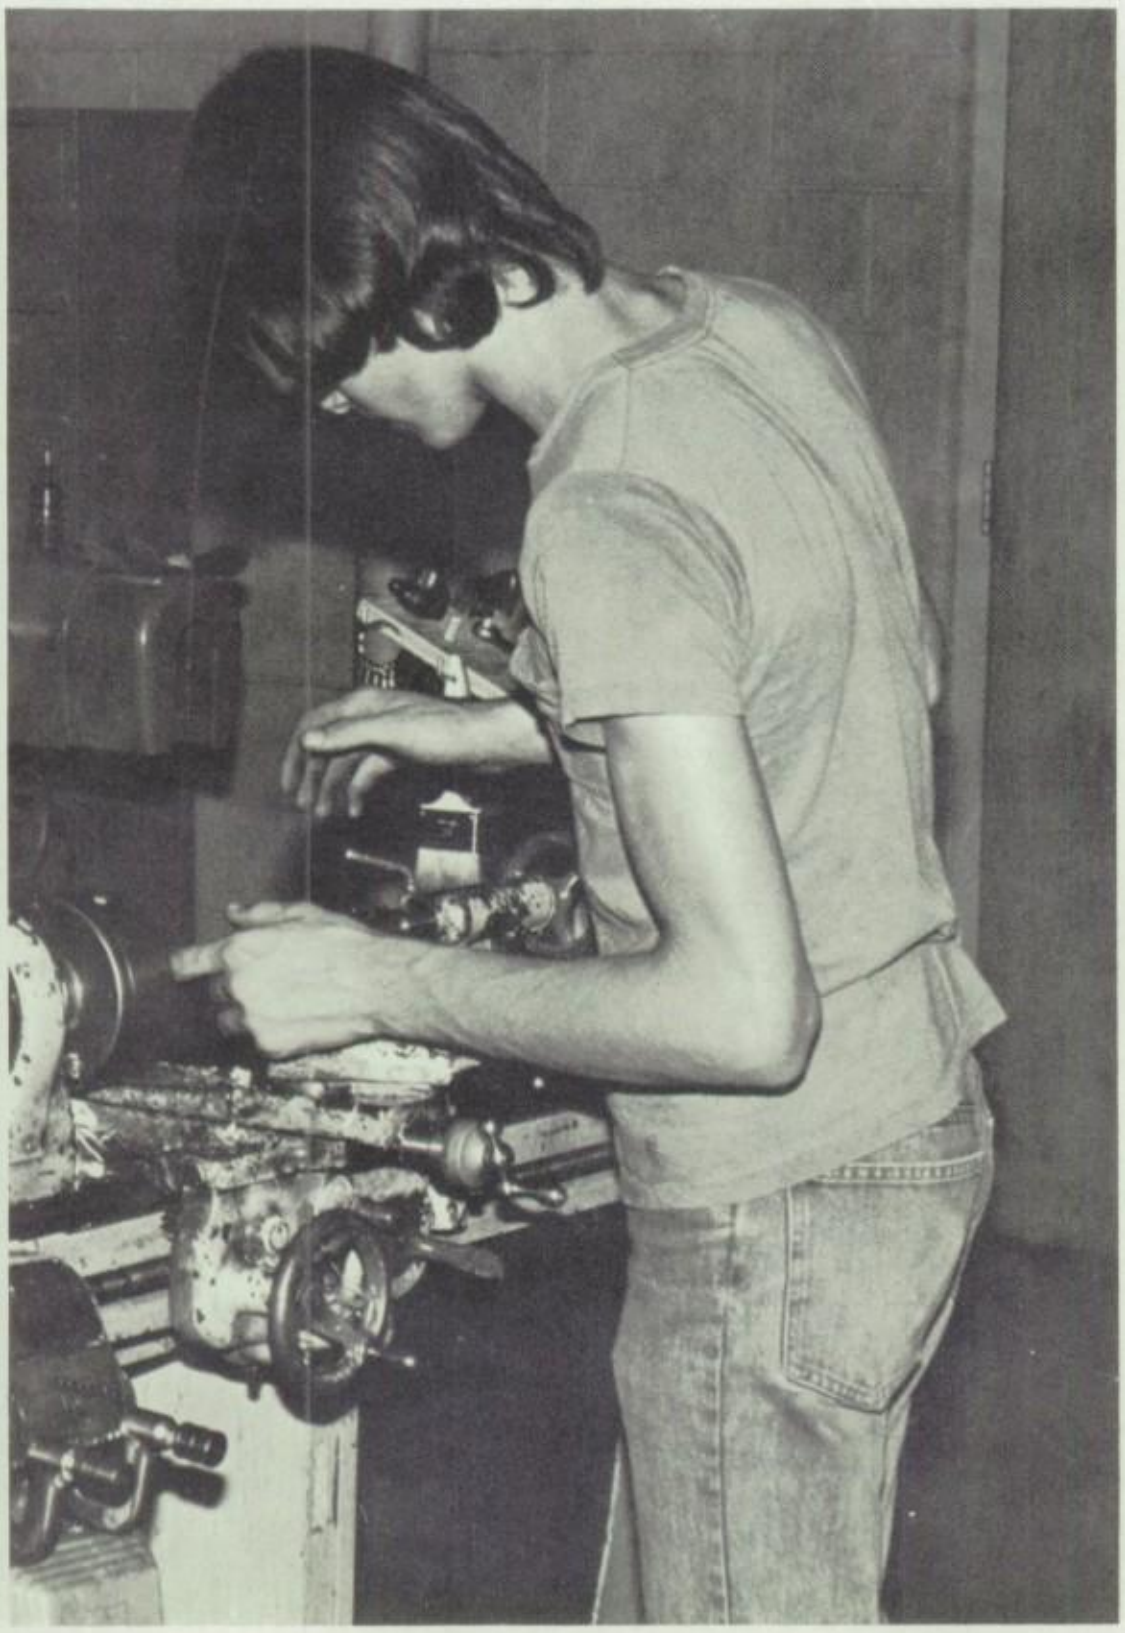
Vocational Education courses prepared students for future occupations by providing a good background in various fields. Students were given the opportunity to work with tools and machinery in Industrial Arts, Welding, and Woods. Other courses which taught occupational traits were Clothing Management, Child Care, and Agricultural Mechanics. Vo. Ed. courses gave students a head start in the job market.

Working with the hogs is one part of Vo. Ag. Here Jim Ingle tries to capture a stubborn one.

Welding plays a big part in the vocational education program at KHS.

Mrs. Shafer hands out a study sheet to her Child Care class.

After Machine Shop, Tim Swearingen, Louis Martinez, and Rod Cantrell clean up.

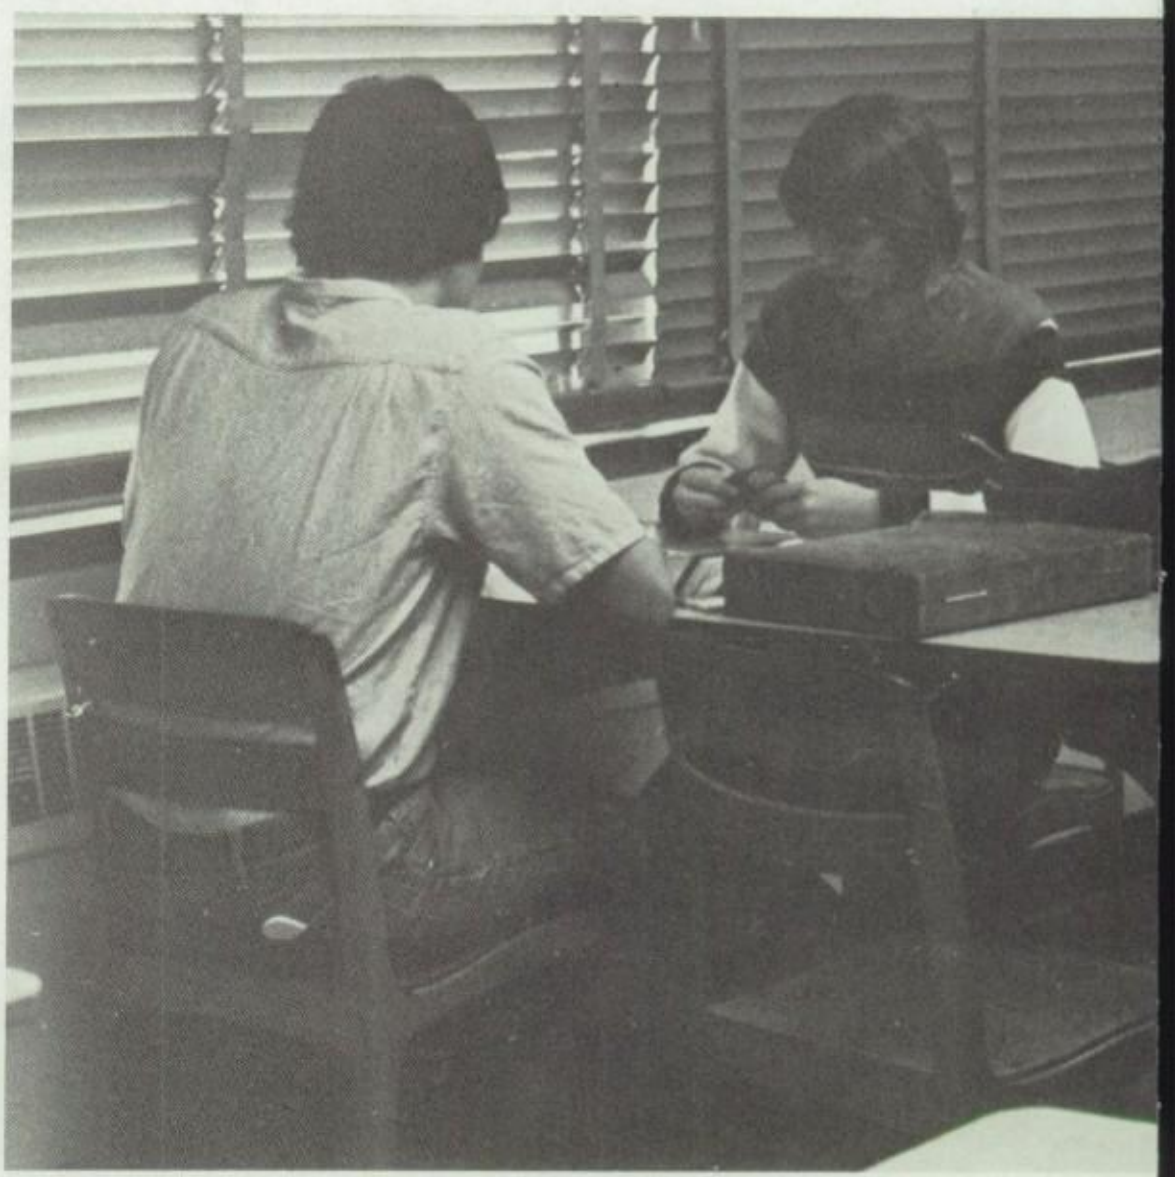


Jeff Stout raises a lathe in his Woods class. Students in vocational education classes get a chance to work with many different types of equipment.

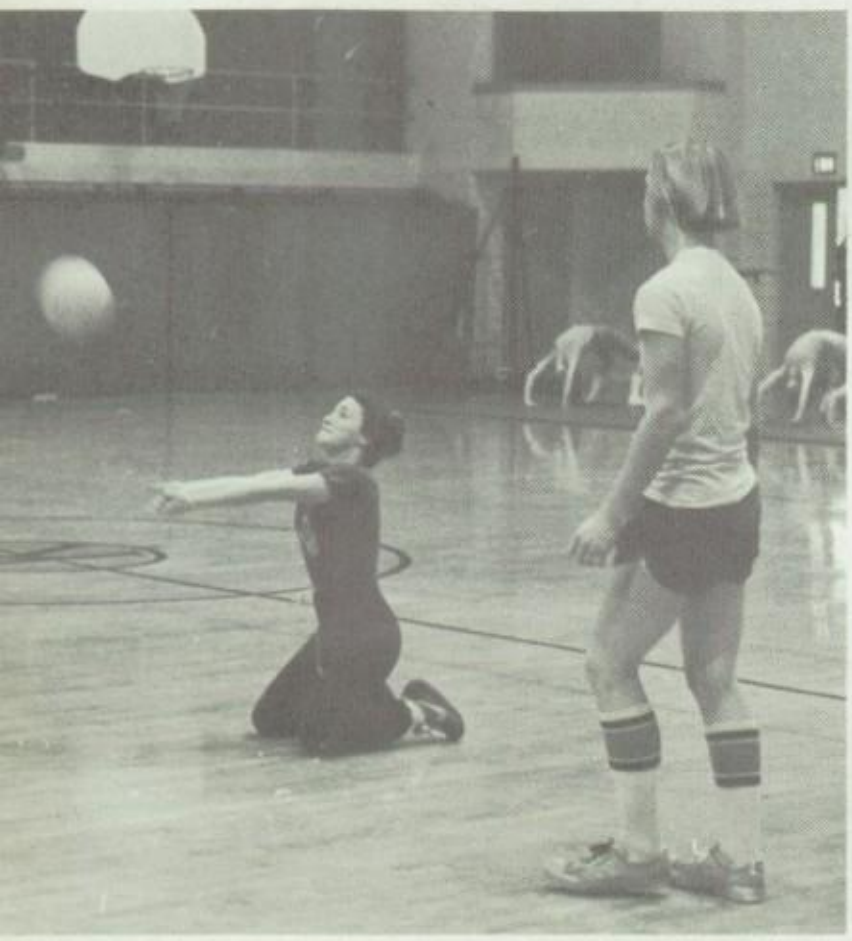
Working in shop, Charles Mannon gains some practical experience.

Learning for Fun

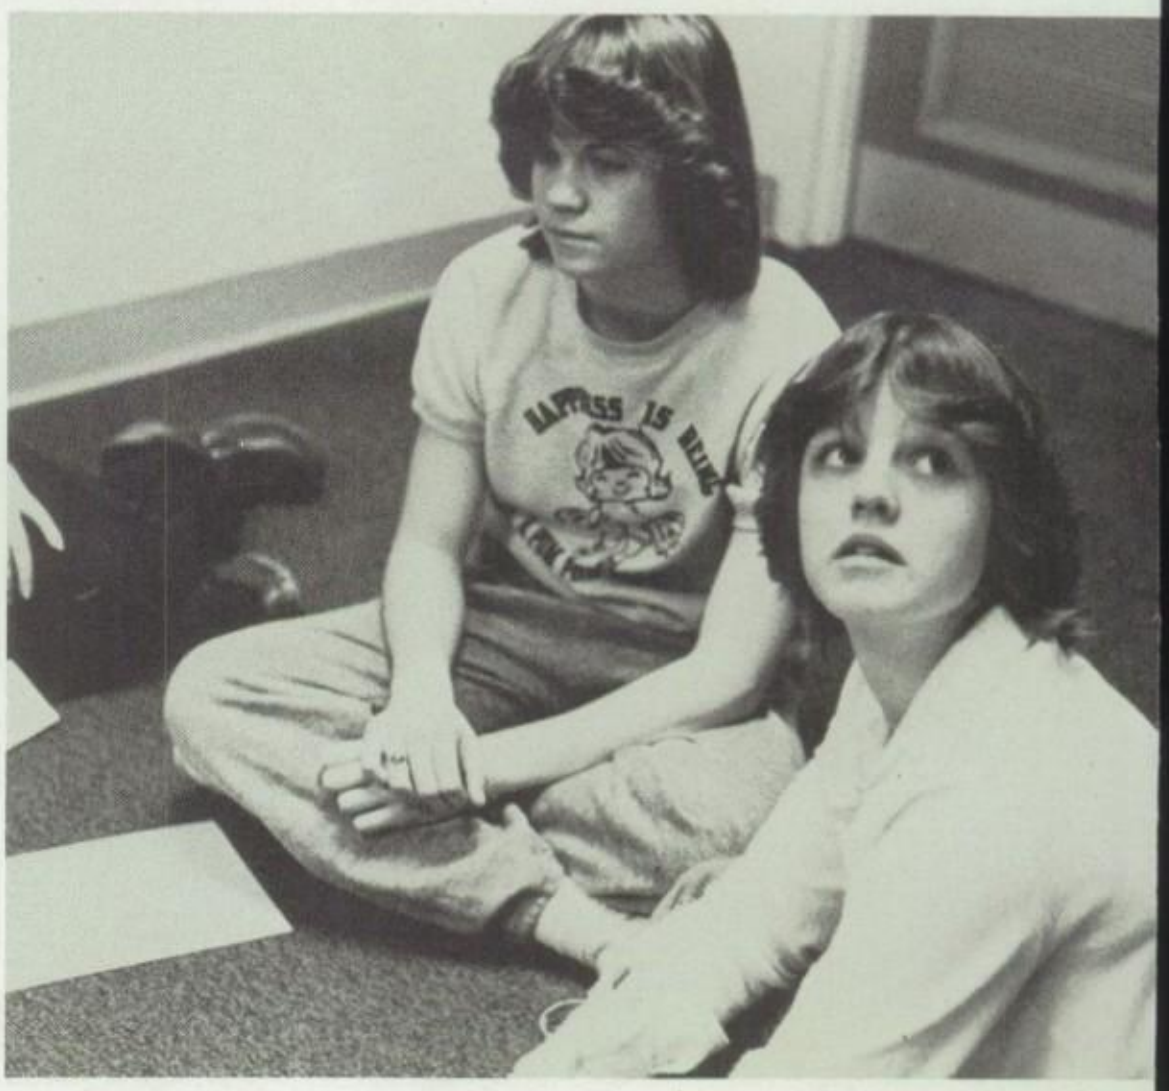
Providing a much needed and well-deserved break between semesters, mini-courses were well-received by Kewanee High School students. Roller-skating, a new addition to mini-courses, seemed to be a favorite, as over two hundred students choose this class. Other courses included backgammon, T.V. video games, volleyball, several card games, and ping-pong. And when the week was over, students seemed ready for the final semester of the school year.



Mini-course week is a time for fun, learning and sometimes competition. Jodi Wager and Jim Sckrabulis match wits in a game of Euchre.

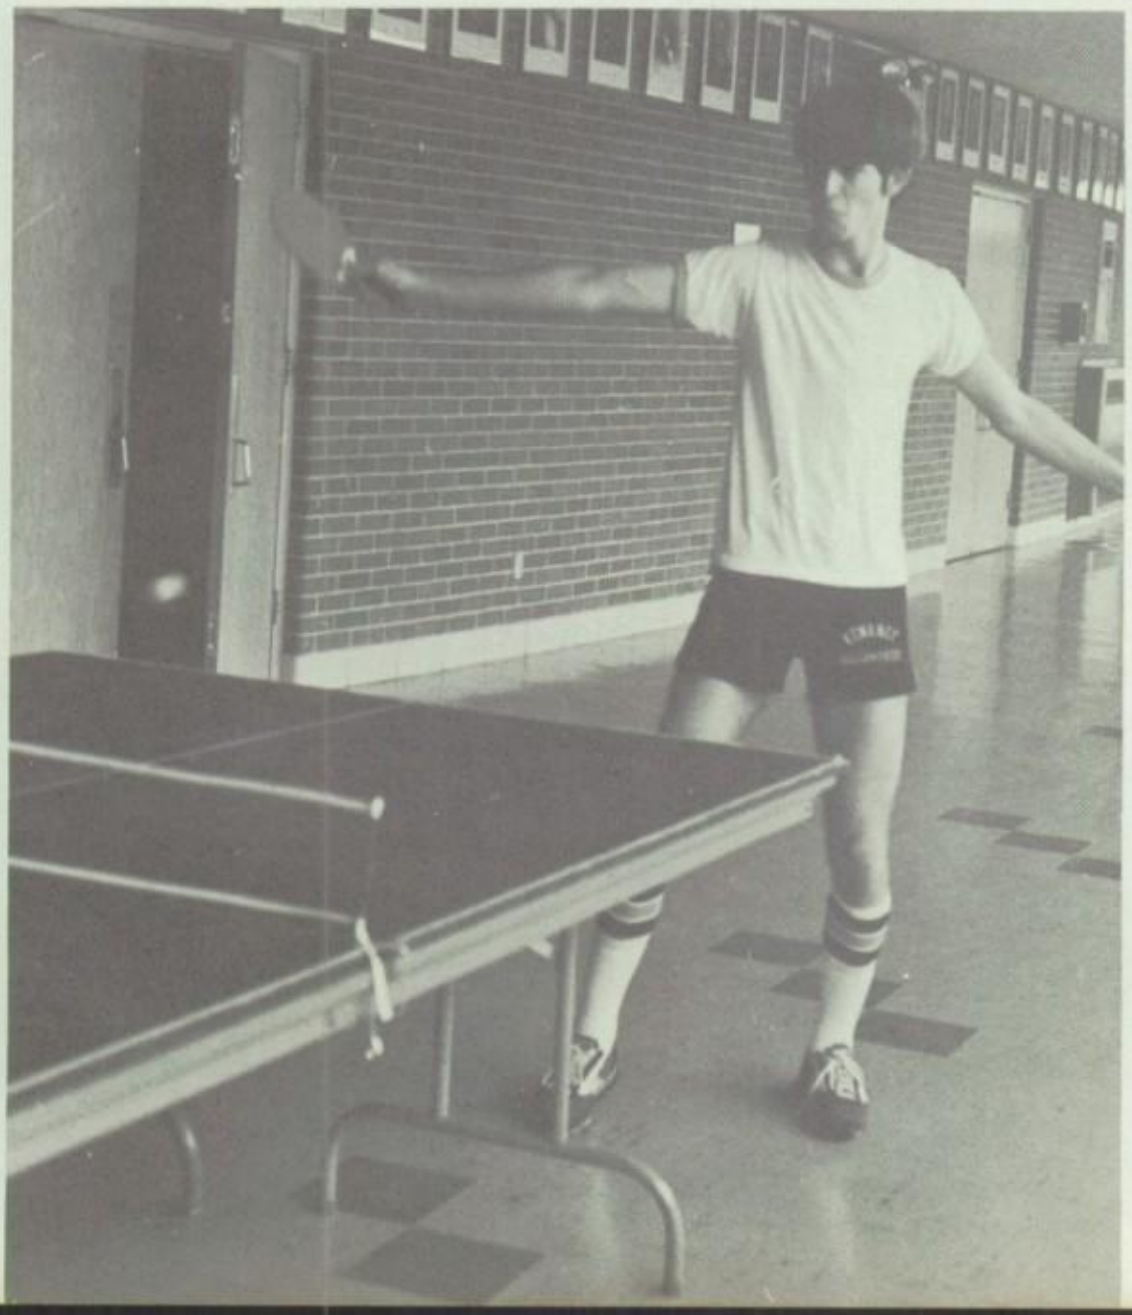


Volleyball, a popular mini-course, gave students a chance to improve upon their abilities in this sport. Connie Underwood seems to have caught on.



Yahtzee is a game of combined luck and skill. Kathy Kaine and Kim Brackett wait their turn for the roll of the die.

Cleaning up is part of cooking as Jeff Stout and Marty Mitchell found out in Bachelor Cooking.



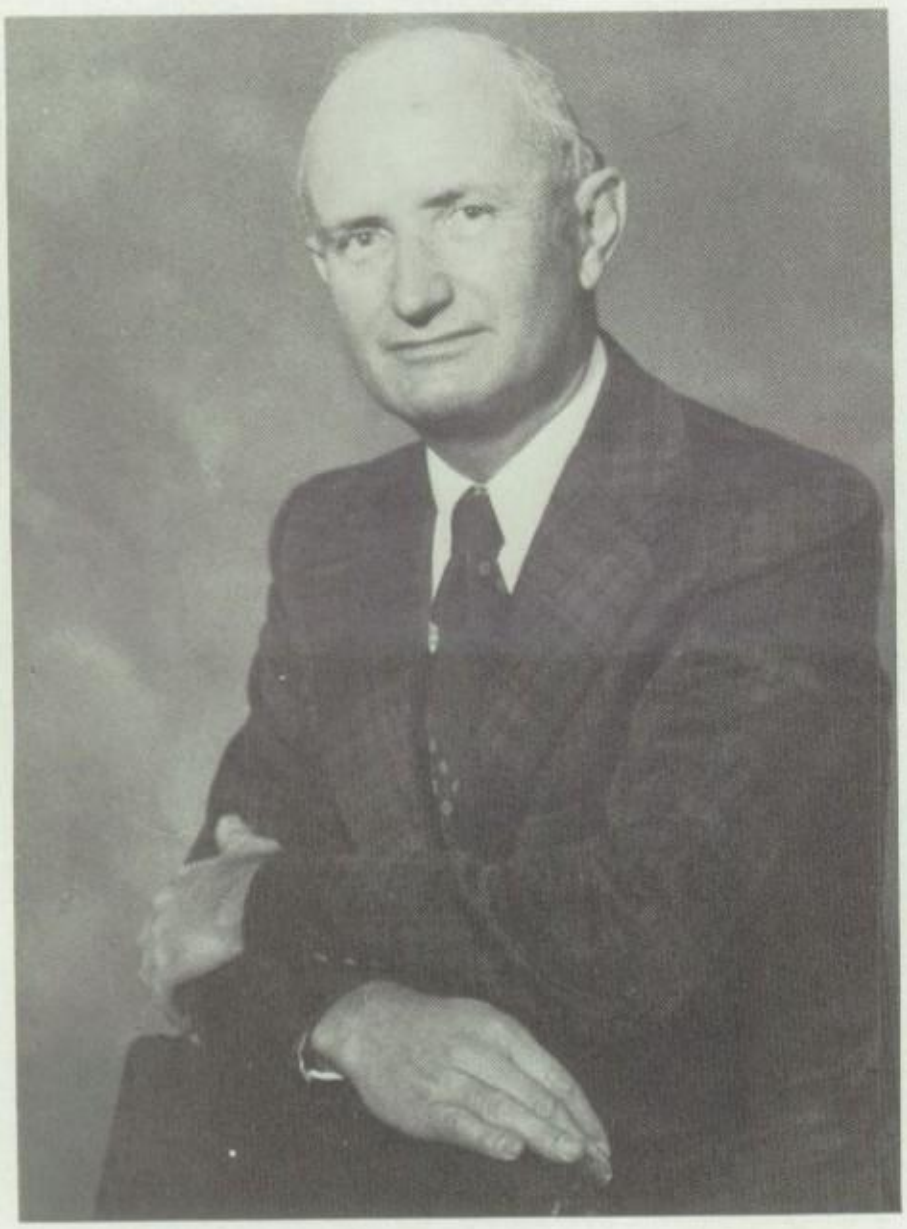
Many of the courses offered required skill and concentration. Dan Peach returns a serve while keeping his eye on the ball during a ping-pong class.

FACES

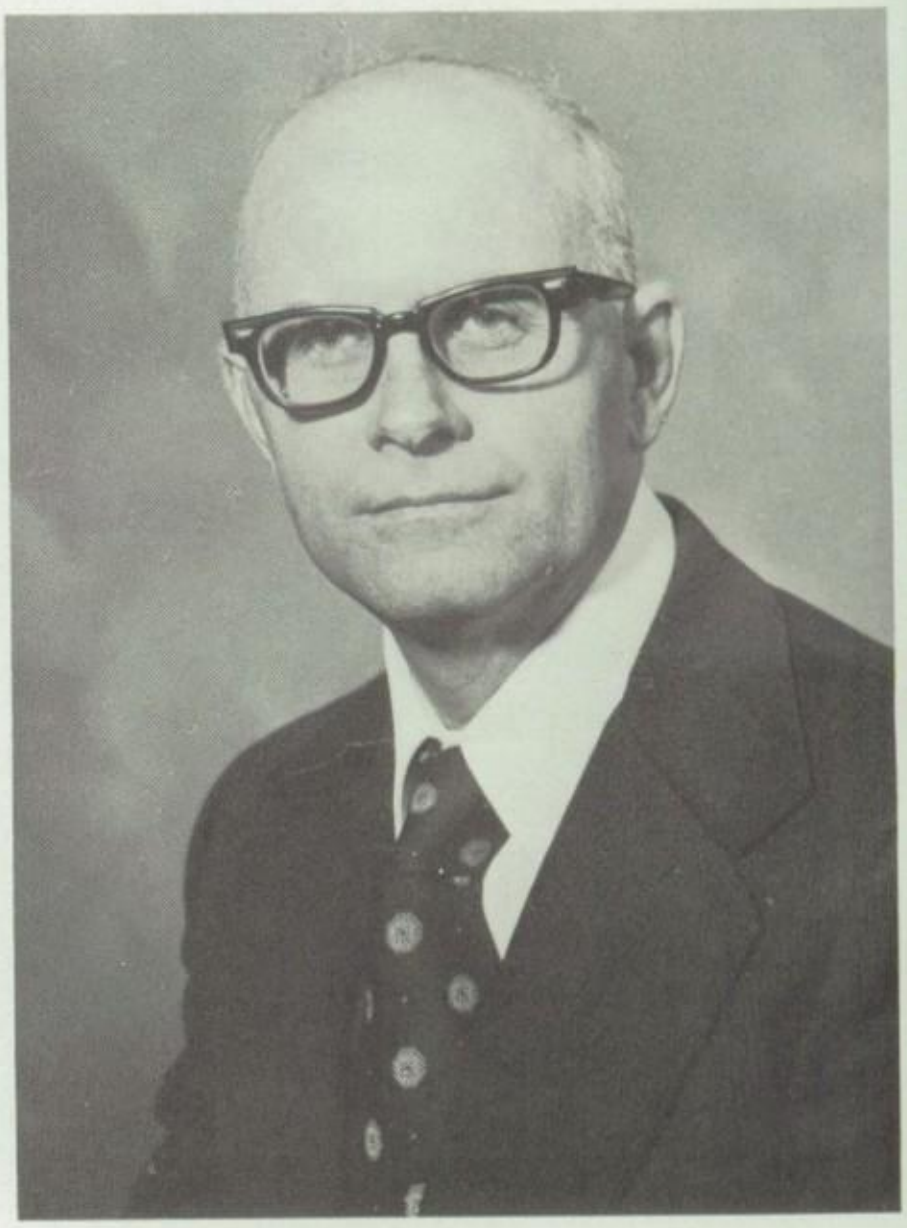
Maintaining Quality

Serving as superintendent of the school system, Mr. Golby was responsible for keeping the school in compliance with laws and up to state standards. As assistant superintendent, Mr. Sullens aided Mr. Golby by sharing in his responsibilities. These men, along with the board of education and their secretaries made the school run smoothly, efficiently and safely.

Administration Secretaries: Mrs. Collins, Mrs. Golden, Mrs. Melchin, Mrs. Sullivan.



Mr. Golby, Superintendent of Schools.



Mr. Sullens, Assistant Superintendent of Schools.

Bettering the School

Once a month the student advisory board met at Central School with Mr. Golby to discuss the problems and current issues of KHS. Many questions that the students had were answered, and suggestions on how to improve the school were given. Mr. Golby and the student advisory board kept communication going between the faculty and the students.

Also working to improve the school system, the School Board set standards for school policies. The Board consisted of locally elected officials who had final jurisdiction on all proposed school activities. The School Board resolved school problems and made our school work well.

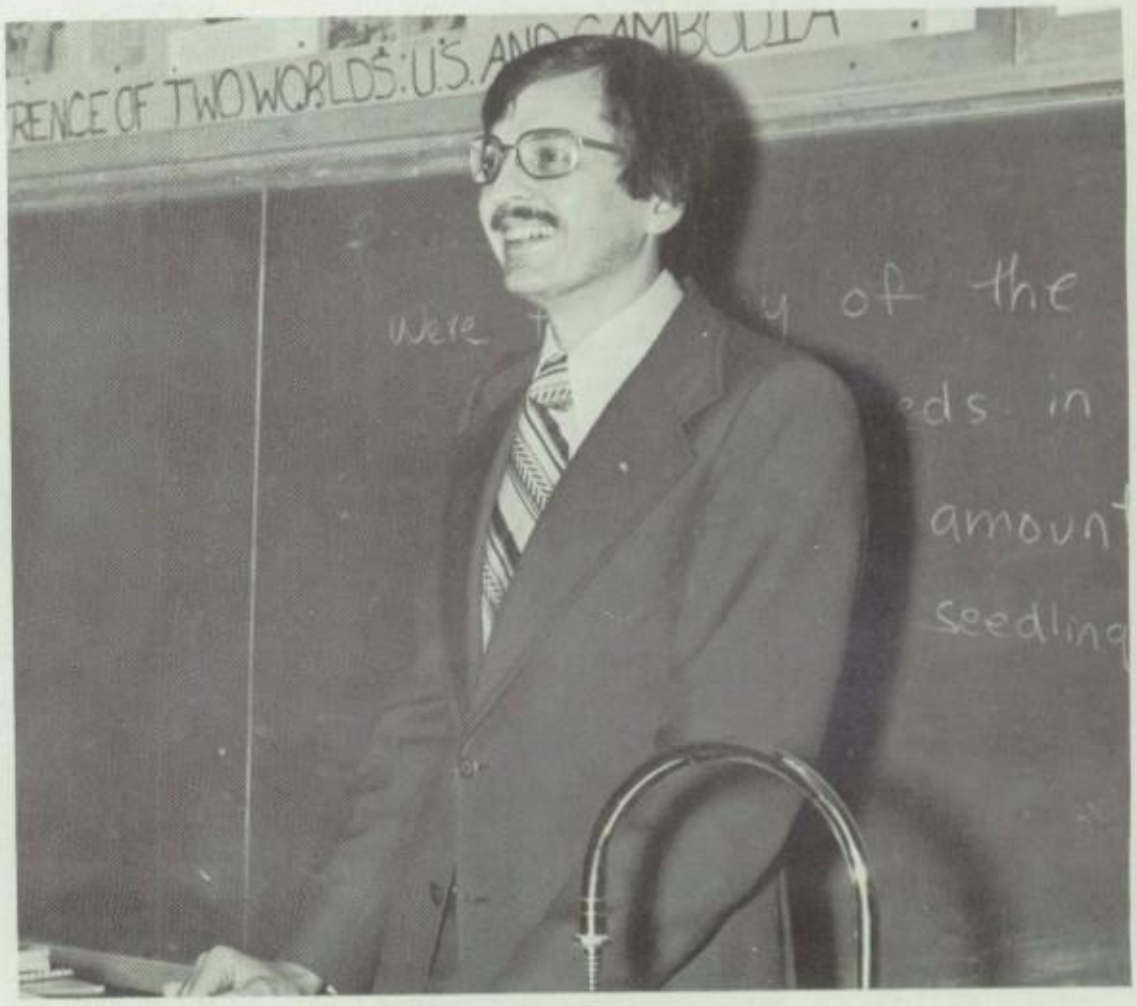
School Board: Daisy Gerwig, John Rodak, Martin Hepner, Robert Petersen. Standing: Willis Cronau, Charles Summers, John Spets.

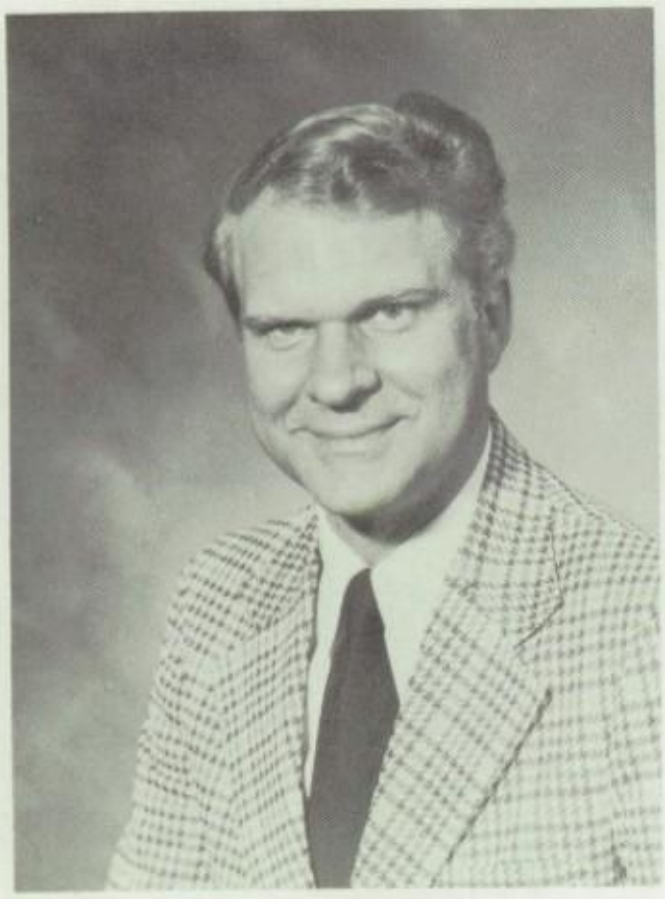
Making It All Possible

Several administrators worked to keep the school in order this year. Aside from his duties as principal, Mr. Damron was Director of Athletics and Transportation. Miss Pletkovich's job as ad. asst. included serving as Dean of Staff and Students. Also an ad. asst., Mr. Buchanan acted as Director and Treasurer of Extr-Curr. Act. Mr. Lindbeck, the Assoc. Dean of Students, was primarily in charge of administering discipline. Ad. asst. Mr. Edleman served as Director of Inter-School Act. The Administration made school year 1979-80 the best possible for the students.

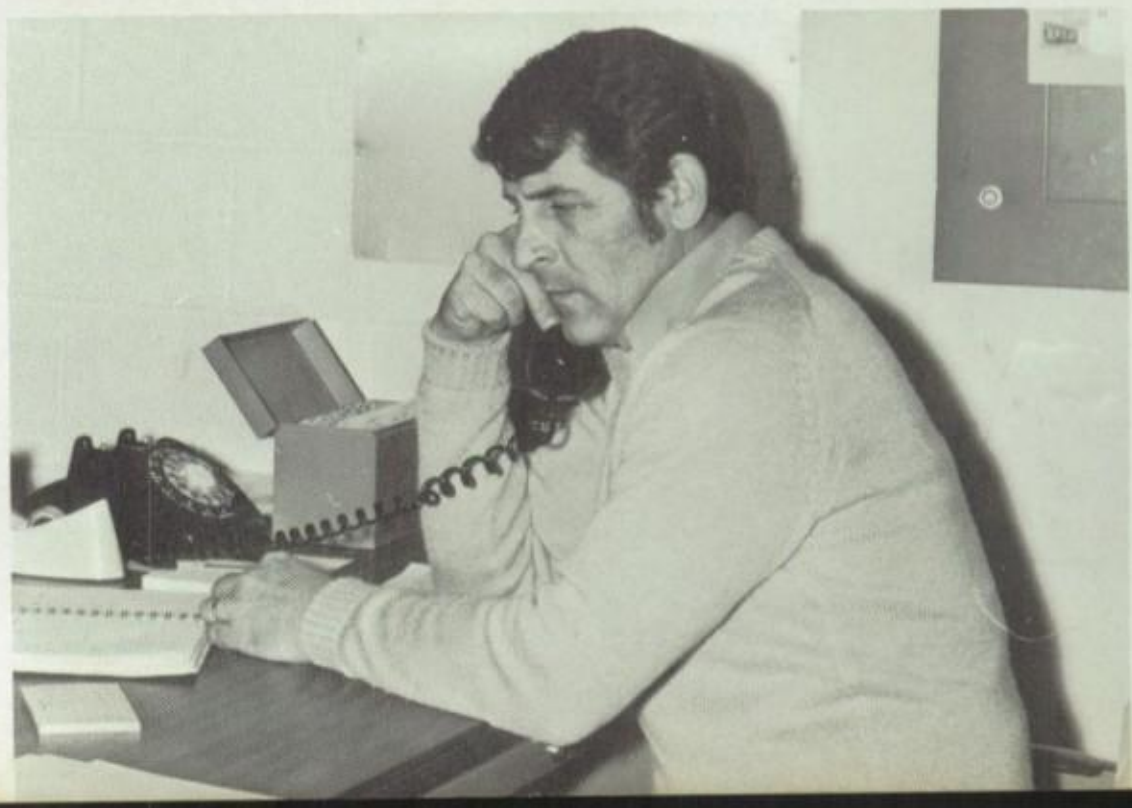
As Administrative Assistant to the Principal, Miss Pletkovich works through loads of paperwork.



Mr. Buchanan, Administrative Assistant to the Principal, also conducts several classes.



Mr. Damron, Kewanee High School Principal.



Associate Dean of Students, Mr. Lindbeck, deals with the problems of many students.

Servicing the School

During the year, several people were employed for the purposes of sanitation, cooking, and transportation. The janitors cleaned the building each day and made repairs where needed. Also of daily service, the cooks prepared hot meals for the students and faculty. Providing transportation, the bus drivers drove students to and from school. The janitors, cooks, and bus drivers were needed to help the school function properly.

Bus Drivers. Seated: Carol VanDeRostyne, Doris Bickers, Betty Sortwell. Standing: Ken Vincent, Merle Heise, Dan Bennet, Mick Uppinghouse, Roger Wallace, Chuck Fleming.

Custodians. Emma Dennis, Ida Smith, Earl Klavhon, Judy Pettis, John Smith.

Skilled Office Aids

Behind the scenes, the secretaries made the school run smoothly. These hard-working members of KHS faculty deserve recognition for their services. The tasks of the secretaries included typing, running off copies, and giving out supplies. Besides their secretarial skills, these ladies also helped at extra-curricular activities by charging admission or chaperoning. Whatever the job, the secretaries gave their time and care to do well.

From the back of the art room, Mrs. Brown distributed supplies to art students and kept track of art bills.

The secretaries take time to make their work accurate. Mrs. Brokaw carefully runs off copies.

Filing through the book index, Mrs. Heise prepares a list of overdue books.

SENIOR HISTORY

Now is the time for everyone to reminisce on high school. We all encountered successes and failures, reaching some goals, falling short on others. But success to some may be failure to others. Can success be measured in final achievement or in effort? We've reached a point in our lives where we must choose the way we will try to reach our own personal success. God gives us all 24 hours every day to use to better ourselves and the lives of others. Whether we accept this challenge and attempt to do our best is up to us. Hopefully our years here at Kewanee High School have given us a foundation to achieve all that we possibly can.

Perhaps even more important than what we've learned in our studies here, is the knowledge we've gained from the people here at K.H.S. The students, faculty, and administration all combine to create an atmosphere which lends to the development of each and every student's individual character. Naturally, not all memories we carry from these halls are fond ones right now, but years from now those bad memories will fade and in their place will be remembrances of good times and good friends. As we are sure to find out later in life, Kewanee High School, whether we are willing to admit it or not, is a positive effect in our life.

But K.H.S. is only a start. As the cliche goes "We are tomorrow's leaders". Will we sit back and ask others for help, or will we buckle down and help ourselves? I sincerely believe that we all have the potential to do well in our careers. Maybe we should all have a little more confidence in ourselves and each other. We can never do what we want by ourselves. Let's represent Kewanee and Kewanee High School as best we can. And remember, WE are the Class of 1980 and we will succeed!

1979-1980 Student Council President

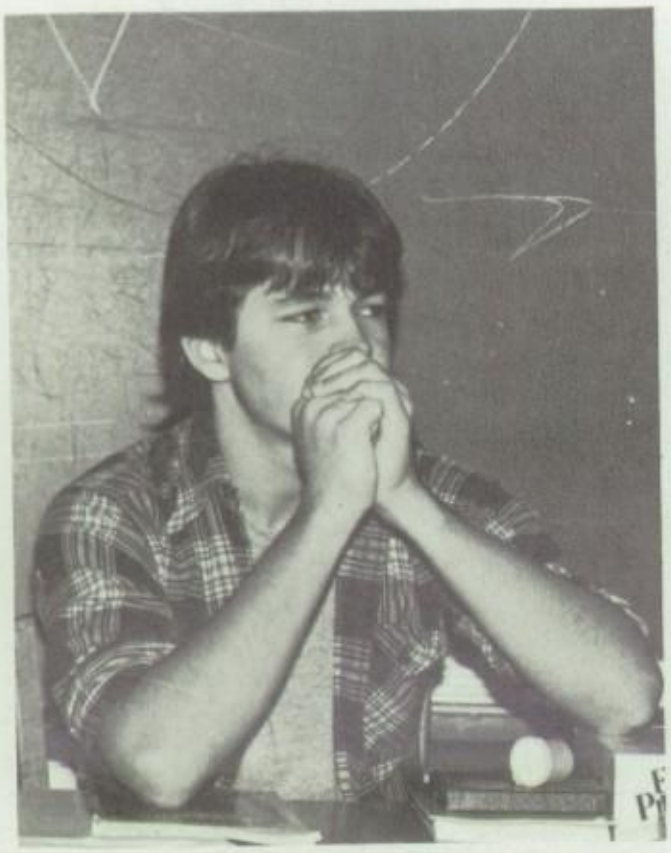
Facing the Future

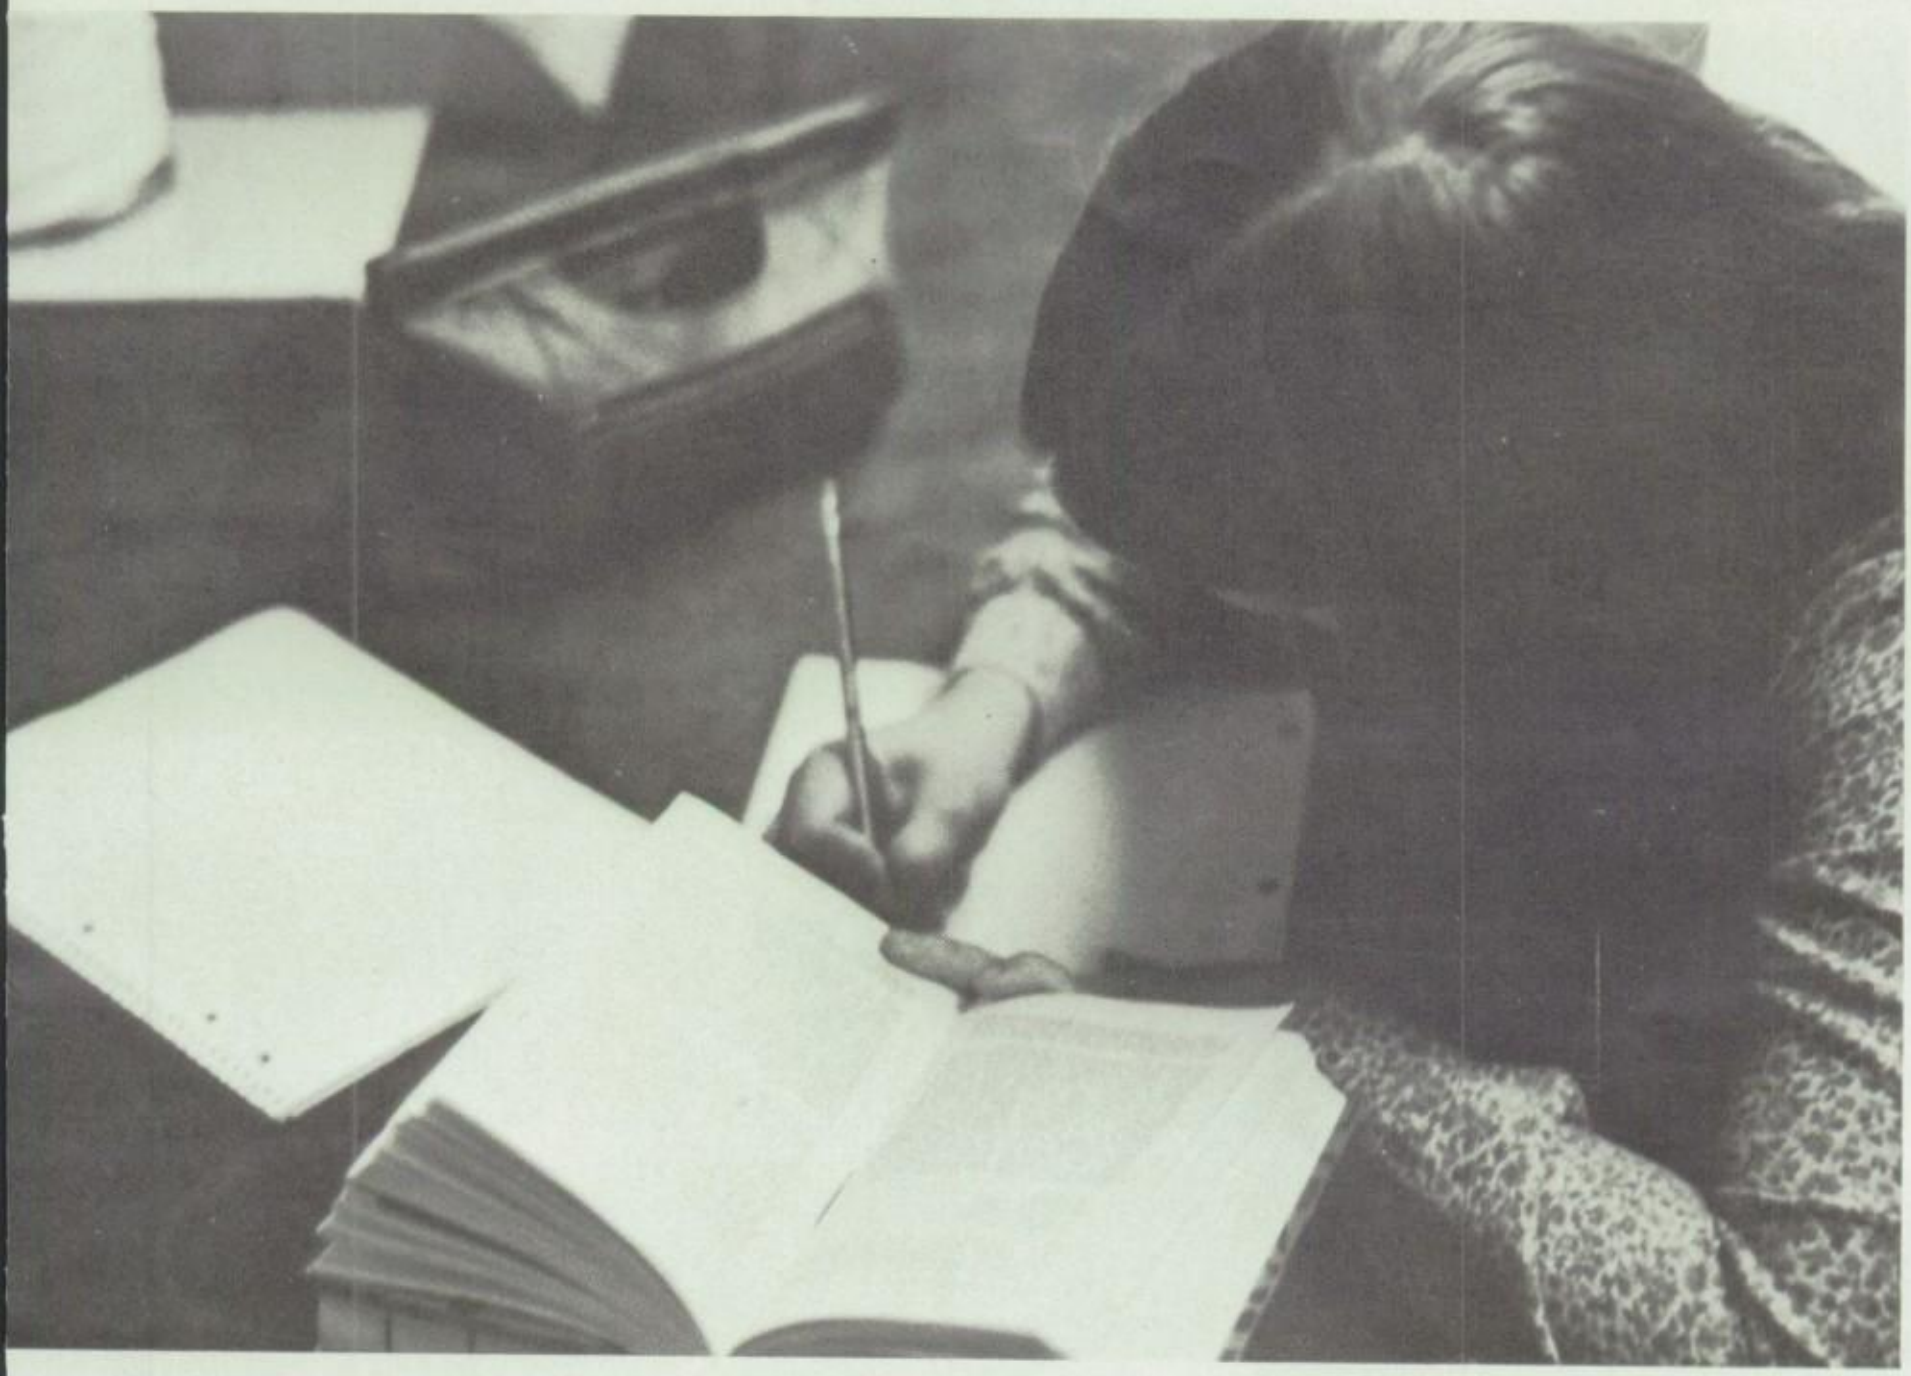
The junior year is like a stepping stone. During this year, students mature and take on much more responsibility. Jobs and decisions about the future face students who had been carefree as freshman and sophomores. The junior year starts students off in another direction, away from childhood and toward maturity. Juniors are awakened to the future and start to develop goals in life toward the road ahead.

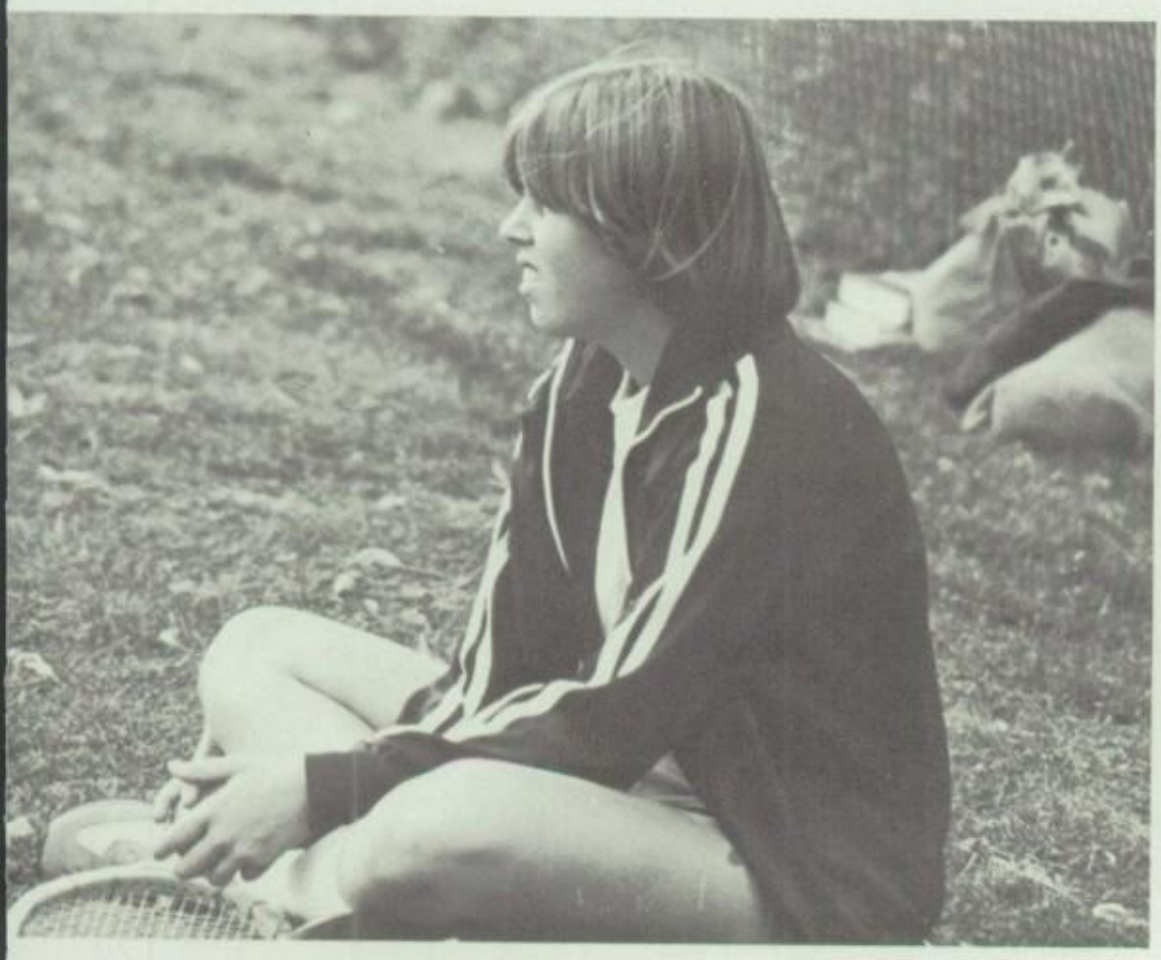
Junior class officers: Jackie Gustafson, Vice-pres.; Mary Seyller, Pres.; LuAnn Hill, Sec.; Tami Shinkevich, Treas.



Juniors become more active in organizations. Jim Remick acts as Vice-president of Key Club.

As a Junior, Angie Waller gains a chance to cheer on the varsity squad.





Looking on from the side, Pam Coné watches a tennis meet.

While not running errands for Mr. Fleming, Chris Helmkamp catches up on her studies.

Given time to do an assignment, Kim Townsend works diligently in class.

Contributing Spirit

Usually said to be the rowdiest year of any class, the sophomore year is a year of class participation. Sophomores add to the KHS athletic line-up by making up and supporting the Riveter team. Also, they generate enthusiasm throughout the school with their rowdie school spirit. The sophomores keep things going year-round and help make Kewanee High School a school to be proud of.

One of the professional assemblies holds the attention of these sophomores.

In between performances, Kathy Kaine helps cheer the Boilers on to victory.

Many students supported the Boilers in their successful season. Before a game, Jeff Creech eyes a seat in the cheering section.

Many sophomores were interested in their new class rings—Don Orr was no exception.

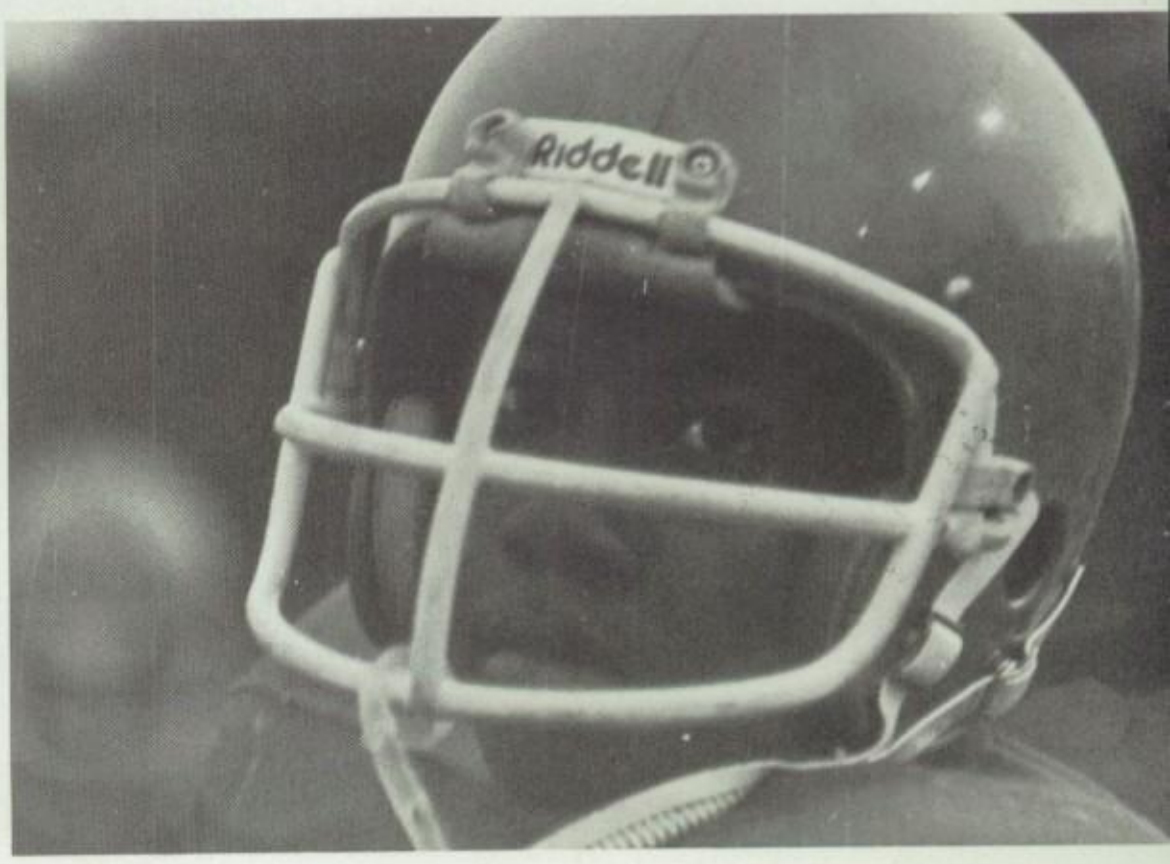
Adding Variety to KHS

As the base of the classes, the freshman class is often looked down upon. However, these students give KHS a bit of spice with their new ideas and innovations. They are an essential ingredient in the composition of Kewanee High. Although they may be new at KHS, they have something to contribute to the final outcome—and that is themselves. The school would not be complete without that special ingredient, Freshmen.

Freshmen were given their first chance to participate in pep assemblies and games. Diane DeConinck demonstrates her ability to cheer at a basketball game.

Freshman class officers: Pat Sullivan, Pres.; Lisa Smith, Vice-Pres.; Kelleen Schiltz, Treas.; Jill Hankins, Sec.



Getting involved brings the freshmen into the swing of high school life. Participating on the freshman football team, Keith Jordan helped the boys to build a fighting team.

Leaving a pep assembly, Freshmen Missy Welch surveys the crowd.

Jenny Petersen, Kathy Webb, and Jenny Urquisa get information in the library.

Freshmen quickly learned that the library was a privilege offered at high school. These two freshman work in the library during a free period.

Now a familiar sight to sophomores, the halls are filled with smiling faces. Lori Hampton and Shari Stark smile on their way to study hall.

Gaining Experiences

In 1979-80, students gained many memories to add to their remembrances of high school years. Throughout the year, the students supported their peers in athletics and showed their Boiler Pride in pep assemblies. Students experienced times of pressure and times of pleasure; moments of victory, and moments of sorrow. And at the end of the year, along with accomplishments, many students felt sorry that it was all over. The year 1979-80—a year filled with experiences.

Making a sign, Mark Kelley uses the abilities he has developed in art class.

These students react to a suggestion given in a student council meeting.

On hat day, Boyd Davis and John Hodge walk through the halls surrounded by various types of hats.

At the first football pep assembly, the Boilers introduced their "mascot" to bring them luck throughout their season. In the line up for the Boilers, Mike McBride, David Morrell, and Bob Petty prepare to play their first game of the season.

Coming back to school in the fall can bring a smile to even a senior's face.

Going to McDonald's® is almost as much a part of school as going to class. You've made us the place to meet, to talk, to have a good time, to celebrate your victories and help forget defeats. You've made McDonald's more than just another place to eat. And that's why, at McDonald's, we do it all for you.

Mark,
You really helped me
me fit into High school
this year which I appreciate
'cause alot of freshmen have a hard time fitting in.
Well maybe I'll see you this summer.
Well stay Crazy.

Love ya,
Carol
Martin

Hey meat!
Nice to meet you, dude.
It was great to know you in football, we had fun no? Hi, big guy, I won't forget
this year! It was great no?
Have the best future.

meat.
Sure had fun this year in football and track. I hope
Baseball will be fun this summer. Good luck in the future. and I'll see ya around

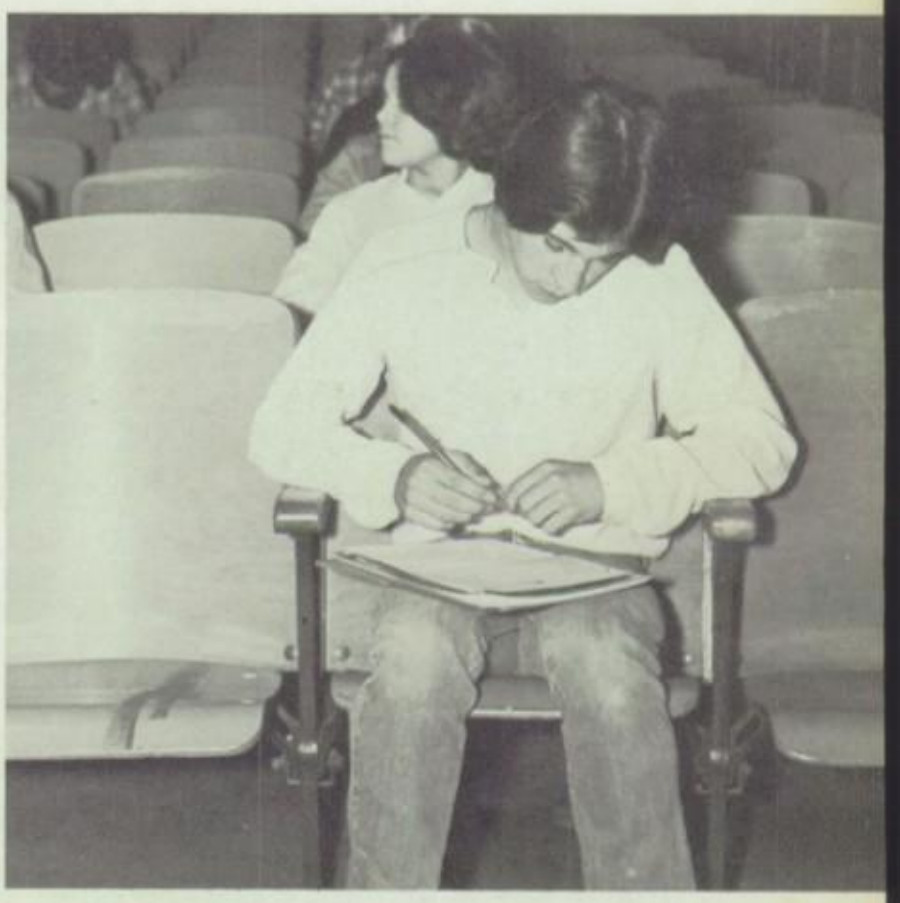
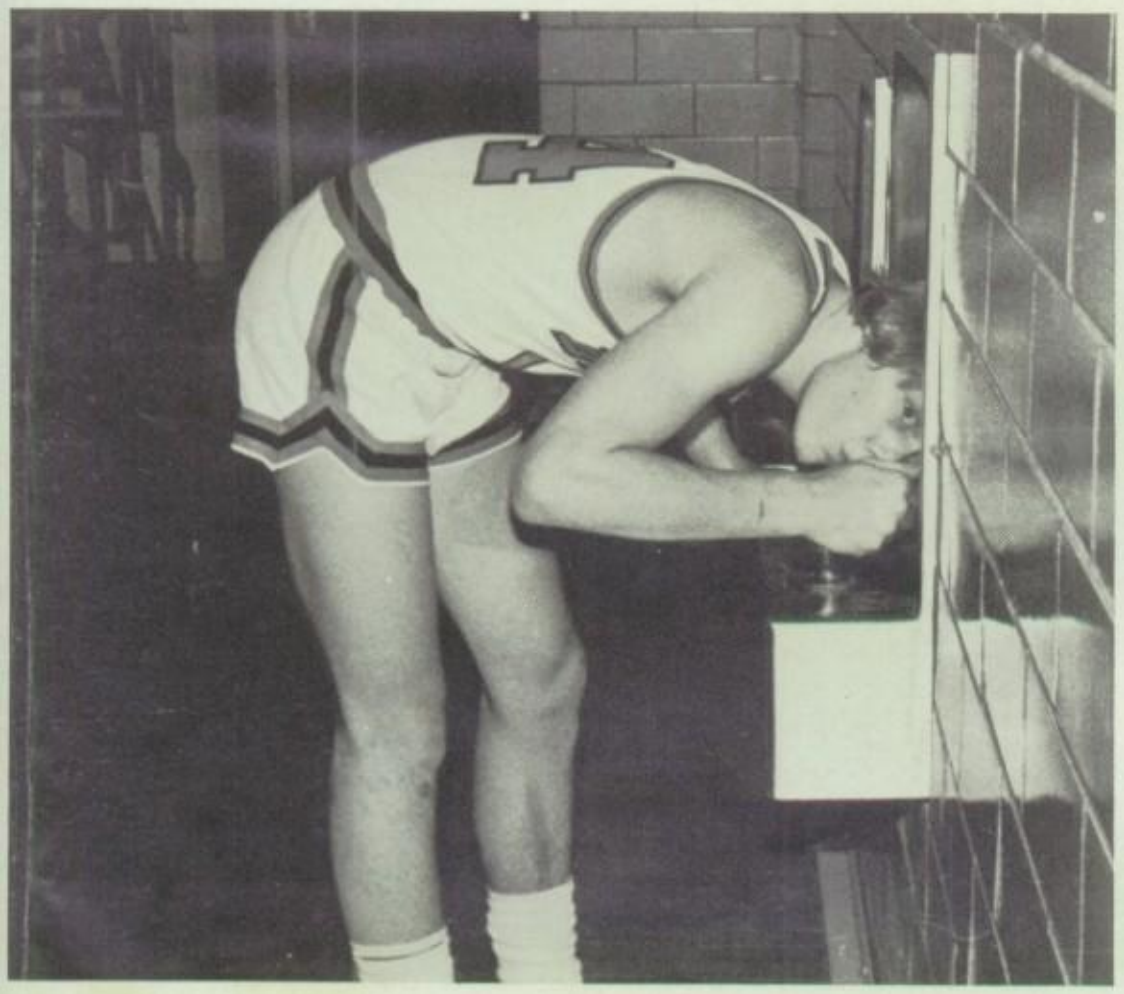
At Happy Joe's, Key Club members were officially pinned into the organization.

Toward the end of the hour, Tami Shinkevich and Nick Tavares prepare to leave the library. The library was open as an option to study hall for all students.

Leaving school after a late basketball practice, Leatha Roesner starts for home with an armload of homework.

Study hall gave students time to do their assignments and cut down on their homework.





As a teacher's aid, Charlie DeMay files through papers on Mr. Fulton's desk.

Staging Memories

Final showing: May 29, 1980. In the fall of 1979, this date seemed a long way off. But looking back, the time went by all too quickly. At the beginning of the year, new faces blended in with more familiar ones to form the cast of the 1979-80 showing. The script called for the usual opening—the football season. After Homecoming and a disappointing football season, students became adjusted to the new routine of their lives. On November 27th, the boy's basketball team played their first home game. This was a start of a record-setting season for boy's varsity basketball at KHS. Also the girls varsity team started up their season and played a series of wins. Exams and mini-courses fell into place in early January and reminded students that the year was already half over. Being very involved in school activities by now, the cast didn't seem to notice how quickly time passed until Prom came around. In only a few weeks the school year would come to an end and a feeling of accomplishment would reside in those who helped produce it. Each student played a role in making this year a unique and special one.

The setting for this year's showing, which now fades into memory, played an important part in the production of the year. Besides being an educational institution, KHS was a place where friends met to build relationships and gather memories. The building may seem vague in a student's mind, but the name is unforgettable. This time and place became so much a part of our lives: Kewanee High School, 1979-1980.
